STOCK POOLS PLAY GAME WITH MARKED CARDS

Former Counsel for Senate Committee's Investigation Assails Market Practices in Long Report.

MAKES NO FORMAL RECOMMENDATIONS

William A. Gray Cites Danger of National Banks' 'Gambling' Through Affiliated Companies.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Per A. Rockefeller and other "insiders" who operated in stock markets were charged with "playing a game with marked cards" in a report made by William A. Gray, the first counsel in charge of Senate Banking and Currency Committee's investigation of stock market practices.

Gray, who has been succeeded by Raymond P. Brandt, made no formal recommendations to the committee. His report was sent to the committee Feb. 18 and was made public last night.

Gray reported that "that will be no doubt in the minds of the committee that powerful interests, operating on a large scale in the stock market, can so manipulate the market and control the price of stock in normal times as to accomplish almost any desired result."

Among the practices investigated by Gray was committee counsel for short selling, syndicate operations; manipulation of prices; control of the market by "insiders"; dealings by officers and directors in stocks of corporations they managed; the use of "inside" information by officers of a company for their own profit; the use of market prices; connection with pool operations; the operations of so-called investment banks and the use of improper publicity to aid market manipulations.

Details of disclosures. Gray's report recited in detail the disclosures before the committee. The disclosures were given wide publicity at the time. He singled out for special condemnation Per A. Rockefeller, William Fox, the National City Bank and its affiliates. Commenting on the National City Bank's activities in the selling of second copper stock by a "high pressure campaign" in 1929, Gray said:

"The National City Bank is, of course, a national institution and under the law as it exists today it may not conduct such dealings or engage in such transactions as have been pictured but it may, as it does in this instance, do this very thing under the guise of an affiliated company. The right to do this has never been questioned, and if a national bank has a right to do this under the law as it exists at the present time, it is respectfully suggested that it should be by the proper legislation, depriving of this right a national bank, if permitted through an affiliated company to gamble in stock market transactions, jeopardizes not only the money of the investing public who buy its stock, but may very well be said to be jeopardizing the money of its depositors who have placed their money in the bank on the faith of the protection it afforded them by the laws which surround national banks."

"Every stockholder in the National City Bank owns a proportionate amount of stock in the National City Co., and it is plainly evident that any losses or profits sustained by the National City Co. are a resultant loss or gain to the stockholders of the National City Bank. In plain words, the National City Bank, which was never intended to have the authority to gamble in the stock market, was permitted, through the subterfuge of an affiliated company, owned and controlled by stockholders of the National City Bank, to gamble in the stock market. This would seem to be a dangerous practice."

"It was never intended that such a distributing center for stocks and bonds or as a medium through which public funds, whether invested in the stocks of such institutions or deposited in the bank, should be led to the profit of such stockholders and depositors, might very well lead to the ultimate bankruptcy and dissolution of the institution."

The banking legislation sponsored by the committee, which is now before the Senate, would prohibit such practices.

Gambler and His Trick Sleeve Device

ARTHUR L. MILLER, gambler, with his home-made "arm and leg" holdout device. Miller, who hails from Columbus, O., says all he has to do is to spread his knees apart and flick an ace, or whatever might be necessary, out of his sleeve. Miller was arrested with another man at Twentieth and Olive streets and the device was found in his room at a hotel on Olive near Grand boulevard. Another man was arrested at the room. Miller said he came to St. Louis after having a bad run of luck elsewhere.

HITLERITE TROOPS CRUSADE AGAINST JEWS IN GERMANY

All Doctors and Attendants of That Race in The Berlin City Hospitals Are Ousted.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. BERLIN, March 17.—All Jewish physicians and attendants in Berlin municipal hospitals were ordered discharged today by Federal Commissioner Lippert, an appointee of Chancellor Hitler.

Prof. Hermann Zondek, noted specialist on internal diseases who treated Josef Stalin some time ago, was ousted as chief of the Urban Hospital by an armed band of National Socialist storm troopers. He fled from the city.

The Nazi Law Association passed a resolution demanding eviction of "members of foreign races" as judges, prosecutors and members of the bar.

Prof. Lokalanzeiger, outstanding Nationalist publication, hailed the decision of Prof. Albert Einstein not to return to Germany.

"It is good news that Einstein is not coming back," Lokalanzeiger said. "He never was a German, anyway."

Bruno Walter Barred From Conducting Concert in Berlin. By the Associated Press. BERLIN, March 17.—The Vossische Zeitung says that Bruno Walter, who recently returned from the United States, where he conducted the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, will not be permitted to conduct a Berlin Philharmonic concert here next Monday, at which Duolina Giannini, an American, is scheduled to sing.

A Leipzig dispatch yesterday told of a bar placed by the Minister of Interior on a concert at which Walter was to have conducted last night, and in view of that regulation the authorities would not permit a Jew to conduct at next week's concert. Vossische Zeitung said the action was taken because of objections by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, National Socialist, who heads the Propaganda Ministry.

WORKING TO PAY RENT, FALLS FROM 3D FLOOR WINDOW

Unemployed Accountant Is Injured When Hook Holding His Safety Belt Pulls Out.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. Carroll Olmstead, an unemployed accountant, was injured seriously this afternoon when he fell from the third floor of an apartment house at 4065 West Pine boulevard while washing the windows to pay his rent.

Olmstead, who is 23, told police he shared a room in the apartment with another man, and because he was behind in his rent, had been allowed to help the custodian. He was standing on a window ledge washing the window when a hook, to which he had attached an improvised safety belt, pulled out, causing him to fall. He landed on a pile of old bed springs in a vacant lot on the east side of the building.

Hospital physicians said Olmstead had suffered fractures of the right arm and leg, and skull injuries. His father, John Olmstead, lives at Bonne Terre, Mo.

75 PER CENT OF BANKS IN U. S. REPORTED IN FULL OPERATION

New York State Raises Limit on Withdrawals of Savings From $25 to $250.

NEW YORK, March 17.—About 83 per cent of the banks in New York State, and 75 per cent or more of those in the nation are in full operation today, bankers report.

State Banking Superintendent Joseph A. Broderick ruled last night that savings bank depositors might withdraw $250 each a week, instead of $25, the limit hitherto in force. In case of necessity, the savings banks may pay out even more than this, and depositors may obtain checks for larger amounts from the savings banks for completion of business contracts.

17 TREATED IN DAY FOR DOG BITES; 9 OF THEM CHILDREN

Total of Cases in Less Than Two Weeks 161 — Humane Society Kills Many Animals.

21 WITH RABIES PUT TO DEATH

Four of the Five Employees of Organization Take Pasteur Treatment After Being Attacked.

Seventeen persons, including nine children, were treated for dog bites yesterday, bringing the total of such cases reported during the last 12 days to 161.

Under orders issued by Acting Mayor Neun and Health Commissioner Starkloff extra crews of dog catchers set out today to round up unmuzzled and unlicensed dogs. Dogs walking with owners must either be muzzled or on a leash to escape the dog catcher's net. Police also have joined in the campaign, warning dog owners to keep their pets off the streets.

Facilities of the Humane Society have been taxed to the limit the past week as a result of the general fear of rabies. More than 100 daily requests to destroy dogs and cats have been received and carried out, said Eric Hansen, director of the society. Of the animals developed recently by the Humane Society, 21 were found to have rabies. Four of the five employees of the Humane Society have been bitten by mad dogs, and are receiving Pasteur treatment. The Humane Society kills the animals with carbon monoxide gas from the exhaust of the trucks in which they are transported.

Veronica Gotch, 13, 1600 North Eighth street, was bitten on the legs by a mother dog while tending the dog's puppies in the basement of the Gotch home yesterday. She was treated at City Hospital. The dog sought refuge in the basement several days ago, before the puppies were born.

Two supposedly rabid dogs were shot by police yesterday. One animal led officers in two radio cars on a chase from Kingshighway Northeast through Fallon Park to Pope avenue, before it was cornered in an alley and killed. The other dog was shot in a yard in the 1100 block of Carr street.

As has been told, there were three deaths from rabies recently, one of a 4-year-old boy in St. Louis, and two railroad men in East St. Louis.

Eight counties in Illinois Placed Under Quarantine. Eight counties in Illinois have been placed under quarantine to combat the spread of rabies which has developed from Kingshighway Northeast through Fallon Park to Pope avenue, before it was cornered in an alley and killed. The other dog was shot in a yard in the 1100 block of Carr street.

The counties under these restrictions are St. Clair, Pulaski, Alexander, Union, Jackson, Perry, Fayette and Clay. Police authorities in each township have received orders to kill stray dogs not bearing a tag.

In East St. Louis all dogs must be kept on the owner's premises regardless of whether they are inoculated or muzzled. Mayor Doyle decreed today. The order states that any officer of the law neglecting to shoot a stray dog will be subject to a fine of from $10 to $50. Police shot 75 stray dogs in East St. Louis this week.

O. T. Hayer, deputy chief veterinarian of the Illinois State Department, who has come to East St. Louis to direct the fight against rabies, said that the State appropriation for inoculation with the Pasteur treatment is practically exhausted. The cost for each treatment is $17.50.

WALLACE ESTIMATES FARM BILL PROCESS TAX COST TO CONSUMER AT PROBABLY $800,000,000 A YEAR

HOUSE TAX PAID MARCH 15 $1,011,000 MORE THAN IN 1932

Total Payments This Month So Far Have Amounted to $34,082,240.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 17.—Income tax collections for March 15 exceeded the amount collected on March 15 a year ago by about $1,011,000.

In making public these figures today, the Treasury said also that the collections for this month thus far were approximately $2,000,000 more than for the same number of days last March.

The tax payments tabulated for March 15 amounted to $13,659,901, as compared with $12,648,765 a year ago. For this month income tax has amounted to $34,082,240, as compared with $32,071,518 for the same period a year ago. Since last July 1, the tax for the fiscal year has amounted to $417,414,269, as compared with $396,175,961 the previous year.

Shares rallied after early profit-taking, but slipped off again when wheat and corn weakened. Trading in stocks was quiet, however, the volume being little more than half of yesterday's turnover. Brokers viewed the reaction as a normal aftermath of the Wednesday and Thursday advance.

Net losses for some shares ranged from $1 to more than $3. Ralls showed temporary resistance, but later gave way moderately. Closing prices were generally the day's lows.

Cotton lost more than $1 a bale. Its decline, as well as that of grains, was partly attributed to uncertainty over farm relief legislation.

NEW WILMINGTON, PA., BANKER SHOTS HIMSELF TO DEATH

His Deputy Open Under Restrictive Note Left Refers to Life Insurance. By the Associated Press. NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 17.—Howell (City), 50 years old, president of the First National Bank of New Wilmington, shot and killed himself in a field near Mercer today.

The bank reopened this week on a restricted basis. Employees said they were anticipating permission to operate without restriction either tomorrow or Monday.

The First National is the only bank in New Wilmington. Getty left a note saying that with $50,000 insurance which the bank had on his life, it could be permitted to reopen and be as strong as ever.

The bank had opened with restricted operations after the banking holiday. C. M. Mercer, president of the bank, said there was no shortage in Getty's accounts.

HOUSE REJECTS SENATE'S THREE AMENDMENTS TO BEER MEASURE

Bill Now Goes to Conference to Compromise Difference—3.2 or 3.05 Per Cent Brew Is Chief Point of Contention.

BARRING SALE TO MINORS ATTACKED

Democratic Leadership Aims to Have Measure Ready for Signing Monday So as to Become Effective April 4.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Notwithstanding sharp disagreement between House and Senate over certain provisions in the beer bill, Chairman Pat Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee declared emphatically that the measure "will be law by Monday night."

It cannot be passed before Monday, because the Senate will be in recess until then, and hence cannot choose its members of the conference committee which will endeavor to iron out the differences. The House sent the bill to conference this afternoon.

The bill which passed the House Monday was amended by the Senate in three important particulars, to wit:

The legal alcoholic content of beer was reduced from 3.2 per cent to 3.05.

"Wine" of 3.05 per cent was included.

It was made unlawful to sell or give 3.05 per cent beer or wine to any person under 16 years of age.

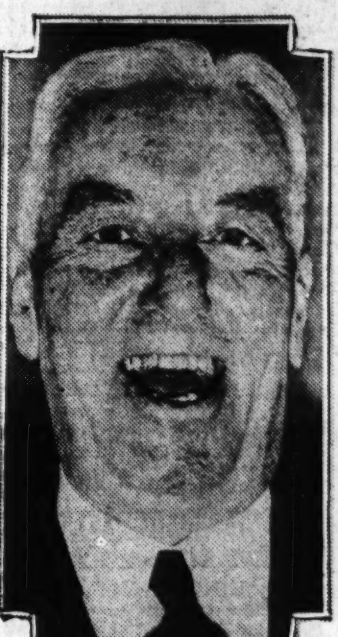

Concerning the amendment including 3.05 per cent "wine," House leaders were indifferent, since it is almost unanimously agreed that there is no such thing. Experts have declared it is a scientific impossibility to arrest the fermentation of wine at such a low stage, and that nobody would drink it if it were possible.

House Likely to Insist. Against the other two amendments, however, feeling ran high in the House, and it appeared possible that the lower chamber would insist on its original bill. This impression was strengthened when it was disclosed that three of the five House conferees would be pronounced anti-prohibitionist. The five are Cullen of New York, author of the original bill; the former Massachusetts and Doughton of North Carolina, Democrats; Watson of Pennsylvania and Treadway of Massachusetts, Republicans. Only Doughton and Treadway ever have been classified as prohibitionists and Treadway voted for 3.2 beer.

The hope of House leaders that Senate conferees would be chosen unofficially today, and that the actual, although informal, work of the committee would proceed at once, was frustrated when Harrison disclosed there had been some difficulty in choosing the members, and that he had not decided whether to name three or five.

ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL AFTER FAMILY QUARREL

Jobless Man Threatens Others in House and Fires Shot Into Wall.

After threatening members of his family and firing a shot into the wall, Francis E. Eymann, 44 years old, unemployed chauffeur, shot and killed himself last evening at his home, 6816 West Park avenue.

The shooting was preceded by a quarrel, which started when Eymann slapped his daughter, Isabelle, 9, for a minor infraction of household rules. Mrs. Eymann remonstrated with her husband, and he became enraged, she said.

He rushed to the basement for his revolver, firing a bullet into the basement wall. Returning to the living room, he pointed the revolver at his wife and her sister, Miss Isabelle Baker. When Mrs. Eymann's son by a former marriage, Edward Kellerman, announced that he intended to call police, Eymann threatened to kill him. Eymann then sat in a chair, placed the revolver to his head and pulled the trigger. He was dead, with the revolver still in his hand, when police arrived.

Eymann had been despondent since losing his job several weeks ago, his wife informed police.

COCHRAN PRESIDES OVER HOUSE WEARS GREEN TIE AND IS HONORED ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, March 17.—In recognition of St. Patrick's Day, Speaker Rainey this afternoon invited Representative John J. Cullen of St. Louis, who is of Irish descent, to preside over the House during debate on the beer bill.

Cochran, wearing a bright green necktie, took the gavel and pounded vigorously for order while his colleagues gave him an ovation.

At the White House it was said that reaction to the President's message of yesterday and to the bill was slow in coming, and that no protests had been received. Members of Congress were beginning to hear from constituents on both sides of the question.

SENATE WAITS ON HOUSE TO ACT AS RELIEF MEASURE IS REVENUE BILL

Secretary of Agriculture Considers Cost "More Than Justified" If Farm Prices Are Raised to Parity With Industrial Prices.

SEVEN FARM GROUPS URGE QUICK PASSAGE

Indications House Committee Will Push Bill for Prompt Passage but Trouble Is Likely in the Senate.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 17.—A decision that the presidential farm relief program constituted revenue raising threw Congress into single file today, with the Senate to follow the House in attacking the problem. An appeal for immediate action had been sent to the Senate and House Agriculture committees by seven farm organizations.

The Senate committee decided the revenue features of the bill required that it originate in the House and withhold any action until the bill is passed there.

Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader and former chairman of the Agriculture Committee, told newspaper men that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had advised the committee the bill might "cost the consumer $800,000,000 a year."

Wallace said this cost, which he set as a maximum, would be "more than justified" if it restored farm prices to a parity with industrial prices.

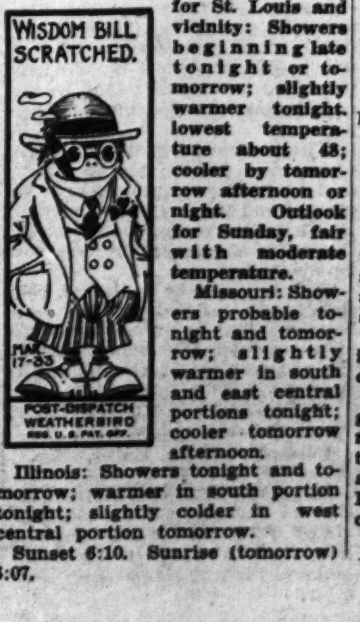

"Delay Will Be Fatal." The farm organizations' statement concluded with the assertion that "delay will be fatal." It was signed by groups including the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, Farmers' Education and Co-operative Union, Farmers' National Grain Corporation, American Cotton Co-operative Association, National Livestock Marketing Association and National Committee of Farm Organizations.

In the House, plans proceeded for early action on the bill. It was hoped early today to get House action tomorrow but House adjournment late today until Monday postponed consideration until next week.

The Agriculture Committee arranged to hear from Administration advisors an explanation of the bill. Secretary Wallace, after a morning appearance before the Senate Committee, was ready to appear before the House committee.

At the White House it was said that reaction to the President's message of yesterday and to the bill was slow in coming, and that no protests had been received. Members of Congress were beginning to hear from constituents on both sides of the question.

ECONOMY BILL LIKELY TO BECOME LAW ON MONDAY

Week-End Adjournment of Senate Before Garner Can Sign It, Delays Action by President.

SPEAKER RAINEY AFFIXES SIGNATURE

Veterans' Field Stations Ordered to Quit Making Awards Pending Further Instructions.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 17.—Speaker Rainey today signed the Roosevelt $500,000,000 economy bill. It will have to be signed by Vice-President Garner before it goes to the White House, probably Monday.

Rainey told newspaper men that because the Senate adjourned over the week-end, it would be impossible to send the bill to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature until Monday. Under the rules, the Senate has to be in session when the Vice-President signs bills passed by Congress.

The House yesterday concurred in all the Senate amendments by a vote of 373 to 19.

The first step at this session in the new President's budget-balancing program, it gives him the authority, only slightly limited, to reduce allowances to veterans, Federal salaries and other expenditures. Presidential approval was expected to make it law before night, but the Senate recessed until Monday too quickly for Vice President Garner to affix his necessary signature.

In the House many members changed the positions they took when the economy bill first passed last week. The vote then was 286 to 138 for it.

Leaders attributed the changes to demands by constituents for support of the President in his plan to balance the budget by economies, reorganization and the legalizing and taxation of beer.

The veterans' administration today instructed its field stations to discontinue making determinations or awards in veterans' cases pending instructions from President Roosevelt concerning the extent of economies to be put into effect under the economy bill.

expressed himself as "willing to go along with them." Some Senators expected there would be efforts to limit the bill to a few commodities.

Senate committee members were divided on the prospects for passage. Many indicated belief the bill would have to be revised. Wallace's explanation, members said, brought statements that the balancing fee proposal would be objectionable, while others felt that, as prices of agricultural commodities rose, the rental price of land to be taken out of production also would increase.

There is a scattered undercurrent of hostility toward the measure in the Senate. Senators Russell of Georgia and Long of Louisiana have indicated dislike for the speed with which the Senate is acting; others say they propose a halt in "rubber-stamping procedure."

Farm Groups Favor Bill.

The seven farm organizations which joined in a statement addressed to the two committees, said:

"The administration's farm bill pending before your committees today is in accord with policies advocated by farm organizations for several years and agrees with the outline of principles for surplus control and stabilization of prices between agricultural and industrial prices as agreed upon last Friday by representatives of farm groups.

"We trust your committees will report this bill promptly and then urge Congress to enact it immediately in order that its provisions may be applicable to crops that are now ready for planting and harvest.

"Delay will be fatal."

Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, told newspaper men that he favored the measure.

"It is not only a step in the right direction but it opens the door for the necessary flexible changes to make it work on each given commodity," he said.

Based on Recommendations.

Based on recommendations of farm organization leaders and editors, the bill would place in the hands of Secretary Wallace sweeping powers to deal with the problems of low prices and surplus production. The program has flexibility, empowering Wallace to employ parts or all of several plans, including the Smith cotton method, the principles of the domestic allotment bill, leasing of lands to retire them from production and trade agreements.

Through the co-operative agreements between producers and processors, Wallace is hopeful of accomplishing the purpose of the program. He has conferred with representatives of millers, packers, cotton spinners and others and expresses himself as confident of winning their support.

PRE-WAR FARM PRICES— OBJECT OF THE NEW BILL— AND FEBRUARY AVERAGE

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 17.—COMPARISON of the pre-war level of farm products—the goal of the Roosevelt farm relief plan—prices paid in February for some of the principal commodities covered by the bill, as estimated by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics (in cents):

Commodity	1909-14 Feb. Average	1933 Feb. Average
Corn per bushel	12.4	6.5
Wheat per bushel	35.4	22.8
Beef cattle per lb.	5.20	3.31
Hogs per lb.	7.24	2.94
Butter per pound	25.05	18.4
Butterfat per lb.	26.3	15.8
Lamb per lb.	5.90	4.19

source of revenue proposed to provide funds to finance the program. From it payments in the form of rentals or benefits, or both, could be paid to farmers in return for agreement to curtail production, or to give growers options on these in return for production cuts. Enhancement of the value of cotton theoretically would benefit the grower and option-holder.

Restoration of Prices Object.

Restoration of farm prices to the 1909-1914 pre-war level is the goal. If and when that goal was attained, the plan would go out of operation. The processors tax, if levied in the maximum amount, would be in an amount equal to the difference between the pre-war level and current market prices.

The President asserted that the measure "offers great promise of good results," adding:

Text of the President's Farm Message to Congress:

"The text of the President's message to Congress follows:

"At the same time that you and I are joining in emergency action to bring order to our banks, to make our regular Federal expenditures balance income, I deem it of equal importance to take other and simultaneous steps without waiting for a later meeting of the Congress. One of these is of definite, constructive importance to our economic recovery.

"It relates to agriculture and seeks to increase the purchasing power of our farmers and the consumption of articles manufactured in our industrial communities, and at the same time greatly to relieve the pressure of farm mortgages and to increase the asset value of farm loans made by our banking institutions.

"Deep study and the joint counsel of many points of view have produced a measure which offers great promise of good results. I tell you frankly that it is a new and untried path, but I tell you with equal frankness that an unprecedented condition calls for the trial of new means to rescue agriculture.

"If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped for results, I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you.

"The proposed legislation is necessary now for the simple reason that the spring crops will soon be planted and if we wait for another month or six weeks the effect on the prices of this year's crops will be wholly lost.

"Furthermore, by action at this time the United States will be in a better position to discuss problems affecting world crops surpluses at the proposed world economic conference.

STATE BEER LAW SHELVES MISSOURI DRY REPEAL BILL

Speaker Meredith Sure House Won't Pass Measure to Remove McCawley Act From Code.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 17.—In the haste to legalize beer in Missouri, action on repeal of the State bone-dry law has been abandoned, so far as the present session of the Legislature is concerned.

Speaker Meredith of the House said today that he was certain that Senator Brogan's bill for repeal of the McCawley bone-dry law, now in the Senate, would not be passed by the House at this session.

So long as the McCawley law remains, manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages, except beer now in process of legalization, will be forbidden in Missouri. Repeal of the eighteenth amendment by the states will not change this, for the proposed repealing amendment prohibits the transportation or importation into any state of intoxicating liquors "in violation of the laws thereof."

Asks Governor to State Position.

James W. Byrnes of St. Louis, head of the Missouri Association Against Prohibition, has raised this point in a letter to Gov. Park, in which he asks what the Governor intends to do about the McCawley act.

Meanwhile, Missouri's legislative session for repeal of the bone-dry law of the eighteenth amendment is still short of final enactment. The House passed, Feb. 28, the Weeks bill setting up the necessary machinery for convening a constitutional convention, to ratify or reject the repeal amendment. The bill is on the Senate calendar for passage, and may be passed next week.

As to the State bone-dry law, anti-prohibitionists and drys recently agreed, in a House caucus, that if the drys would not oppose the Brogan-Roberts beer bill, their opponents would not push the bone-dry repeal measure at this session. As a result, the repeal measure which originated in the House has been dropped from the calendar.

Representative Lafferty of Kansas City was the author of the repeal bill in the House. In the caucus, more than a month ago, there was discussion of both measures. Representative McCawley said "the drys and semi-drys" were disposed to place no obstacles in the way of the beer bill, but they were not ready to repeal the regulatory and prohibitory provisions of the enforcement act as it applied to whiskey and other intoxicants.

The agreement between wet and drys in the caucus was reached without a formal vote, but no objection was voiced, and it has been accepted by both sides as binding. In accordance with the agreement, the bone-dry law was not taken up for discussion at this session. The drys are now realizing their part of the bargain in the indefinite postponement of the bone-dry repeal measure.

Senator Brogan, author of the Senate bone-dry repeal bill, was not a party to the House caucus agreement, but he was not surprised. Brogan insists that he will pass the bill in the Senate and send it to the Governor, but there seems to be no probability that it will get to a vote in the House.

The Missouri Association Against Prohibition, in the letter written by its president, Byrnes, to the Governor, says that unless the McCawley act is repealed at this session, Missouri will remain a prohibition state, when in fact Missouri is opposed to prohibition by a large majority.

Computes Loss in Revenue.

"Under the eighteenth amendment," Byrnes continues, "Missouri has lost in state and county revenues a liquor tax amounting to $33,345,711. Of this amount, $14,921,634 was direct revenue of the State and $19,024,116 in license tax fees to the 114 counties and the City of St. Louis.

"It is incumbent on the present Legislature to repeal the McCawley bill and set up a liquor control system, that Missouri may be prepared to immediately benefit from the liquor tax as soon as the eighteenth amendment is repealed.

"Information is desired if the Governor will lend the power of his office to repeal the McCawley bill during the present session of the Legislature."

Principal Provisions of Bill For Relief of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, March 17.—PRINCIPAL provisions of the administration emergency farm relief bill now before Congress are:

Permits cotton planters to take options on Government-owned cotton, provided they agree to reduce their 1933 production by at least 30 per cent, and arrange for sale of options at a higher price expected to result from curtailed production.

Gives Secretary of Agriculture power to provide for reduced acreage or production of any basic agricultural commodity through agreements with producers or otherwise, and to provide for rental or benefit payments to the farmers to bring the curtailment about.

Defines wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, cattle, sheep, rice, tobacco and milk as "basic agricultural commodities."

Fixes the payments to farmers.

Effects Expected by Secretary Wallace.

As to the expected effect of the bill, Secretary Wallace, in explaining the measure to reporters, said the new tax to be levied will be so small as to have only a very slight effect on the ultimate retail price of farm products; but, on the other hand, the increased spending by farmers by reason of the tax would increase demand for manufactured products and result in accelerated industrial activity. "As this develops," the Secretary said, "the increased activity will eventually provide city workers with increased incomes far greater than the relatively small increase in their cost of living."

SOVIET ANNOUNCES TRIAL OF BRITONS, REJECTS PROTEST

Warns England It Will Not Be Coerced Into Dropping Charges of Sabotage.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, March 17.—Four British subjects arrested last week by the secret police on charges of sabotage will be placed on public trial within a month, the Foreign Office announces today.

The official communique quoted Litvinoff as having answered an oral protest by the British Ambassador with this declaration: "It would be wrong if this episode should have any effect on the political and commercial relations between Soviet Russia and Great Britain. That would be bad for both countries. But no pressure, no menace will be able to induce the Soviet Government to refrain from enforcing its laws in relation to British subjects."

The four men involved are representatives of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Co., a British concern working in Russia under a contract with the Government. Its offices were raided in Moscow and Leningrad and at the same time several field men were taken into custody for questioning. To date there has been no detailed description of the sabotage of which they are accused.

Their arrest became an issue in the British Parliament and the Ambassador at Moscow was instructed to file a vigorous protest. The burden of his protest was that adequate defense facilities had been denied the prisoners.

The Ambassador invoked the protection of British citizenship, but the Russian Foreign Office contended that all foreign residents in this country were subject to Russian law.

HOUSE PASSES QUAKE RELIEF BILL AFTER CHANGING IT

Measure Revised to Provide Aid by R. F. C.; Sent Back to House for Adjustment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The California earthquake relief bill was passed by the House today, 218 to 152, when it reversed its previous action to send the bill back to the Appropriations Committee. It now goes back to the Senate for adjustment of differences.

The revised bill provides that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation make loans for rehabilitation. It now makes no appropriation for direct relief.

The Senate resolution called for $5,000,000. Chairman Buchanan wrote in the committee's report that the Red Cross had informed the committee it was providing adequate relief.

During debate Snell of New York asked how much money the State of California contributed, and when told "$50,000," said: "California ought to do more than that before coming to the Federal Government to ask for aid."

MOTHER OF WALTON SMITH, NOVELIST, FOUND SHOT DEAD

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 17.—Mrs. Penelope Smith, mother of Walton Hale Smith, novelist, was found shot through the heart in her apartment here this morning. Mrs. Smith sent her Negro houseman for her son. When he arrived he found his mother dead. Smith found in the apartment a note written by his mother on her personal stationery. It said: "If I am alone in the apartment, no one is responsible for this but me."

Mrs. Smith's husband, the late Leon Smith, was president of the Smith-McCord Dry Goods Co. until his death in 1924. She was 57 years old and had been in good health, her son said.

Smith said his mother had been grieving since the death of her daughter, a daughter, Mrs. Richard Nelson.

but which he would borrow for the purpose of delivery in the same manner as would be done in the case of an ordinary short sale.

"The vice of this practice is that it is usually done in another name or in such a manner as to prevent the public from knowing that an officer or director in a certain corporation is disposing of his stock, and inasmuch as he naturally has more definite information as to the value of the stock than the public in general, this is to his advantage and very often to the detriment of the public which buys the stock which he sells without having an opportunity to obtain the knowledge which he possesses. This may or may not be an improper practice, but it is undoubtedly a decided disadvantage to the public who purchase stock to buy the same stock from one who is selling with information which the public cannot obtain. It might be likened very well to the playing of a game of cards with marked cards."

Rockefeller's associates in some of the pool transactions, Matthew Brush and Thomas E. Bragg, were left with two paragraphs each in the report. Brush testified candidly that stocks could be manipulated and gave illustrations of how stocks might be put up just before the closing of the market.

Six pages of the 40-page report were devoted to the intricate operations in Fox Theaters and Fox Films. Regarding one transaction in Fox Theater stock in 1928 when Fox Theaters assumed a loss of $2,000,000 which, Gray said, Fox himself otherwise would have been compelled to stand, the former committee counsel declared:

"Of course, these losses were ultimately borne by the public which owned Fox Theater stock and these transactions are an illustration of the nefarious practices which can be carried out by one who is in control of a corporation to his own advantage and profit and to the detriment of the public which owns a considerable portion of the stock in the companies in question. If regulations were adopted giving publicity to the dealings of officers and directors of corporations in their own stock, either on their own behalf or on behalf of the corporations, the public could be properly informed as to the manner in which the business affairs of the corporation are being conducted and could determine for themselves whether such transactions were to their advantage or their detriment."

Gray cited in detail the charges the New York Stock Exchange made in its rules since the Securities Investigation was announced. His suggestion was that the officers of the "big board" had tried to put their own house in order to forestall Government regulation.

By Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, seeks to divorce affiliated companies from national banks. It was blocked in the House last session.

Gray said that such pool operations as those of Percy Rockefeller and other "insiders" may or may not be an improper practice, but added such practices undoubtedly put the investing public at a decided disadvantage.

"Mr. Rockefeller admitted his connection with certain syndicates or pools," Gray said, "and his testimony developed the fact that among those who engaged in these pool operations were members of brokerage firms which constituted the New York Stock Exchange. These brokers being in a position to obtain inside information regarding the operations on the stock exchange in the particular stocks in which pools were interested. These pools were managed mostly by brokers, and among those who would be interested in the pools were those who were either officers or directors of the corporations whose stocks were made the subject of the pool transactions.

"Mr. Rockefeller also stated that he, himself, had engaged in the practice of selling against the box, in other words, the selling of stock he did not own but did not deliver,

CONGRESSMEN ROMJUE, CANNON IN A FIGHT; FORMER EFFORT TO HUSH UP THE AFFAIR

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 17.—Representative Milton A. Romjue, Mo., was confined to home yesterday as the result of a fight Wednesday night with Representative Clarence Cannon, Mo. The news of the fight leaked out despite efforts of members of the Missouri delegation to hush up the affair.

According to Representative Cannon, an eye-witness, the fight broke out on the first floor of the House of Representatives Building about 6 p. m. and, after a few sharp words, Cannon said Romjue suffered cuts on the left eye and on the forehead, that he (Lundeen) separated men.

Missouri associates of the two men said they had been in the House of Representatives for years, and the district plan they represented joint constituencies in North Missouri, and the new redistricting plan would affect both. They have differed over Missouri's candidate for the Democratic Committee of the House.

Cannon refused to talk about the fight, answering all questions with "I know nothing about it." At Romjue's home, the telephone was said to have been instructed by Mrs. Romjue to say that neither she nor Representative Romjue would talk to newspaper men.

AYS CITY MUST CUT $4,610,000 OFF NEW BUDGET

Director of Bureau of Municipal Research Urges Cut in Expenses in Order to Balance Finances.

PROPOSES REDUCTION OF ABOUT 22 PCT.

W. Atkins Makes Report to Board of Estimate—Puts This Year's Deficit at $961,000.

Municipal expenditures in the fiscal year starting April 11 must be cut $4,610,000 less than estimated expenditures for the year now ending, if the budget is to be balanced and the city is to operate within its income, in the opinion of W. Atkins, director of the Bureau of Municipal Research.

Atkins, who has studied the city's income and expenses, made this declaration in a statement presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in a budget hearing.

His calculation was based on an anticipated considerable curtailment of receipts in the coming year. The bureau is a private organization of citizen inquiry.

The deficit, Atkins estimated, will be $961,000 when the year ends. The Comptroller's office expects the deficit to be about $1,000,000.

It remains for the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, composed of Mayor Meyer, Comptroller and Aldermen, to determine whether expenditures shall be curbed enough to reduce or wipe out the deficit, which, to a large extent, is a matter of bookkeeping.

Receipts for the current year are placed by Atkins at $19,840,000, but by the deficit of $651,799 on the fiscal year started last April. He figures net available revenue in the coming year as $15,539,100. His estimate of expenditures for the current year is $20,150,000, a surplus of $4,610,000.

Revenue for the coming year, Atkins estimates, will consist of the following items: $15,539,100; Property tax, after deducting 30 per cent of the levy for anticipated delinquency, $9,485,700; delinquent tax payments for past years, $2,000,000; miscellaneous revenue, transfers and refunds, $3,600,000.

The suggested reduction of expenditures would be 22.9 per cent under those of the present year on the average. Atkins pointed out that expenses of the Police Department, Fire Department, Engineering, Public Works, and other departments are not subject to city control, though the city must bear them. If these departments fail to reduce their expenditures, the city's budgetary balance will be reduced by 28.9 per cent, or $3,525,000, under the current year. Atkins declared, if the budget is to be balanced.

The Police Board has not presented its new budget demand. If it requires the same amount as in the present year—$5,525,887—and the other departments not under city control get the same reduction, Atkins said, there will be only $1,732,731 left for the city department, Atkins said. The task of making a 28.9 per cent reduction in the accounts of the city departments would be serious and difficult, Atkins went on. He said it would require elimination of every unnecessary job, curtailment of every desirable service and rigid economy in essential activities.

The ordinance for improved budget control, passed recently, will be effective in time for adoption for the coming year. Atkins recommended that one feature of it, provision for quarterly allotment of funds, be followed informally.

The Board of Estimate, consisting of Acting Mayor Neum, Comptroller and Aldermen, will meet today to act on the budget. Atkins said that the Board of Estimate, made up of Mayor Neum, Comptroller and Aldermen, made no comment on Atkins' statement. Final action on the budget will remain for the administration to be selected April 4.

This was the second of three budget hearings. No one spoke at the first. The date for the third hearing was not fixed. ADVISES REDUCTION

Municipal expenditures in the fiscal year starting April 1 must be about $4,610,000 less than estimated disbursements for the year now ending, if the budget is to be balanced and the city is to operate within its income, in the opinion of W. Atkins, director of the Bureau of Municipal Research.

Atkins, who has studied the city's income and expenses, made this declaration in a statement presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in a budget hearing today. His calculation was based on an anticipated considerable curtailment of receipts in the coming year. The bureau is a private organization of citizen inquiry.

It remains for the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, composed of the Mayor, Comptroller and Aldermen, to determine whether the expenditures should be curbed enough to reduce or wipe out the deficit, which, to a large extent, is a matter of bookkeeping.

$15,000,000 Possible Reserve.
Receipts for the current year were placed by Atkins at $19,840,799 when the fiscal year started last April. He figures net available revenue in the coming year as $15,550,000. His estimate of expenditures for the current year is $20,150,000, hence the conclusion that disbursements must be trimmed by $4,610,000 to balance the budget.

Revenue for the coming year, Atkins estimates, will consist of the following items, aggregating $16,270,000: Property tax, after deducting 30 per cent of the levy for delinquent delinquency, $9,485,700; delinquent tax payments for past years, $2,000,000; merchants' and manufacturers' taxes and other licenses, $2,000,000; miscellaneous revenue, transfers and refunds, $3,785,300.

The suggested reduction of expenditures would be 22 per cent under those of the present year on the average. Atkins pointed out that expenses of the Police Department, Sheriff, Election Board, Library, and courts are not subject to city control, though the city must bear them. If these departments fail to reduce their expenditures, disbursements of the city-controlled departments must be reduced by 28.9 per cent, or $3,725,525, under the current year, Atkins declared, if the budget is to be balanced.

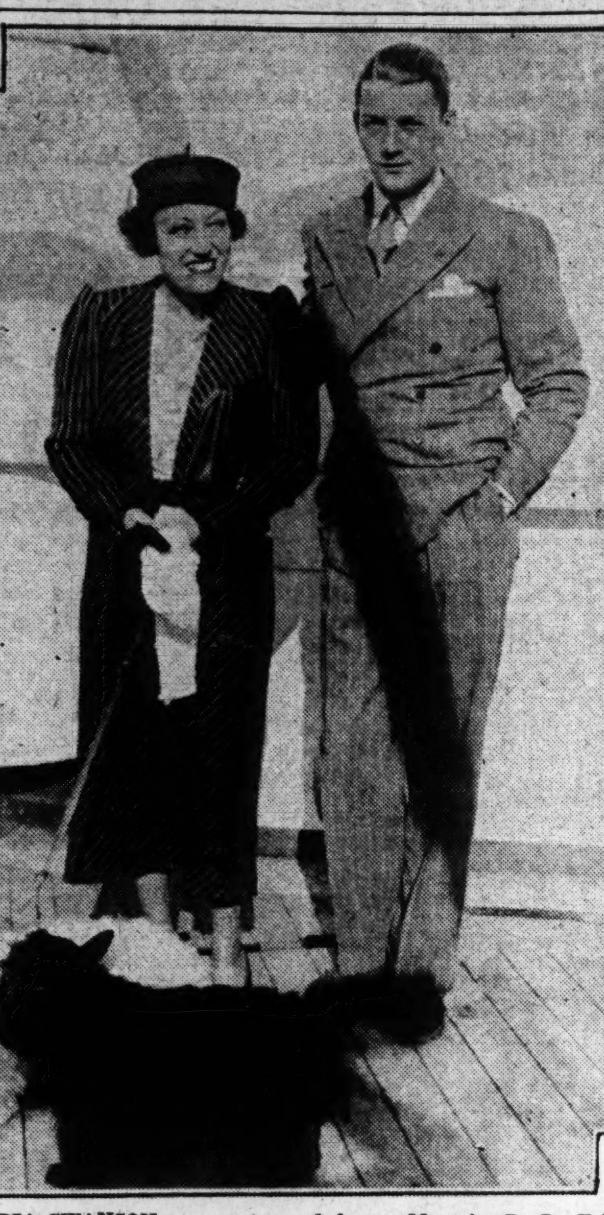

Police Department Finances.
The Police Board has not presented its new budget demand. If it requires the same amount as in the current year—$5,525,897—and the other departments not under city control get the $1,231,313 they have called for, there will be only $2,721,171 left for the city departments, Atkins said. The task of making a 28.9 per cent reduction in the accounts of the city departments would be serious and difficult, Atkins went on. He said it would require elimination of every unnecessary job, cutting of many desirable services and rigid economy in essential activities.

The ordinance for improved budget control, passed recently, will be effective in time for adoption for the coming year. Atkins recommended that one feature of it, provision for quarterly allotment of funds, be followed informally. The Board of Estimate, consisting of Acting Mayor Neun, Comptroller and Acting President Kuhs of the Board of Aldermen, made no comment on Atkins' statement. Final action on the budget will remain for the administration to be decided April 4.

HOUSE TURNS DOWN
OF THE SENATE

of safety to enable them to keep within the law. If the figure of 3.05 is adopted, they will be compelled, for their own safety, to make beer containing less than 3 per cent alcohol."

"Is there any such thing as 3.2 per cent or 3.05 per cent wine?" asked Treadway. "It might be possible temporarily to produce a liquid from grapes which contained 3.05 per cent of alcohol, but no man with a civilized palate would call it wine," the New Yorker replied.

The Borah amendment, prohibiting the sale or gift of beer or wine to persons under 16, he continued, was at once the most absurd and the most dangerous provision in the Senate bill. How the Senate could declare 3.05 per cent beer non-intoxicating, and then make it a crime to sell or give it to children, was beyond his comprehension, O'Connor declared.

"But that is not the worst aspect of this amendment," he said. Under it, the same system of Federal spying and snooping which has made prohibition so obnoxious, would be prolonged. Under it, a father in his own home could be arrested for giving a child a teaspoonful of 3.05 per cent beer or grape juice. If there is to be any regulation of this character, it should be by the states."

"Isn't it a fact," asked McFarland, dry Texas Democrat, "that this amendment would also interfere with the campaign through which the brewers are educating the youth of America to get drunk on beer?"

Representative Lee, a newcomer from Missouri, leaped into the fray. "The youth of America," he shouted, "has already been educated by prohibition to get drunk on rotgut liquor and bathtub gin, and the brewers will have a job on their hands to educate them." Cheers came from the floor and galleries.

Blanton, the die-hard prohibitionist from the cactus plains of Texas, exhibited a novel attitude. Declaring that "although a dry, I have not lost my sense of humor," he said the whole bill impressed him as a piece of comedy. Regardless of whether the percentage ultimately is fixed at 3.2 or 3.05 he said "the beer put on the market will be intoxicating and it will be sold to minors."

Why Blanton Wants It Higher.
He then astonished his audience by declaring that he hoped the House conferees would insist on the higher percentage, and regretted that it was not higher still. His feeling, he finally explained, was based on a hope that the courts would declare beer intoxicating, and hence unconstitutional. If he had his way, he said, he would make the alcoholic content high enough to make that result inevitable.

Cullen and McCormack said privately they would insist on the original House bill, and believed the Senate would recede from its amendment. A similar opinion was expressed by some Senate leaders. However, if it appears that insistence on the House bill will lead to prolonged debate in the Senate, the House probably will capitulate.

MISUSE OF FUNDS

Prosecutor Reports After Examining More Depositors Including Head of New York Giants.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 17.—After examining additional depositors of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., yesterday, Arthur H. Schwartz, Assistant United States Attorney, said the misuse of $1,661,170 of depositors' funds by Joseph W. Harriman was indicated.

United States Attorney George Z. Medalle placed the figure at $1,393,000 Tuesday when Harriman, founder and chairman of the board of the bank, was arrested in his apartment, where he is ill of coronary thrombosis. The charge in the warrant from St. Petersburg, Fla., Monday was making false entries totalling $320,145.

Among the witnesses questioned were Alfred Hofman, head of Alfred Hofman, Inc., Dr. Preston P. Selzerwhite, a representative of the Union Pacific Railroad Co., whose name was not learned, and Charles A. Stoneham, president of the National Exhibition Co., which owns the New York Giants.

Schwartz said John J. McGraw, vice president of the exhibition company and retired manager of the baseball team, would return from St. Petersburg, Fla., Monday to appear before him.

The bank now is in the hands of a conservator. A group of depositors formed a protective committee with Jacques Braunstein as temporary chairman. Braunstein said the depositors plan to conduct an independent investigation of the activities of Harriman.

amendment. The amendment reducing the percentage went through without debate. The percentage was changed, Harriman said, to bring the bill into line with the measure drawn up by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate in the last session. The committee was guided by the findings of a British commission which, after an exhaustive study, reported that 3.05 was the dividing line between an intoxicant and a non-intoxicant.

Just before the final vote, the Senate, by 38 to 36, killed a proposal by Dill (Dem.), Washington, to prevent the advertising of beer over the radio.

Of the two Missouri Senators, Clark (Dem.) voted for the bill and Patterson (Rep.), against it. The roll call on final passage on the beer bill follows:

An overcoat and a cap belonging to Harry Stumpf, 35 years old, of Bethalto, Ill., were found on Eads Bridge last night.

The clothing was identified by the missing man's father, Hugo Stumpf of Belleville, who said his son's wife and two small children make their home with him. Stumpf's automobile was found abandoned early today near the East St. Louis police station.

Among the witnesses questioned were Alfred Hofman, head of Alfred Hofman, Inc., Dr. Preston P. Selzerwhite, a representative of the Union Pacific Railroad Co., whose name was not learned, and Charles A. Stoneham, president of the National Exhibition Co., which owns the New York Giants.

Schwartz said John J. McGraw, vice president of the exhibition company and retired manager of the baseball team, would return from St. Petersburg, Fla., Monday to appear before him.

The bank now is in the hands of a conservator. A group of depositors formed a protective committee with Jacques Braunstein as temporary chairman. Braunstein said the depositors plan to conduct an independent investigation of the activities of Harriman.

amendment. The amendment reducing the percentage went through without debate. The percentage was changed, Harriman said, to bring the bill into line with the measure drawn up by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate in the last session. The committee was guided by the findings of a British commission which, after an exhaustive study, reported that 3.05 was the dividing line between an intoxicant and a non-intoxicant.

Just before the final vote, the Senate, by 38 to 36, killed a proposal by Dill (Dem.), Washington, to prevent the advertising of beer over the radio.

Of the two Missouri Senators, Clark (Dem.) voted for the bill and Patterson (Rep.), against it. The roll call on final passage on the beer bill follows:

Democrats for the bill: Ashurst, Bachman, Bankhead, Black, Bone, Brown, Bulkin, Bulow, Clark, Copeland, Dieterich, Dill, Duffy, Fletcher, Harrison, Loneragan, Long, McCarran, McKellar, Murphy, Overton, Pittman, Reynolds, Robinson of Arkansas, Thomas of Utah, Trammell, Tydings, Van Nuys, Wagner, Walsh and Wheeler. Total 31. Republicans against: Austin, Borah, Capper, Dale, Fess, Frazier, Goldsborough, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Keyes, Nye, Patterson, Robinson of Indiana, Townsend, Vandenberg and White. Total 17. Grand total 48.

These Senators were paired or announced for the bill: Barkley, Byrnes, Coolidge, Kendrick, King, Lewis and McAdoo—Democrats; Carey, Davis—Republicans and Shipstead, Farmer—Labor.

New and Old Restrictions
On the Sale of Beer Here

Before Prohibition "Cans" Couldn't be Drunk From on Streets, and Sunday Closing Brought the "Lid" Clubs.

WHEN beer comes back in, to and for St. Louis, it will come on its own amber merits, and with a clean bill of health from the Federal and State governments, both of which will have officially declared it, when of slightly more than three per cent alcoholic content by weight, to be "non-intoxicating."

It will have several months, at least, to get established in public approval, without having to take the blame and grief for its one-time trade companions, whisky, brandy, gin and other hard liquors.

It will not, if its makers can prevent, be weighted down with the name of "booze," as in the civic slogan which some Chicagoan tried to wish on this city 30 years ago, "St. Louis, First in Shoes, First in Booze and Last in the American League."

It will be subject to quite a few restrictions, considering the statutory proclamation that it is "non-intoxicating." Those who sell it must not have a bar, mirror or window screens in the room, and those who buy and drink it must sit at tables.

Time was when, though beer was an industrial staple here, as well as a highly popular beverage, beer and its dispensers had to bear numerous burdens and restrictions. The "canning" ordinance was one of these.

"Tin palls, more commonly called 'buckets,' were an approved receptacle for the 'suds' which were sold over bars and in the back rooms of groceries, in the factory and humbler residential districts. So long as the foaming buckets were carried to the family table, or were distributed to workers eating their lunch outdoors, all was well. But when boisterous youths tilted the dripping 'cans' in alley mounds, or at street corners, the police clamped down on them the ordinance, which read:

"Any person who shall purchase or otherwise obtain any beer, wine, or spirituous or malt liquors in quantities greater than one-half pint, and drink the same in any park, street, alley, highway, thoroughfare or other public place, except working men drinking beer at lunch or dinner at their places of work, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not less than $5 nor more than $50."

City parks were protected not only by this ordinance, but by another which provided that "No saloon be located within 400 feet of Lafayette, O'Fallon, Tower Grove, Carondelet and Forest Parks." This was construed by the courts as applying to the territory surrounding the parks for the specified distance; but Charles Schweickardt was permitted for years to run a saloon in the center of Forest Park. It was called Forest Park Cottage, and remained until the World's Fair of 1904 was built. The World's Fair also brought construction of the Buckingham Hotel, now the Kingsway, within the forbidden distance.

Forest Park Cottage, and at one time as many as 10 of the 28 members followed that occupation. Sunday Closing and the Lid Clubs. Gov. Joseph W. Folk, elected in 1904 on a reform program which said little definitely about liquor matters, clamped down the Sunday "lid" on the saloons of the city and State. He found the Sunday closing ordinance, which previous administrations had not enforced, and applied it with marked effect in St. Louis.

Soon the "lid clubs" appeared. The lid clubs, some of which were duly incorporated, furnished Sunday drinking facilities for their members, and membership was a very easy and temporary affair. Various devices were tried by the police for dealing with this problem, which continued to some degree as long as the saloons lasted.

In the attempt to keep the saloon atmosphere away from the new beer dispensaries, the Legislature has provided that no "bar, mirror or other fixtures having the appearance of a saloon" shall be used. The authors of this clause, it appears, remembered the long and glittering mirrors which were behind the bars of the larger St. Louis saloons. One dazzling saloon of World's Fair days, the "Broken Heart" on Broadway, boasted of three miles of mirrors, in which the guest, however sober, could see himself approaching from numerous directions.

There are now long mirrors behind the soda fountains in not a few drug stores and confectioneries. Whether these will be affected by the law, if the stores take out beer permits, may be a point for the State Food and Drug Commission, who will administer the new law, to decide, or to ask the Attorney-General about.

WOMAN INJURED
BY ONE-MAN CAR
12 DAYS AGO DIES

Mrs. George Wilkens, 35, Struck Down at Broadway and Calvary Avenue, Succumbs in Hospital.

Mrs. George Wilkens, 35 years old, 1812 South Eighth street, died at City Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered March 5 when struck by a one-man street car at Broadway and Calvary avenue.

John May, 6027 Ouida avenue, operator of the car, reported Mrs. Wilkens ran into the path of the car at 11 p. m. Her legs were crushed by the front wheels, and it was necessary to jack up the car before she could be extricated and taken to the hospital. One leg later was amputated. She told police she was hurrying to board the car when struck.

Four other persons have been killed by one-man street cars since Jan. 1. Also, two Negro boys were injured fatally when they were brushed off the side of a one-man car on which they were stealing a ride, and a motor cycle rider was killed in a crash with a one-man car during a snowstorm.

ONE DROP DIFFERENCE IN BEER
Tydings Compares Alcohol in Senate and House Proposals.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Senator Tydings today placed the difference between the Senate and House beer proposals in alcohol percentage at "just a drop."

The Senate proposal authorizes beer of 3.05 and the house bill measure 3.2 per cent. "I've figured it out," Tydings told reporters, "and it means that the Senate beer would contain one drop less of alcohol in a total volume of 666 2-3 drops."

FOUR IN SENATH, MO., BANK ARE INDICTED

Head and Three Employees of Closed Depository Accused of Conspiracy.

By the Associated Press.

KENNETT, Mo., March 17.—George W. Krone, president of the closed Citizens' Bank of Senath, and three former employees of the bank were indicted by a special grand jury here yesterday.

Krone was indicted on a charge of conspiring with W. H. Hutchins, cashier of the bank; Delmar G. Doherty, assistant cashier, and Miss Myrtle Johnson, bookkeeper, to embezzle $11,736 of the bank's funds. He was named in only one of the 12 indictments returned by the grand jury.

Three indictments were returned against Hutchins and three against Doherty, while the two were named jointly in a seventh indictment. Three indictments were returned against Miss Johnson.

Hutchins is charged with the embezzlement of $12,000 of the bank's funds, forging a $100 note and selling it to the bank, and conspiring with Doherty to forge a $5000 note. Doherty is charged with the embezzlement of $19,000 of Senath

School District funds, the embezzlement of $5000 of bank funds, forging a $5000 note, and conspiring with Hutchins to forge the note.

Miss Johnson is charged in two indictments with conspiring with Hutchins and Doherty in connection with the $5000 note and in the third indictment with unlawfully issuing a bank draft. All the defendants gave bond of $5000 on each of the charges against them. Hutchins, Doherty and Miss Johnson previously had been arrested.

SOUTHWEST BANK REOPENS; 22ND TO BE LICENSED HERE

Cherokee and American Exchange National Under Conservators Are Accepting Deposits.

GOLD CONTINUES TO FLOW BACK

$416,000 Returned in City in Day, Total of $3,123,- 106—List Goes to Washington Today.

The Southwest Bank, Kingshighway and Southwest avenue, reopened for general business today under a license issued by the Treasury Department through the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

It was the twenty-second St.
Louis bank to receive a license.
Conservators have been appointed for four, and the applications of five banks for licenses have not yet been acted on.

The Southwest Bank, in its statement for Dec. 10, showed deposits of $1,647,152; capital of $200,000; surplus of $50,000, and undivided profits of $18,808. Its president is William K. Norris, who is president also of the McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Co.

Conservators for two banks, the Cherokee National and American Exchange National, today began to accept new deposits of cash which may be withdrawn on demand without restriction. Withdrawals from old accounts, however, are not yet permitted.

Awaiting Instructions.
Pending receipt of instructions from the Comptroller of Currency, conservators for the other two banks, the South Side National and Grand National, are not undertaking such banking functions as are permitted under the new law.
Audits which will determine whether reorganization will be required are being made at all four banks.

Joseph L. Rehme, president of South Side National Bank and of Lafayette South Side Bank and Trust Co., which has not yet received a license to resume general business, said he expected both would be doing business as usual next week.

"Our banks have not been opened because the necessary permits have not been received," Rehme said in a formal statement. "The delay, much to our regret, is unavoidable.
We expect to have our permits next week and at that time to meet our customers as usual."

Both banks are members of the Clearing House Association. The Lafayette is the fifth largest in St.
Louis and the largest of those which have not yet received licenses. In its Dec. 31 statement it listed resources of $22,332,440 and deposits of $19,070,938. It is capitalized at $2,150,000.

Gold Still Flowing In.
The flow of gold back to the Federal Reserve Bank was unabated. St. Louisans yesterday deposited $416,000 of the metal and deposits elsewhere in the Eighth Federal Reserve District totaled $1,- 137,634. In the past seven banking days deposits of gold in the district have totaled $7,242,201, of which St. Louisans deposited $3,- 123,106.

Gov. William McC. Martin of the Federal Reserve Bank directed attention to the fact that a list of those who have withdrawn gold and not redeposited it by today is to be forwarded to the Treasury Department at Washington.

Gold reserves of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis have been strengthened during the week by $26,477,000, according to its weekly statement released today. The total gold reserve is $156,046,000, compared with $129,569,000 the week before. Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation decreased for the first time since Feb. 1, indicating a reversal of the hoarding tendency. Notes in circulation this week totaled $173,870,000, a decrease of $496,000 as compared with the week before.

11 More Banks in Reserve District Get Licenses.

Licenses to reopen for general business today were issued by the Federal Reserve Bank to 11 additional banks in this district. Those licensed were: First National Bank of Murphysboro, Ill.; First National Bank of Brighton, Ill.; Farmers'
National Bank of Clarksville, Ark.;
First National Bank of Greenwood, Ark.; First National Bank of Hope, Ark.; First National Bank of Springdale, Ark.; First National Bank of Fayetteville, Ark.; First National Bank of Bicknell, Ind.; Seymour National Bank of Seymour, Ind.; Taylor National Bank of Campbellville, Ky.; Citizens' National Bank of Glasgow, Ky.

Twenty State banks in Illinois were licensed to reopen today by State Auditor Barrett. Those near St. Louis included: Montgomery County Loan & Trust Co. of Hille-boro; Bank of Mascoutah, Murphysboro Savings Bank and the First State Bank of Chester.

15 Escape in Prison Riot.
SAO PAULO, Brazil, March 17.—
Convicts rioted on the prison island of Desaparecos, off the port of Santos, yesterday, and 15 men escaped on a raft before troops arrived and restored order.

STEAGALL BILL BLOCKED IN HOUSE; UP AGAIN MONDAY

It Proposes to Extend to Banks Outside Federal Reserve, Privileges of Emergency Act.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Consideration of the Steagall bill designed to extend to banks outside the Federal Reserve system the privileges of the emergency banking bill was blocked in the House today, but an agreement was reached to take it up Monday. The House adjourned until Monday.

The measure is a substitute for the Robinson bill passed by the Senate, which extended to banks that are not members of the Federal Reserve system the privilege of borrowing from Reserve banks on time and demand notes.

The Steagall bill extends this to enable Federal Reserve currency to be issued on the security of the notes.

Steagall, Alabama Democrat, said his bill had the approval of the President, Secretary Woodin and Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia.
The Senate has passed a measure to permit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to enlarge its aid to State banks.

The House measure was drawn by Chairman Steagall, who said it was acceptable to the President and that the bill would mean "parity" between non-members of the Federal Reserve and those banks aided by last week's emergency act.

The Senate bill, by Bailey (Dem.), Ohio, would permit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to purchase notes and debentures of state banks in states where preferred stock must carry double liability.

The original bank bill authorized banks to issue preferred stock in reorganizing without being subject to double liability, but some states, including Ohio, require the double protection.

Provisions of Steagall Bill.

The Steagall bill would:
1. Authorize non-member state banks and trust companies to apply to Federal Reserve banks for loans on time or demand notes.
2. Make such notes eligible security for the issue—to 90 per cent of their value—of Federal Reserve bank currency.

The first part of the plan was contained in the resolution sponsored by Senator Robinson, and passed by the Senate Tuesday. But it was held up there to give Treasury and Reserve Board officials more time to study the plan.

This delay aroused a protest in the Senate by Senators Long (Dem.) of Louisiana and Couzens (Rep.) of Michigan. Meanwhile, Long and Steagall conferred, the latter making frequent trips to the Treasury.

Time Limit on Hoarders.
Gold hoarders who took millions of dollars out of banks during the period before March 6 today came to the end of the period set for them to return the metal to the banks or have their names sent to Washington as violators of the anti-hoarding act.

The Federal Reserve Board's instructions to Federal Reserve Banks were that the names of all persons who drew out large amounts of gold and did not return it by 3 o'clock this afternoon be forwarded to Washington.

The list will contain the names of those who withdrew gold during the two-year period prior to March 6 if the banks think that withdrawals during that time indicate hoarding.

During the present week, since the banks have opened about $27-000,000 in gold has flowed back into the Federal Reserve system from member banks where hoarders have deposited it.

No decision has been reached as to what action will be taken when the lists are sent to Washington.

FARM & HOME SAVINGS RECEIVERSHIP IS ENDED

By the Associated Press.
NEVADA, Mo., March 17.—Judge
C. A. Hendricks today signed an order ending the receivership of the Farm & Home Savings & Loan Association of Missouri and approving the plan of reorganization calling for a division of its assets on a 65-35 per cent basis.

Under the reorganization George W. Wagner, State Building and Loan Inspector, becomes president.
He was receiver of the company
by virtue of his State office.

He said his resignation as Building and Loan Inspector would be forwarded immediately to Gov.
Park.

BROWN THRASHER IS BACK

Honor of being the first member of the St. Louis Bird Club to report the return of the brown thrasher goes this year to Otto Widmann, 21-year-old authority on ornithology, of 6106 Enright avenue.

The thrasher, better known to school children here by the misnomer of brown thrush because of that primary classic "The Little Brown Thrush," has been reported back on St. Patrick's day for the past several years. But Monday as Widmann was watching bird life during a ride through Clayton, he saw the long-tailed rival of the mockingbird. High in the top of a tree it was pouring forth its rich and loud melody. It is quite easy to identify the brown thrasher—a reddish brown bird, longer than a robin or mockingbird, with heavily spotted breast and long rounded tail. It lives on wild fruit and insects.

Text of Roosevelt Farm Relief Bill to Limit Production Through Marketing Contracts With Farmers

Processors and Distributing Agencies Would Be Licensed to Permit Regulation to Prevent Unfair Practices.

WASHINGTON, March 17.

The text of the Roosevelt farm relief bill follows:

A BILL to relieve the existing national economic emergency by increasing agricultural purchasing power.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled:

That the present acute economic emergency being in part the consequence of a severe and increasing disparity between the prices of agricultural and other commodities, which disparity has largely destroyed the purchasing power of farmers for industrial products, has broken down the orderly exchange of commodities, and has seriously impaired the agricultural assets supporting the national credit structure, it is hereby declared that these conditions in the basic industry of agriculture have affected transactions in agricultural commodities with a national public interest, have burdened and obstructed the normal current of commerce in such commodities, and render imperative the immediate enactment of this act.

Declaration of Policy.

Sec. 2. It is hereby declared to be the policy of Congress:

(1) To establish and maintain such balance between the production and consumption of agricultural commodities, and such marketing conditions therefor, as will re-establish prices to farmers at a level that will give agricultural commodities a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy, equivalent to the purchasing power agricultural commodities in the pre-war period, August, 1909-July, 1914; and

(2) To approach such equality of purchasing power by gradual correction of the present inequalities therein at as rapid a rate as is deemed feasible in view of the current consumptive demand in domestic and foreign markets.

(3) To protect the consumers' interests by readjusting farm production at such level as will not increase the percentage of the consumers' retail expenditures for agricultural commodities, or products derived therefrom, which is returned to the farmer, above the percentage which was returned to the farmer in the pre-war period, August, 1909-July, 1914.

Title I—Cotton Option Contracts.

Sec. 3. The Federal Farm Board, and all departments and other agencies of the Government, are hereby directed—

(a) To sell to the Secretary of Agriculture at such price as may be agreed upon all cotton now owned by them.

(b) To take such action and to make such settlements as are necessary in order to acquire full legal title to all cotton on which money has been loaned or advanced by any department or agency of the United States or held in trust for loans or advances and to make final settlement of such loans and advances upon such terms as may be deemed advisable, in the judgment of the secretary of the department or agency involved; and to sell this cotton also to the secretary in the same manner as is provided in the preceding paragraph hereof.

Sec. 4. The Secretary of Agriculture shall have authority to borrow money upon all cotton in his possession or control and deposit as collateral for such loans the warehouse receipts for such cotton.

Sec. 5. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is hereby authorized and directed to advance money and to make loans to the Secretary of Agriculture to acquire such cotton and to pay the carrying costs thereon, in such amounts and upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the secretary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with such warehouse receipts as collateral security.

Sec. 6. (a) The Secretary of Agriculture is hereby authorized and directed to enter into contracts with the producers of cotton to sell to any such producer an amount of cotton equivalent in amount to the amount of reduction in production of cotton by such producer below the amount produced by him in the preceding crop year, in all cases where such producer agrees in writing to reduce the amount of cotton produced by him in 1933, below his production in the previous year, by not less than 30 per centum, without increase in commercial fertilization per acre.

(b) To any such producer so agreeing to reduce production the Secretary of Agriculture shall deliver a non-transferable option contract agreeing to sell to said producer an amount of cotton equivalent to the amount of his estimated reduction of the cotton in the possession and control of the Secretary.

(c) The producer is to have the option to buy said cotton at the average price paid by the Secretary for the cotton produced under Section 3, and is to have the right at any time up to Jan. 1, 1934, to exercise his option, upon proof that he has complied with his contract and with all the rules and regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture with respect thereto, by taking said cotton upon payment by him of his option price and all actual carrying charges on such cotton; or the Secretary may sell such cotton for the account of such producer shall the producer be held responsible or liable for financial loss incurred in the holding of such cotton or on account of the carrying charges therein: Provided further, that such agreement to curtail cotton production shall contain a further provision that such cotton producer shall not use the land taken out of cotton production for the production for sale, directly or indirectly, of any other

Such loans shall not be in excess of such amounts as may be authorized by the agreements and shall bear interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum.

(3) To issue licenses permitting processors, associations of producers and other agencies to engage in the handling in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, of any basic agricultural commodity or product thereof, or any competing agricultural commodity or product thereof. Such licenses shall be subject to such terms and conditions, not in conflict with existing acts of Congress or regulations pursuant thereto, as may be necessary to eliminate unfair practices or charges that prevent or tend to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy and the restoration of normal economic conditions in the marketing of such commodities or products and the financing thereof. The Secretary of Agriculture may suspend or revoke any such license, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, for violations of the terms or conditions thereof. Any agency engaged in such handling without a license as required by the Secretary under this section shall be subject to a fine of not more than $1000 for each day during which the violation continues.

(4) To require any licensee under this section to furnish such reports as to quantities of agricultural commodities or products thereof bought and sold and the prices thereof, and as to trade practices and charges, and to keep such systems of accounts, as may be necessary for the purpose of this act.

Processing Tax.
Section 9. (a) To raise revenues for the payment of extraordinary expenditures incurred by reason of the national economic emergency there shall be levied, assessed, and collected, during any marketing period for any basic agricultural commodity of which for such period rental or benefit payments are made under this act, a tax to be paid by the processor on the first domestic processing of the commodity, whether of domestic production or imported. Such tax shall, except as hereinafter provided, equal the difference between the current average farm price for the commodity, and the fair exchange value of the commodity. Such value for any commodity shall be the price thereof which will give the commodity the same purchasing power, with respect to articles farmers buy, as during the prewar period, August, 1909-July, 1914. The current average farm price and the fair exchange value shall be ascertained by the Secretary of Agriculture from available statistics of the Department of Agriculture.

(b) If the Secretary, after investigation and due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties, finds at any time that the imposition of the tax at the rate hereinbefore provided has resulted or is likely to result in a substantial reduction in the quality of the commodity or products thereof domestically consumed, he shall fix such lower rate as is necessary to maintain or restore such domestic consumption. Such rate may be revised from time to time pursuant to further findings under this subsection. In making any such finding the Secretary shall give due consideration to the following factors among others:

(1) Reports as to wage scales, employment and unemployment in urban regions.

(2) Changes in the consumption of the agricultural commodity and of other commodities.

(3) Evidence derived from statistical studies of supply and demand for previous periods, which indicate the change in consumption of the commodity which would normally occur in consequence of a particular change in the cost to processors or consumers.

(4) Other relevant data as to changes in the cost of living of consumers, consumers' buying habits, and current and prospective conditions in industry pertinent to determining the probable effective demand for the commodity.

(c) The Secretary of Agriculture shall certify to the Secretary of the Treasury from time to time the rate of tax in effect for any commodity under this act.

vested in him under this act. Provided, that no salary in excess of $7500 per annum shall be paid to more than 10 additional officers or employees of the emergency agricultural adjustment administration which the Secretary shall establish in the Department of Agriculture for the administration of the functions vested in him by this act.

(b) The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to establish, for the more effective administration of the functions vested in him by this act, state and local committees, or association of producers, and to permit co-operative associations of producers, when in his judgment they are qualified to do so, to act as agents of their members and patrons in connection with the distribution of rental or benefit payments.

(c) The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized with the approval of the President to make such regulations with the force and effect of law, as may be necessary to carry out the powers vested in him by this act. Any violation of any regulation shall be subject to such penalty, not in excess of $100, as may be provided therein.

(d) The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to make such regulations as may be necessary to execute the functions carry out the powers vested in him by this act, including regulations establishing conversion factors for any commodity and article processed therefrom to determine the amount of tax or duty imposed with respect thereto.

(e) The action of any officer, employee or agent in determining the amount of and making any rental or benefit payment shall not be subject to review by any officer of the Government other than the Secretary of Agriculture or Secretary of the Treasury.

(f) Except as provided in Section 20, the provisions of this act shall be applicable to the United States and its possessions, except the Philippine Islands, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and the Island of Guam.

Sec. 11. As used in this act, the term "basic agricultural commodity" means wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, cattle, sheep, rice, tobacco, and milk and its products, and any regional or market classification, type or grade thereof; but the Secretary of Agriculture shall exclude from the operation of the provisions of this act, during any period, any such commodity or classification, type, or grade thereof if he finds, upon investigation at any time and after due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties, that the conditions of production, marketing, and consumption are such that during such period this act cannot be effectively administered to the end of effectuating the declared policy with respect to such commodity or classification, type or grade thereof.

Appropriation.
Sec. 12. (a) The proceeds derived from taxes imposed under this act are hereby appropriated to be available to the Secretary of Agriculture for rental and benefit payments and administrative expenses including refunds under this act.

(b) The Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Treasury shall jointly estimate from time to time the amounts currently required for such payments and expenses, and the Secretary of the Treasury shall advance to the Secretary of Agriculture the amounts so estimated. The amount of such advance shall be deducted from such funds as subsequently become available under subsection (a).

(c) The Secretary of Agriculture shall transfer to the Treasury Department and is authorized to transfer to other agencies, out of funds available under this section, such sums as are required to pay administrative expenses incurred and refunds made by such department or agencies in the administration of this act.

Termination of Act.
Sec. 13. This act shall cease to be in effect whenever the President finds and proclaims that the national emergency in relation to agriculture has been ended; and pending such time the President shall by proclamation terminate with respect to any basic agricultural commodity the provisions of this act as he finds are not requisite to carrying out the declared policy with respect to such commodity. The Secretary of Agriculture shall make such investigations and reports thereon to the President as may be necessary to aid him in executing this section.

Separability of Provisions:
Sec. 14. If any provision of this act is declared unconstitutional, or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or commodity is held invalid the validity of the remainder of this act and the applicability thereof to other persons, circumstances, or commodities shall not be affected thereby.

Supplementary Revenue Provisions: Exemptions and Compensating Taxes.

Section 15. (a) If the Secretary of Agriculture finds, upon investigation at any time and after due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties, that any class of products of any commodity is of such low value compared with the quantity of the commodity used for their manufacture that the imposition of the processing tax would prevent in whole or in large part the use of the commodity in the manufacture of such products and thereby substantially reduce consumption and increase the surplus of the commodity, then the Secretary of Agriculture shall so certify to the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of the Treasury shall abate or refund any processing tax thereon imposed with respect to such amount of the commodity as is used in the manufacture of such products.

(b) No tax shall be required to be paid on the processing of any commodity by the producer thereof on his own premises for consumption by his own family, employees, or household.

(c) Any person delivering any product to any unemployment relief organization for charitable distribution or use shall, if such product or the commodity from which processed, is under this act subject to tax, be entitled to a refund of the amount of any tax paid with respect to such product or commodity.

(d) The Secretary of Agriculture shall ascertain from time to time whether the payment of the processing tax upon any basic agricultural commodity is causing or will cause to the processors thereof disadvantages in competition from competing agricultural commodities by reason of excessive shifts in consumption between such commodities or products thereof. If the Secretary of Agriculture finds, after investigation and due notice and opportunity for hearing to interested parties, that such disadvantages in competition exist, or will exist, he shall proclaim such finding. The Secretary shall specify in this proclamation the competing agricultural commodity and the compensating rate of tax on the processing thereof necessary to prevent such disadvantages in competition. Thereafter there shall be levied, assessed and collected upon the first domestic processing of such competing agricultural commodity a tax, to be paid by the processor, at the rate specified, until such rate is altered pursuant to a further finding under this section, or the tax rate thereon on the basic agricultural commodity is altered or terminated. In no case shall the tax imposed upon such competing agricultural commodity exceed that imposed per like unit upon the basic agricultural commodity. The term "competing agricultural commodity" shall include, among others, rayon, silk, linen and oleomargarine, and any basic agricultural commodity as to which a tax is not in effect under Section 9.

Floor Stocks.
Section 16. (a) Upon the sale or other disposition of any article processed wholly or in chief value from any commodity with respect to which a processing tax is to be levied, that on the date the tax first takes effect or wholly terminates with respect to the commodity, is held for sale or other disposition (including articles in transit) by any person other than a consumer or a person engaged solely in retail trade, there shall be made a tax adjustment as follows:

1. Whenever the processing tax first takes effect, there shall be levied, assessed and collected a tax to be paid by such person equivalent to the amount of the processing tax which would be payable with respect to the commodity from which processed if the processing had occurred on such date.

2. Whenever the processing tax is wholly terminated there shall be refunded to such person a tax (or if it has not been paid, the tax shall be abated) in an amount equivalent to the processing tax with respect to the commodity from which processed.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a): Such subsection shall apply with respect to such portion of retail stocks on hand at the date the processing tax takes effect, as is not sold or otherwise disposed of for consumption within one month after such date.

Exportations.
Section 17. (a) Upon the exportation to any foreign country (including the Philippine Islands, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and the Island of Guam) of any product with respect to which a tax has been paid under this act, or of any product processed wholly or in chief value from a commodity with respect to which a tax has been paid under this act, the exporter thereof shall be entitled at the time of exportation to a refund of the amount of such tax.

(b) Upon the giving of satisfactory bond for the faithful observance of the provisions of this act requiring the payment of taxes, any person shall be entitled, without payment of the tax, to process for such exportation any commodity with respect to which a tax is imposed by this act, or to hold for such exportation any article processed wholly or in chief value therefrom.

Existing Contracts:
Section 18. (a) If (1) any processor, jobber or wholesaler has, prior to the date of approval of this act, made a bona fide contract of sale for delivery after such date of any article in respect of which a tax is imposed under this act, and if (2) such contract does not permit the addition to the amount to be paid thereunder of the whole of such tax, then (unless the contract prohibits such addition) the vendee shall pay so much of the tax as is

KILLS WIFE, 9-YEAR-OLD SON AND SELF IN CHICAGO HOME

Man Wounds Older Boy, a High School Student, in Early Morning Attack.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 17.—The bodies of Victor E. Heller, his wife, Elsa, and a son, Sylvan, 9 years old, all shot to death, were found last night in their apartment. Another son, Norman, a high school student, was found seriously wounded.

Police said the tragedy was not discovered until more than 12 hours after it took place. Neighbors said they heard several shots at 3 a. m.
The mother and younger son were found dead in bed and Heller's body, a pistol and discharged shell beside it, lay on the bathroom floor. Police said he evidently had shot the others, then himself.

MURDER THEORY ABANDONED IN Y. M. C. A. JACKET DEATH

Police Now Believe Gymnast Was Tied Up by Friends for Houdini Escape Stunt.
By the Associated Press.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 17.—Investigation of the strangling of Erik Baumann, 27-year-old gymnast in his room at the Central Y. M. C. A. here, entered its third day with police inclining to the opinion that death was accidental. Baumann was found trussed up in a sleeping bag Wednesday morning. Authorities virtually abandoned their theory of murder after questioning of friends of Baumann and residents of the Y. M. C. A., failed to disclose a known enemy or a motive for murder. Examination of the vital organs also revealed no trace of poison or drug which it was believed would have been necessary to subdue the gymnast before he could have been securely tied and placed in the improvised straitjacket.

Police now believe Baumann was tied up by friends in preparation for a Houdini escape stunt and died after falling to free himself. This theory was strengthened last night by the report of a guest who occupied a room near Baumann. He said about 11:30 Tuesday night he saw a man without a hat standing outside the opened door of Baumann's room calling to someone inside: "Well, come on."

MUNCIE MINISTER FOUND GUILTY OF
'IMPRUDENT' ACTS

Accused of Trying to Attack Girl and Also of Knocking Choir Master Over Chancel Rail.
By the Associated Press.
MUNCIE, Ind., March 17.—The Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, accused of attempting to attack an 18-year-old girl member of his congregation, was found guilty of "imprudent ministerial conduct" by an ecclesiastical jury here last night. He was ordered suspended from the ministry for one year.

The defendant, pastor of the Madison Street Methodist Episcopal Church here, denies the charges. He said he was the victim of enemies within his church. He appeared as a witness for an hour and a half yesterday before the jury of 12 clergymen who heard the case.
Miss Helen Huffman, the accuser, also testified. She had said the pastor made improper advances to her in his automobile on a country road Dec. 20.
The Rev. Mr. Conway also was charged with knocking Willard Aundand, choir master, over the chancel rail at a Sunday evening service in January.
Bishop Edgar Blake of Detroit presided at the trial. He declined to comment on the verdict. The Rev. Mr. Conway said he believed the jury found him guilty only of the charge of assault and battery of the choir master.
He faces trial in Circuit Court here on similar charges March 28. The pastor is about 35 years old, married and father of five children.
In his first formal statement on the case, made last night to the Muncie Star, the Rev. Mr. Conway expressed satisfaction with Bishop Blake's conduct of the trial, but said he "would have had a better chance of vindication before a jury of farmers and laymen than pastors because they (pastors) fear the slightest breath of insinuation against their calling."
The statement, as quoted, charged that F. K. Dougherty, district superintendent of the church, asked the pastor "to remove several men from the church because they were causing trouble." It continued: "This I did and then when the fire flew he refused to back me."
The newspaper quoted Dougherty as saying, when informed of the pastor's statement: "It's a lie. That was all gone over in the trial. There's no truth to it."

Such duty shall be in addition to any other duty imposed by law.
(b) The duties imposed by this section shall be levied, assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as duties imposed by the tariff act of 1930, and shall be treated, for the purposes of all provisions of the law relating to the customs revenue, as duties imposed by such act.

POLICE ORDERED TO ROUND UP

ALL 'WILD CAT' TAXICABS

Irregular Service Said to Have Sprung Up Since Drivers Went on Strike.

At the request of city officials, police today began rounding up "wildcat" taxicabs, which, it was reported, have sprung up since Tuesday, when 500 union drivers for the Red Top and Yellow taxicabs went on strike in resistance to a wage cut of $1 a day.

City ordinance requires that all taxicabs be inspected and licensed. All operators found violating the law will be arrested. Application for license has been made in behalf of 250 of the striking drivers, who want to provide taxi service with their private automobiles. The request is under consideration by the Board of Public Service.

In a effort to settle the strike, a committee representing the Social Justice Commission is preparing a letter to the taxicab companies, inquiring into the situation. The committee, composed of the Rev. Joseph Husein of St. Louis University, Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman, Temple Israel, and Dean Sidney Sweet, Christ Church Cathedral, settled a previous strike of taxicab drivers by arbitration.

WHAT TROTSKY THINKS OF U. S. BANK CRISIS

Says Nation Will Have Still More Control Over World Capital.

Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press. ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 17.—The United States will emerge from the present crisis more the master of world capital than ever, says Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionary leader, but he foresees no happy world for the master to command.

From his place of exile on Prinkipo Island, near here, where he watches world movements, Trotsky gave the Associated Press his prophecy for America.

"You ask my opinion of the 'dollar crisis' he said in French. 'Considered technically, this crisis will soon be over. From the broader aspect the question needs a serious examination beyond the scope of an interview.'

Recalls Predictions Since 1917. 'Briefly, I can say that since 1917 I often affirmed that world capital would develop under the hegemony of the dollar over the British sterling. American capitalism's four years' crisis and especially the bank crises of 1931 and 1933, though important in themselves, do not check American capital's increasing hegemony, but, rather, are part of that increase.

'America's excessive and precipitate growth gave the country's economic structure a mixed character—inheriting from the backwoods state, with the mingling of human strength's greatest conquests. The banking system especially evinces this contradiction.

'American capital became a world factor nevertheless, and it still leans on a scattered system of provincial banks, recalling the epoch of Uncle Tom's Cabin. When the organism weakens from lack of nourishment, all its faults and sicknesses come to the surface.

'When America's economic organism weakened under the world crisis influence, the obsolete character of its banking system was sharply revealed. The result of the two bank crises will undoubtedly be a grandiose centralization of the banking system ultimately, merely reinforcing United States financial hegemony.

Unstability of World. 'On the contrary, France, for instance, with the franc reduced one-fifth, will more than ever learn the difficulty of preserving its provincial system from the torments of world economy. I do not wish to intimate that a calm and regular development is assured the United States after surmounting the actual dollar crisis, the second bank crisis and even the whole present industrial crisis. No. If it is difficult to depend on 2000 unstable little banks it is no less difficult to depend on several thousand unstable political and economic organizations of Europe, South America and Asia.

'American hegemony's future inevitable growth will signify nothing but this—the penetration of all our planet's contradictions and diseases into American capital foundations.

'It is sufficient to cite two facts: First, Japanese banditry's attack on China, which inaugurates a whole series of Far Eastern wars; second, Hitler's arrival of power which promises a year's civil war and inevitable international shocks.

'But this perspective is beyond the limits of your question.'

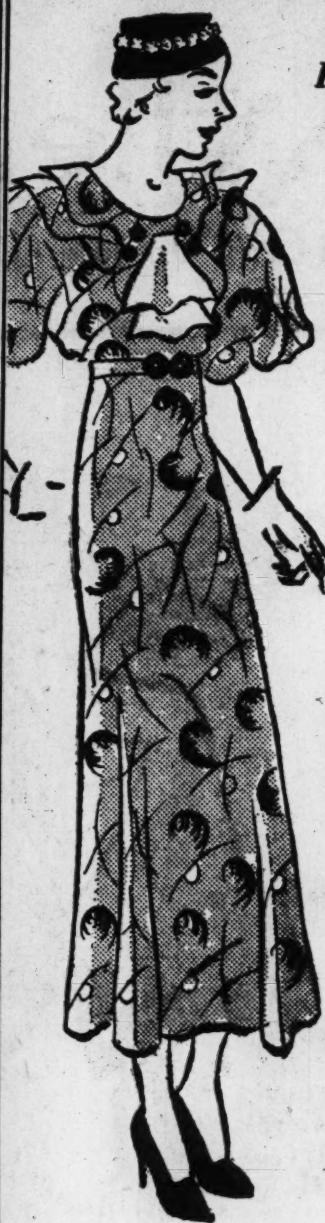

Baldwin M. Baldwin Weds Secretly by the Associated Press. RENO, Nev., March 17.—The secret marriage here March 8 of Baldwin M. Baldwin, son of the late 'Lucky' Baldwin, to Miss Margaret Wilson, Indianapolis heiress, was announced last night by William Woodburn, Reno attorney. Baldwin recently was divorced from his first wife in Riga, Latvia.

REMARK ON TRAIN PRODUCED FARM BILL

Led to Agreement on Method of Composing Different Views of What to Do.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—President Roosevelt laid his farm relief program before Congress for emergency action just 12 days after his inaugural—but the program is even younger.

Its genesis was a remark in a smoking car on a train Washington-bound from Chicago a week ago last night. On it were several farm organization leaders, farm publishers and editors responding to Secretary Wallace's call for a meeting last Friday.

There was talk about farm relief and efforts to win unity on a common plan after 12 years in which many leaders have looked askance at the proposals of others. Representatives of organizations went to their berths—the editors stayed on to "talk shop."

They were Dan Wallace of St. Paul, the Secretary's uncle; C. V. Gregory, editor of the Prairie Farmer, Chicago; W. R. Ronald, editor of the Mitchell (S. D.) Republican, and Dante Pierce, veteran Iowa editor, a member of the Wallace publishing firm at Des Moines.

They began to discuss the emergency banking bill and its grant of broad powers to the President which a headline referred to as "a dictatorship."

"If banking can use a 'dictator,' farmers can use 33,000,000 of them—one for every farmer," one editor said.

Two others laughed, a third, whose identity the others later agreed not to reveal, did not.

"Why not have someone 'dictate' the plan of farm relief and let everyone who is interested leave it to him?" he asked.

The result was a memorandum brought up at Friday's meeting which resulted in an agreement to recommend a broad enabling act so flexible that the Secretary of Agriculture could apply different types of relief to different commodities.

This plan was whipped into shape by a committee and later presented to President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace who, after changing some of its provisions, made it the basis of the program forwarded to Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—An abatement of $17,528,108 to the estate of Thomas F. Ryan of New York City for over assessment of estate tax was announced today by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Claims can't fool you if you know Phillips FACTS

"HIGHEST TEST" at the price of ordinary gasoline

Today there is one big, outstanding topic of discussion whenever experts talk about gasoline.

At the conventions of petroleum technicians . . . in the meetings of automobile engine designers . . . in almost every issue of the magazines devoted to the oil and gas industry . . . the subject that comes up over and over again is VOLATILITY.

Everywhere, there is greater recognition, than ever before, of the fact that volatility is the most important property in gasoline.

You may not care for technical details. You may not know that volatility is defined as "the ability to evaporate and become vapor." But since high volatility (high test) gives truly startling improvement in performance, you can't help being vitally interested in the fact that

Phillips 66 has 78% more volatility than any other leading gasoline.

This is a powerful, outstanding fact. It tells you why Phillips 66 saves you money. Every gallon, every drop of this greater gasoline has more volatility, has higher gravity, is higher test.

Right now, Phillips 66 gravity ranges from 65.6° to 80.5°. And it does not cost 3¢ extra per gallon. No, sir! As the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline, Phillips can afford to give you amazingly high gravity gasoline at the price of ordinary motor fuel.

The very first time you try a tankful, your engine quickly tells you that this high test and high anti-knock gasoline IS different. You actually feel the added power and snap, the new speed of get-away and smoother running. You get more miles to the gallon and . . . the fastest cold weather starting you have ever experienced.

Higher test (more volatility) is the quality in Phillips 66 which brings you this wonderful combination of motoring improvements. And this high test is yours, without a single penny of higher price, at every Orange and Black 66 shield. For the gas that is easy on your engine and your pocketbook, Phill-up with Phillips 66 . . . and don't forget, when you drain—refill with Phillips 66 Motor Oil, the new scientific lubricant which offers the same extra value always given by Phillips 66 gasoline.

What is CONTROLLED VOLATILITY?

Everyone knows that weather affects ordinary gasoline, that temperature affects engine performance. Obviously the weather cannot be controlled; so Phillips insures perfect performance by CONTROLLING the VOLATILITY of the gasoline. Phillips pioneered this scientific method of matching gasoline to driving conditions. Always, it makes full allowance for differences caused by climate and geographical location. Whatever any engine in any city needs, to attain maximum efficiency and ideal performance under its climatic conditions, is exactly what Controlled Volatility puts into Phillips 66.

MAN BEATS WIFE TO DEATH
BECAUSE DINNER IS NOT READY.

Iowa Farmer Also Injures Three Children, Crushing Skulls With Shotgun Barrel.

By the Associated Press.
ESTHERVILLE, Ia., March 17.—Mrs. Joe Berven, 25 years old, was beaten to death and her three young children were seriously injured by her husband yesterday. The children, Elmer, 5; Ramona, 3; and Jackie, 14 months, are not expected to live.

The tragedy occurred at the family's home on the farm of Olin Anderson, father of Mrs. Berven. Berven used the barrel of a shotgun to crush the skulls of his wife and three children, then walked to the Anderson house and informed his father-in-law of his act. He quietly accompanied officers to jail here. Relatives said they believed the immediate cause of Berven's act was that dinner was not ready when he arrived home at noon. He had been out of work for two years and had grown moody and depressed, they said.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The stock market receded substantially today, and closed with numerous declines of one to four points. A midday rally under leadership of the rails failed to hold. The closing tone was heavy. Transfers approximately 1,890,000 shares.

After a setback in the early dealings, the market virtually erased its losses, only to slide back rather rapidly in the late dealings. The list turned down on reactions, however, and still retained the bulk of Wednesday's sweeping advance. A reactionary tendency in wheat, after an early upturn, was evidently a factor in the selling of shares. The money market was decidedly easier, with call loans getting down to 3 1/2 per cent, and after renewals at 4 per cent, and 5 yesterday.

Case dropped 4 points, and among a few about 2 to 3 were American Telephone, Union Pacific, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, American Can, Owens-Illinois Glass and others. U. S. Steel lost nearly 2. Final prices were close to the day's lowest. Sears, Montgomery Ward, Kennecott, Anaconda, Chrysler, Continental Can, General Electric, United Aircraft and many others lost a point or more. Sugar stocks were strong for a time, but reacted later, although American Sugar finished a fraction higher. Gold stocks rallied, Homestake getting up 6 points, thus erasing most of yesterday's loss.

Brokers' groups were confused by the proposed farm relief legislation, and cotton and wheat reacted. Cotton lost a sizeable portion of yesterday's advance. Closing with losses of $1.50 to $2.50 a bale. Wheat, after surging up to 2 to 3 cents, reacted to close with losses of 1/4 to 1/2 of a cent. Barley, however, gained about 2 cents net, and hogs were firm.

The dollar was the strongest it has been in some time in foreign exchange dealings. French francs ruled at a point lower at 3.84; cents, and sterling cables 1/2 cent lower at 34.46.

Credit Rates Decline.

Wall Street was enthusiastic over the indications of diversion of money and credit back into normal channels, as indicated by declining credit rates at New York, and a huge return of gold and currency to the Reserve banks, indicated in the weekly statements. Reassertion of strength on the part of the American dollar in the foreign exchange markets was another notable development. Basis for reaction, significance was seen in the action of the Canadian Government in valuing the American dollar at $1.18 in Canadian funds for customs duty purposes. Basis for reaction, significance was seen in the action of the Canadian Government in valuing the American dollar at $1.18 in Canadian funds for customs duty purposes.

Wall Street was definitely inclined to take a more cautious attitude toward stocks, until clearer indications were available as to how much business stimulation might be expected from the restored confidence in financial institutions, and from boosts in commodity prices. The steel industry viewed stiffening sugar prices hopefully. It rose 50 cents as ton in the Youngstown area today, after a rise earlier in the week. In response to its 1932 earnings report showing net of $3.2 a share, which was somewhat less than expected in some quarters. The 1931 net was $4.74 a share.

News of Day.

Outstanding in the overnight news were the weekly Federal Reserve Bank statements, providing striking evidence on the passing of the banking crisis. There was a drop of $289,000,000 in currency in circulation, and a return to the Reserve System of $27,288,000 in gold. The change, made in two cuts of 1/2 of 1 per cent each, was unusually wide for this popular medium of banking credit, and represented a prevailing July before the bank holiday in the weeks before the holiday. Sugars again were given prominent attention, reflecting the better prices for raw sugar. Allied Chemical encountered some selling. In response to its 1932 earnings report showing net of $3.2 a share, which was somewhat less than expected in some quarters. The 1931 net was $4.74 a share.

Money Rates Ease.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Rates on bankers' acceptances were reduced 1/4 of 1 per cent today on all maturities, bringing them closer in line with open market money rates. Commodities were watched closely to provide further leadership, and keen interest was expressed in the administration's emergency program to bolster prices of farm products.

LENTEN LUNCHEON NOVELTY RECIPES

Stuffed Eggs Surprise, Cauliflower Casserole and Peanut Loaf.

When there are guests for Lenten luncheons for which meatless menus must be prepared, it's good to be able to serve something a little different from the ordinary run of food.

Here are three suggestions, any of which may be served as the main dish:
Twelve eggs.
Two ounces Roquefort cheese.
One-fourth cup green pepper (finely chopped).
One-fourth cup celery (finely chopped).
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One egg (raw).
Two teaspoons water.
Two cups corn flake crumbs (fine).

Hard cook eggs about 25 minutes in water just below the boiling temperature. Cover with cold water and remove shells. Cut eggs in half lengthwise and remove yolks. Mash yolks and combine with cheese, one tablespoon of cream, green pepper, celery and seasonings. Refill the egg whites with mixture and press halves back together. Secure with toothpick if necessary. Dip in beaten raw egg to which water has been added. Roll in corn flake crumbs and fry in deep fat (370 degrees F.) until light brown in color. Serve hot with tomato sauce.
Cauliflower Casserole.
One head cauliflower (boiled).
Three cooked carrots (diced).
One cup peas (cooked).
Two cups white sauce.
One-eighth pound American cheese.
Two cups corn flakes.

Arrange carrots and peas around head of cauliflower in casserole dish. Cover with well seasoned white sauce. Sprinkle with grated cheese and corn flake crumbs. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes.
Peanut Butter Loaf.
One cup peanut butter.
One heaping cup corn flakes.
One and one-half cups cold water.
One egg.
One and one-fourth tablespoons corn starch.
Sage to taste, if desired.
Mix thoroughly. Put into a well greased coffee can. Cover and bake one and one-fourth hours in a moderate oven.

PINEAPPLE-MINT ICE CREAM
One cup crushed pineapple.
One-third cup granulated sugar.
One tablespoon flour.
One egg yolk.
One-half teaspoon gelatin.
Two teaspoons cold water.
Two teaspoons mint flavoring.
Green coloring.
One-half cup heavy cream.
Heat pineapple in top of double boiler and add sugar and flour which have been mixed together. Cook for 15 to 20 minutes. Pour over the beaten egg yolks, return to heat and cook two minutes, or until mixture coats the spoon. Add to this while hot the gelatin which has been soaked for five minutes in the cold water and chill the mixture. Add flavoring to taste and green coloring. Whip the cream until stiff and fold into the cooked mixture. Pour into the tray of an automatic refrigerator and freeze, stirring every 20 minutes until the mixture will hold its shape.

PEANUT CARROT MOLD
Four ounces macaroni.
Two beef cubes.
One cup finely ground salted peanuts.
One-half cup grated raw carrots.
Two eggs.
One cup milk.
One and one-half teaspoons salt.
One teaspoon celery salt.
Two tablespoons browned butter.
One tablespoon finely chopped onion.
One tablespoon finely chopped pimento.
Add beef cubes to boiling water. Cook macaroni; drain. Mix all ingredients. Pour into buttered loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven 30 to 45 minutes. Serve with chili sauce.

JELLIED VEGETABLE SALAD
Two tablespoons gelatin.
Six tablespoons cold water.
One and one-half cups boiling water.
One cup orange juice.
Six tablespoons lemon juice.
One-fourth cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Add boiling water, orange and lemon juice, sugar and salt. Cool.
When beginning to stiffen, add: One cup diced cooked beets.
One cup cooked carrots, diced.
Serve with any desired dressing.
Lemon Rind.
Grate one teaspoon lemon rind for each four cups of tea. Place in teapot with tea leaves, add boiling water in usual way, and see what a delicious flavor it gives the tea. Grated orange rind may be used in the same way.

Salad Dressing.
Mix two eggs beaten light with two tablespoons flour and two-thirds cup sugar. Add juice of one lemon, juice of one orange and one cup canned pineapple juice. Cook in double boiler, stirring until thick. Cook and fold in one-half cup whipped cream.

APRICOT SPICE CAKE
One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, one teaspoon soda, three eggs, well beaten, four tablespoons sour cream, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg, two cups flour, one cup mashed cooked apricots.
Cream butter and add sugar, then eggs. Blend well. Add apricots, then flour which has had the spices and soda mixed with it. Bake in loaf pan in a moderate oven about 45 minutes. Cover with caramel icing.

SCOTCH SHORT BREAD FOR TEA PARTIES

Old World Delicacy Popular for Informal Entertaining.

It's really not bread at all but rather on the cookie order without any soda or baking powder.

Scotch short bread is quite popular this winter on St. Louis tea tables and may be easily prepared at home. It takes a whole pound of butter, but this recipe makes a liberal supply and can be reduced in proportion.

Cream a pound of butter and add slowly half a pound of granulated sugar.

Cream until light, then add, also slowly, two pounds of flour. Stir until perfectly smooth, pour into greased pan, prick all over with fork and bake until a light brown. Then cut in squares or fancy shapes.
Scotch bread with fruit, especially fresh strawberries, is a delicious dinner dessert.

CHOCOLATE SPONGE

Soak together for five minutes, one level teaspoon of gelatine in one-fourth cup cold water. Cook together for three minutes until smooth one and one-half squares chocolate, one-third cup sugar, one-fourth cup cold water and one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Add softened gelatine to hot chocolate mixture, then cool. When it begins to thicken, fold in one teaspoon vanilla, three beaten egg yolks and whites of three eggs beaten very stiff. Rinse molds in cold water and fill with sponge.

TUNA JELLY LOAF

One level tablespoon gelatine, one-fourth cup cold water. Yolks of two eggs, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon mustard, one and a half tablespoons melted butter, three-fourths cup milk, two tablespoons lemon juice, one can tuna fish, few grains cayenne or paprika.

Soak gelatine in cold water about five minutes. Mix egg yolks, slightly beaten, with salt, mustard and cayenne; then add butter, milk and vinegar. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add soaked gelatine and tuna, separated into flakes. Turn into wet mold, chill and unmold on bed of crisp lettuce leaves.

SPONGE CAKE

Beat the yolks of four eggs until creamy, add gradually one cup sugar and continue beating until very light, or for about a minute. Add one-half cup orange juice. Measure one cup sifted cake flour. Mix with one teaspoon baking powder and sift the mixture into the egg yolks and sugar.

Stir until well mixed, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Pour into a greased angel cake pan or into two large layer cake pans and bake in a moderate oven for 50 minutes for the loaf cake or 30 minutes for the layers.

CRANBERRY MUFFINS

One egg, three-fourths cup milk, two cups sifted flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, four tablespoons melted butter, one cup cranberries.

Beat eggs slightly and add milk. To liquid mixture, add sifted dry ingredients. Roll berries in two more tablespoons of sugar and fold into batter with melted fat. Do not stir the mixture any more than necessary. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake in moderately hot oven for about 30 minutes.

CRAB CHOWDER

Melt three tablespoons of butter. Add one small piece of onion finely chopped and cook about two minutes. Add a small can of tomatoes, two cups of potatoes cut into small cubes, one pint of water and salt and pepper to taste. Cover kettle closely and cook without stirring over a moderate fire for 20 minutes, then add a large can of crab meat and cook slowly two or three minutes more.

EGG SHELL DESSERTS

PLEASE YOUNG GUESTS

Novel Way of Serving Old Favorites Amuses Children.

It takes a little fancy touch to make a success of refreshments at parties for children. A table with a centerpiece of candy chicks and chocolate bunnies is a pre-Easter hint, and the dessert served in egg shells follows the same plan.

The same idea for desserts may be followed for home meals when children's appetites seem to need a bit of coaxing.

Cooked Coconut Custard.
Three-fourths cup milk, scalded.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-sixteenth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth cup coconut.
One egg yolk.
One egg white.

One-fourth teaspoon vanilla.
Add the sugar and salt to the slightly beaten egg yolk. Add the hot scalded milk to the egg. Put in a double boiler, cook stirring constantly until thickened. Add vanilla and fold in stiffly beaten egg white. This will fill nine egg shells, using two tablespoonsful of custard for each egg shell. Top each egg shell with coconut. Serve in egg cups.

Allow one egg shell for each child. There are little egg openers which clip off the top of an egg so neatly that the remainder of the egg makes a smooth-edged little dish. But a sharp knife will clip off the top of an egg if it is done fast.

Wash each egg shell inside and out; then with a teaspoon fill the custard into the shells.

Sponge Cake.
One cup sifted flour.
One teaspoon baking powder.
Three eggs.
Dash of salt.
One cup sugar.

Two teaspoons lemon juice.
Six tablespoons hot milk.
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt and sift together. Beat eggs until very light. Add sugar gradually and beat well. Add lemon juice. Fold in flour mixture, alternating with milk, mixing quickly and lightly until batter is smooth. With a teaspoon fill each egg shell just slightly more than half. Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 45 minutes. This quantity fills 24 shells.

Top each cake with an icing rosette, made as follows:

Butter Cream Icing.
One egg white.
Powdered sugar to stiffen.
Two teaspoons butter.

One-sixteenth teaspoon vanilla.
Add the powdered sugar to the unbeaten egg white, gradually stirring it with a spoon. Add vanilla and butter. Put a little of the icing on top of each cake, either with a spoon or with a pastry tube.

PLATTER DINNER

Mix together two cups of corned beef, two cupsful seasoned mashed potatoes, four tablespoons of chopped onion. Spread on a baking dish and make depressions or wells by pressing the bottom of a custard cup into the hash. Drop a raw egg into each well and cook until eggs are done.

Put this in the center of a platter, arrange around the edges halves of cooked carrots, brushed with melted butter. Alternate with prunes prepared in the following way: remove the pit from a cooked prune, insert a stuffed olive and roll the prune in a strip of bacon. Bake for 35 minutes in a hot oven.

LITTLE ANGEL CAKES

Scald one-half cup milk with two tablespoons butter. Add one cup sugar. Mix one cup sifted cake flour with one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, sift again and stir into the liquid mixture. Beat the whites of four eggs until foamy, add one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Fold into the cake batter and fold over and cover until thoroughly blended.

The mixture will be quite thin. Four into 12 cup cake pans that have been greased and sprinkled with flour. Bake in a moderate oven—375 degrees—for 20 to 25 minutes.

Peanut Macaroons.
Beat whites of two eggs stiff and dry. Add slowly one cup confectioners' sugar, one-fourth cup pastry flour and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Fold in one cup of chopped peanuts. Drop from a spoon on greased baking pan about two inches apart. Bake in hot oven about 10 minutes.

Chicken Salad.
Blend three cups cooked chicken cut fine, two cups diced celery, one small can of mushrooms cut in quarters, one cup salted almonds cut in halves, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-half teaspoon paprika and mayonnaise enough to moisten well.

Home Economics

BALANCED DIETS ARE VITAL FOR CHILDREN

Red Cross Stresses Importance of Proper Food During Depression.

Perhaps the gravest dangers of the present economic depression lie in the menace it presents to the proper nourishment of childhood. As health experts have repeatedly explained, malnutrition of children unquestionably lowers the health standard of the nation, and it is for this reason that the problem of adequate nourishment becomes one of utmost importance at the present time, in order that the growing generation will not reflect, in weak, ill-formed bodies and dulled minds, the effects of economic depression.

Since a fairly adequate diet can be purchased at low cost, why spend food money to buy sickness instead of health? One of the most valuable services relief agencies render the families they contact is the guidance given in making incomes stretch farther. Social service agencies are well aware of their obligation in this direction, and such organizations as the Red Cross, for example, have been instrumental in spreading the gospel of proper food, particularly to the lower-income groups who most need such information.

The Red Cross chapters all over the country have available the advice of an expert nutritionist of the Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C.

There is a particularly fortunate tie-up in communities where a Red Cross public health nurse is employed. These nurses, in examining school children, can discover symptoms pointing to a need for special advice on nutrition and general health principles, and thus avert the development of serious health problems.

A recent Red Cross publication reports that many chapters have organized nutrition committees consisting of the local home economics teacher, home bureau agent, school nurse, food demonstrators, etc.

Mothers' Classes.

One chapter conducts a class for the mothers of under-nourished children. The school nurse makes up the list of these women. Members of the committee visit the homes to interest mothers in attending classes. In some chapters the Motor Corps call for the women and take them home. The food and nutrition classes in another chapter were largely representative of foreign groups. These women were asked to bring their favorite recipes to class to tell the others how to prepare them and often to demonstrate the preparation of their dish for the class. While perhaps a few years ago, housewives would have resented being told what to cook and how to prepare it, they realize more generally now the dangers of inadequate diet, and welcome authoritative help on the subject. The lack of information on nutrition is not restricted to low-income groups. Nutritionists frequently find that families financially able to buy the best are as untutored in food knowledge as the poorer classes.

In American diets, cereal products, meat, and potatoes are used in abundance. Milk, green vegetables and fruits are less certain to be liberally supplied. This condition is not caused by reduced budgets, but generally is the result of fixed food habits and in far too many cases a strong opposition to any variance in menu.

Red Cross Textbook.

In planning meals of any sort, it is well to remember these significant facts, taken from the American Red Cross Textbook on Food and Nutrition: Highly milled cereal products, including bread, are valuable as relatively cheap and easily digested sources of fuel, but lack sufficient protein and minerals, especially calcium, phosphorus, iron, vitamins and indigestible residue, to be complete foods. Meat adds to the diet protein, iron and flavor. Milk adds to it calcium, phosphorus and vitamins. Vegetables add to it cellulose, a little of vitamins A and B, with a good supply of calcium and phosphorus. Fruits, especially raw citrus fruits and tomatoes, add some of vitamin A and much B and C, while other fruits like apples and pears, add considerable of vitamin B and some C.

In some sections the public has had dramatic proof of the need of a properly balanced diet. Pellagra, a disease prevalent where people live on a very restricted diet, is caused by a deficiency of vitamins, and is one of the causes of the greatest number of deaths in those sections. The Southwest drought in 1930 destroyed vegetable gardens upon which the people depended for their supply of green vegetables, a valuable source of vitamins, and consequently brought about a grave health situation and increase in cases of pellagra. The Red Cross, as part of its relief program in the drought disaster, distributed yeast free to pellagra sufferers.

While pellagra is an evidence of vitamin deficiency in aggravated form, there are less violent manifestations of vitamin deficiency. Noted authorities say that a susceptibility to colds and infections of the upper respiratory tract may be caused by an insufficiency of vitamins A and D. Anemia may result from a lack of iron. Digestive disorders are frequently caused by an unwise selection of diet. It is cheering to know that

OYSTER PASTE MAKES TASTY SANDWICHES

Pie, Deviled and Creamed Recipes Are Also Given.

"There are many Lenten recipes, but are there any for Lenten sandwiches?" writes a reader.

How about oyster paste as a sandwich filler to answer this request? Oysters are so cheap and good this month that the more used the better.

Deviled oysters, creamed oysters and oyster pie will help increase interest in this popular food.

Oyster Paste.

Chop one quart oysters fine; season with salt, pepper and nutmeg; add one-half cup melted butter, one-half cup cream, whites of three eggs beaten and eight powdered crackers. Cook until smooth paste. Set away to cool; then spread between bread or toast slices.

Deviled Oysters.

Chop fine one pint oysters. Put in saucepan with one teaspoonful of melted butter and a gill of cream. Season with cayenne and salt and add one-half cupful of rolled cracker crumbs. Put on the stove and allow to simmer five minutes, stirring gently. Then put in a baking dish, sprinkle bread crumbs and bits of butter over top, and bake until top is a rich golden brown.

Oyster Potpie.

Put one pint oysters in a saucepan with a cup of water. Put on stove and heat slowly, adding one tablespoonful of butter, salt and cayenne. Thicken with a little flour and allow to cook six minutes, stirring gently. Have ready light biscuit dough, cut into small squares, drop them in and boil until they are cooked through. If preferred, this dish may be baked in the oven with a top crust.

A SUGAR-SAFE CAKE FLOUR

And You Get 5 Full Lbs.
at Usual 2 3/4 Lb. Price

NO MORE "SAD" CAKES

"Sugar-safety" Corrects Cause of Most Cake Failures—New Cake
Flour Gives 81% More Value, Too

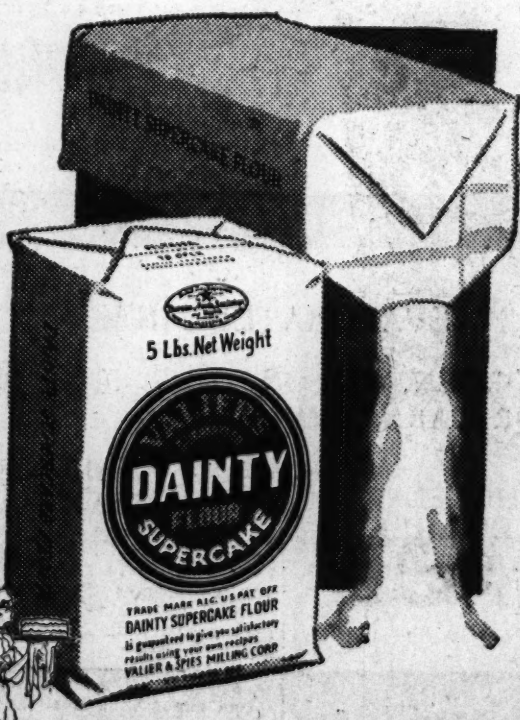

What is a "sad" cake?

Chemists say: "It has small volume, crumbly grain, and a heavy, sunken crust with 'freckle-like' sugar spots."

What causes "sad" cakes?

Chemists answer: "Too much sugar for the kind of flour used. The flour must absorb sugar much like a sponge does water. Only a sugar-safe cake flour can do that."

At last, a sugar-safe cake flour—Dainty Super-Cake has been perfected. By actual test, it has the highest "sugar-safety" of any—yes ANY—cake flour made. Laboratory tests prove it is 125% sugar-safe. This means that each 4 ounces of Dainty Super-Cake Flour can absorb as much as 5 ounces of sugar. No other cake flour has such high sugar carrying capacity.

MILLED BY THE MILLERS OF VALIER'S ENTERPRISE FLOUR

To be sugar-safe, Dainty Super-Cake must be the most finely granulated flour made. It is. Exactly 98.2% is passed through a silk screen having 22,500 meshes to the square inch. The sheerest women's French hosiery silk is only 3,247 mesh—only one-seventh as fine.

On BOTH sugar-safety and fineness, New Dainty Super-Cake excels any other cake flour made.

Just Use Any Recipe

If the family likes a sweet cake, use a recipe calling for lots of sugar. Dainty Super-Cake's "sugar-safety" factor gives you lee-way. And don't worry if the recipe asks for less sugar, or even less or more of other ingredients. Just go ahead with Dainty Super-Cake.

The fine, silky granules of Dainty Super-Cake absorb more moisture—more milk—and cakes stay soft, moist, and tempting longer, by actual test, than with any other cake flour.

You Get 81% More Flour
At Usual 2 3/4 Pound Price

Although it costs us more to make Dainty Super-Cake 125% "sugar-safe," we wish to give extra value. Months ago we asked housewives how we should pack it. We showed them boxes and self-pour packages. We told them how much their flour would cost in each.

Practically all voted for Dainty in a new-type, self-pour, convenient Deltaseal package. In this new container we pack 5 full pounds. In the more costly box, we could have put only 2 3/4 pounds.

So now we offer you the only 125% "sugar-safe" flour—5 full pounds—the most convenient package—at the usual price of less-safe flours in 2 3/4 pound boxes.

An Amazing Guarantee

Take home this 5 pound value of the only 125% "sugar-safe" flour. Bake with it. Try it. If for ANY reason you want to return part of the flour, your grocer will give you your choice of any 2 3/4 pound cake flour. We'll pay the grocer. That's fair, isn't it?

You risk nothing. You gain much. You get "sugar-safe" cake flour, and 81% more of it. So get a package of Dainty Super-Cake today.

STEWING CHICKEN IS FRIED IN EUROPE

Vienna and Florence Give Appetizing Recipes for Fowl.

Last week in this section we gave a Spanish method of cooking chicken and this week publish recipes from Florence and Vienna. Both of these are for chicken which are fried after a preliminary stewing.

Vienna Fry.
One stewing chicken, Olive oil—enough to cover, One tablespoon lemon juice, One bay leaf, 10 small mushrooms, One cup chicken stock, One tablespoon parsley, Two eggs, well beaten, One egg yolk, One cup milk.
Clean and cut up chicken. Cover with a mixture of lemon juice and olive oil. Add parsley, bay leaf, salt and pepper. Cook for three hours, or until done. Drain, dip each piece in egg and then in bread crumbs and brown. Mix the chicken stock, milk, egg yolk, seasoning and heat thoroughly. Just before removing from the fire add the mushrooms. Pour sauce around the chicken. Garnish with slices of lemon and a few sprigs of parsley.

Florence Chicken.
Four pounds stewing chicken, One pint water, Two egg yolks, Bread crumbs, browned, One-half pound grated cheese, Juice of one lemon.
Clean and cut up chicken. Cook over slow fire in one pint of water until tender. Remove chicken and reduce stock to one cup. Add the yolks of 2 well beaten eggs and the lemon juice. Strain, dip the chicken in the sauce, then in a mixture of bread crumbs and grated cheese. Fry a golden brown. If any sauce remains, pour over chicken.

Molasses With Beans.
Follow usual recipe for baking beans, using molasses instead of sugar—from two to three tablespoons of molasses to a quart of beans is about the right amount.

VEGETABLES RUINED BY FAULTY COOKING

Experts Advise Best Methods to Preserve the Food Values.

The best of foods can be ruined in the cooking. But "ruined" may mean different things to different people. To sacrifice flavor of texture or color is bad, of course. To sacrifice food value is worse, especially in a household that must count its pennies and buy its food with strict economy in food values. Nutrients—the most important for the money—are the main things to consider here.

Because it is so important to keep as much as possible of the original values of the raw foods, the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is continually studying cooking methods, especially for vegetables. So far nobody has found a way to cook vegetables without some loss of nutritive value, but the scientific cook can keep that loss to a minimum.

Loss of food value in cooking is due in part to the fact that some of the nutritive materials in the vegetable dissolve in water. This is true of vitamins and mineral salts, some of the proteins, the sugars, and even some of the starch. The more water, and the greater the cut surface of the vegetable, the greater this loss becomes. Therefore, says the expert, cook the vegetable whole when you can. Use as little cooking water as possible, and serve the liquid with the vegetable, or else in soup, sauce or gravy. Cook the vegetable only long enough to make it tender. Overcooking makes it flabby, soft, or mushy, and causes greater loss of nutritive values.

Other losses that occur in cooking are due to chemical changes, especially oxidation. The oxygen in the air, in the cooking water, or in the vegetable itself, may cause this chemical change. Heat also causes chemical changes, which vary with cooking time. Mineral salts are lost because they are soluble and because the vegetable tissues break down from overcooking and release the vegetable juices. In most of the vegetables, the greatest loss in cooking is of vitamin C, which is soluble in water, and early destroyed by heat. Tomatoes are an exception to this, because the acid of the tomato protects its vitamin C. In general, to preserve this vitamin as far as possible, cook quickly in boiling water. Vitamin B, also soluble in water, is less easily destroyed by heat, and therefore much of it can be saved by saving and using the cooking water. The same is true of vitamin G. Vitamins A and D are not readily destroyed in cooking.

Baking Is Good Method.
From the standpoint of food value, baking a vegetable in its skin or in a casserole is the best cooking method, but both require more fuel than top-of-the-stove cooking. Potatoes, squash, cucumbers, tomatoes, and onions, for example, contain enough water to form steam and keep them moist, and the skin holds in the steam. The baking should be slow, with moderate oven. In casserole cooking the earthenware baker, or heavy glass container, with a close fitting lid, takes the place of the vegetable skin by holding in the steam and juices.

Boiling, though it requires less fuel than baking, calls for greater precautions to prevent loss of food value. For cabbage, turnips, onions, cauliflower and Brussels sprouts, use only enough water to cover, and boil gently. Cook green vegetables, such as turnip tops, kale or other green leaves, in a very small amount of water, or none except that which clings after washing.

Panning is an excellent top-of-the-stove method, and very economical. Cut the vegetable into small pieces and cook it in a flat covered pan, with a little fat to prevent sticking. The water that cooks out evaporates, so there is no extra liquid, and the cooking time is so short that the loss of vitamins is slight. Kale or cabbage panned in milk are good variations of this method.

Frying Is the Cooking Method which gives a flavor all its own. The hot fat causes the starch in the vegetable to brown, or dextrinize, and some of the sugar to caramelize, thus developing the characteristic flavor of fried foods.

Fried New Cabbage.
Three quarts shredded or chopped cabbage. Five tablespoons bacon fat. Put the fat in a frying pan, add the cabbage, cover to keep in the steam. Cook slowly and stir occasionally. When the cabbage has lost some of its crispness but still is green, sprinkle with pepper, move salt if needed, and serve at once.

Browned Parsnips.
Scrub parsnips clean, drop into lightly salted, boiling water, and cook for 20 to 30 minutes, or until tender. Drain, scrape off the skin, split lengthwise, and pull out the stringy cores. Dip the pieces in flour and fry in fat until golden brown. Or mash the parsnips after the cores have been removed, season, and form into small cakes before frying.

Apple and Cranberry Sauce.
One cup cranberries, one cup of diced apples, one cup water, one cup sugar. Cook apples and cranberries together until tender. Add sugar and when the sauce is thick remove from fire, strain and cool.

CHARGES U. S. DUCK HUNTERS POACH ON CANADIAN WATERS

Witness at Ontario Legislative Hearing Says American Boats Outdistance Game Wardens.

TORONTO, Ont., March 17.—Before the Ontario Legislative Fish and Game Committee hearing delegations sportsmen from all parts of the province, R. A. Caracallen, Walacuban duck hunter in the Mitchell's bay, river and lake St. Clair regions as absolutely "unfair" toward Ontario hunters.

The Americans, he asserted, towed houseboats across to the Canadian side and set up "feudal estates." Their fast boats permitted them to outrun game wardens and they paid no attention to Ontario's laws regarding numbers of ducks shot, he said. Canadians, he pointed out, were unable to hunt in Michigan, across the water.

One man particularly, he said, took a servant to the Canadian side and sent him out at 3 o'clock in the morning to stake the best duck territory. A Canadian hunter who had later tried to get the best location at midnight had been forced to call the game wardens when the American stalked decoys 500 yards from shore, cutting off the Canadian entirely. He added that ducks often collected on the lake in large numbers and the speedy craft of the Americans plowed through the "raft" with "guns going in all directions."

FORMING NEW PARTY FOR U. S.
American Nationalists Being Organized by Bonus Army Chief.

OMAHA, Neb., March 17.—Formation of a new party to be known as the American Nationalist party, was launched here last night by W. W. Waters, Portland, Ore., commander of the bonus army in Washington. About 250 persons attended the meeting and signed up. Most of them were World War veterans. "The new party," said Waters, "will not seek to impede President Roosevelt. We will stand in back of him as long as he fulfills his pledges."

U. S. SANCTION IS SOUGHT FOR NEW DETROIT BANK PLAN

Group Goes to Washington to Present Proposal for Reorganizing Biggest Depositories.

DETROIT, March 17.—A committee representing large depositors of Detroit's two national banks, headed by Hal H. Smith, attorney, will go to Washington today to present a plan for organizing a new bank. It was announced last night by Smith.

The two banks, the First National Bank-Detroit and Guardian National Bank of Commerce, are in the hands of Federal conservators. Although it was definitely established that Henry Ford and his son, Edsel B. Ford, stand ready to assist in the capital structure of the new bank, it was authoritatively stated that they have not yet been asked to participate. The plan to be submitted, Smith said, contemplated the organization of the new bank with capital subscribed by the large depositors of the two old banks.

Dip in beaten eggs diluted with one tablespoon cold water, then in fine bread crumbs again. Place oysters on waxed or parchment paper or on a large platter and let stand for 30 minutes in a cold place, then fry in deep fat, hot enough to brown a piece of bread in one minute, or heated to 350 degrees if you use a fat thermometer. Drain on soft paper and serve hot with tartar sauce, catsup or chili sauce. Allow six oysters to a serving.

German Kidney Slew.
Wash a beef kidney, cover with cold water, add one tablespoon salt and let soak for two hours. Drain, rinse with fresh water, and cut the kidney in small pieces. Mix three tablespoons flour with one teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper and roll the kidney in it.

Melt three tablespoons fat in a saucepan, add the floured kidney and brown quickly. Reduce the heat, add two sliced onions, a tiny piece of bayleaf, one cup canned tomatoes and two cups boiling water. Cover and simmer for one hour, stir in one tablespoon vinegar, one-half teaspoon celery seed. Continue cooking very slowly for an hour more until the kidney are very tender. Thicken the gravy with flour or drop small dumplings on the stew and cook for 10 minutes. These will thicken and absorb some of the gravy.

Apricot Sponge.
Two tablespoons gelatine.
Three tablespoons cold water.
One-third cup sugar.
One cup boiling water.
One cup canned apricots.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One-third cup prepared coconut.
One egg white.

Soften gelatine in cold water, add sugar and boiling water, stir until gelatine and sugar are dissolved, then add apricots pressed through sieve, also lemon juice. Cool, and when almost at setting point beat until foamy, add stiffly beaten egg white, fold in coconut and continue beating until spoon holds its shape. Pile high in dish and serve remaining apricots cut small with syrup as a sauce.

Prune Whip.
One cup prune pulp.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Whites two eggs.

Prepare prune pulp by pressing cooked fruit through sieve. Add sugar and salt, then blend with stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into buttered baking dish and bake in slow oven about 20 minutes. Serve immediately with cream or custard sauce.

Coffee Jelly.
One tablespoon gelatine.
Two cups coffee (boiled or percolated).
One-fourth cup sugar.

One-half teaspoon vanilla extract. Soften gelatine in one-half cup of coffee (cold). Dissolve sugar in remaining coffee which should be scalding hot, add softened gelatine, stir until entirely dissolved, cool, add vanilla, turn into mold previously dipped into cold water, chill, unmold and serve with cream.

Meat Bones.
Meat bones and marrow contain valuable mineral salts, and the practice of boiling a ham bone or any meat bones with vegetables has much to recommend it. Besides adding flavor to the food, they are cooked with, calcium, phosphorus, iron and several other mineral salts are dissolved out of the bones in the cooking process.

Highest "cake flour" quality without the penalty of higher price!

An old notion has been exploded! You need not pay the penalty of high price to have "cake flour" quality for everything you bake.

"Cake flour" is a question of quality—not a matter of price! Every miller knows that "cake flour" is merely high-grade soft wheat flour sold in labeled packages.

Omega has always been "cake flour" in quality—warranted to be equal or superior to the highest grade "cake flour" that money can buy, regardless of price. Yet Omega sells for far less than you would expect to pay for flour of this superfine character. In fact, you will find that Omega, in most cases, costs nearly 1/2 the price of packaged "cake flour." Only the cream of the finest soft wheat becomes Omega—not one bushel in every ten reaped is of this grade. In a great modern mill—the showplace of the industry—this choice wheat is milled to superfine softness and sifted nearly 30 times through silk so finely meshed that even water can't pass through it. To keep Omega's high quality always at its peak, even the air in the mill is washed in water and the temperature there never varies. Every hour as it is milled Omega is oven-tested by actual baking.

Try Omega just once. Its superb quality will put "cake flour" deliciousness in everything you bake at very welcome savings in money. Ask your grocer for the convenient 5-pound Handipak Package.

DICKMANN HIDES ISSUES IN SMOKE SCREEN, NEUN SAYS

Republican Candidate Charges Democratic Opponent Has Diverted His Campaign to Generalities

A charge that Bernard F. Dickmann, Democratic nominee for Mayor, has failed to offer constructive or specific solutions for municipal problems was made last night by President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, Republican majority nominee. Neun spoke at Carpenters' Hall, 3606 Cozans avenue, and over radio station KSD.

"The next Mayor," Neun said, "must be free from political entanglements with persons more interested in extending and perpetuating their power than in the welfare of St. Louis."

"With the future progress and development of St. Louis at stake," he said, "my Democratic opponent has developed his time to generalities and building up a smoke screen in an apparent effort to obscure the real issues as well as the influences back of his candidacy."

Dickmann has not shown, Neun went on, "that he has a sufficient understanding of our vital municipal problems and needs to take over the reins of government in these troublesome times." Neun called attention to his own platform, dealing with various problems.

Charter Amendments.
The Republican nominee asserted that Dickmann apparently had endeavored to block the submission to the voters next month of charter amendments to revise the condemnation procedure. The secretary of the Real Estate Exchange, of which Dickmann is president, made a last-minute effort to stop submission of the amendments at this time, Neun said.

Neun inquired whether Dickmann favored or opposed the amendments, and if he opposed them, why he had not presented a constructive substitute.

Dickmann's platform was described by Neun as "vague and meaningless." Neun renewed an attack on the affiliation of the Democratic machine, which is backing Dickmann, and the Kansas City Democratic machine of Boss Tom Pendergast. The Republican nominee declared that emissaries of the Kansas City boss had been here to tell the local politicians how to build up their organization. Kansas City tax figures show how municipal affairs there are conducted, Neun continued. He said the per capita tax levy in Kansas City is nearly 12 per cent greater than that in St. Louis, although the population is less than half as large.

Winner Continues Campaign.
Samuel L. Wimer, independent candidate for Mayor, continued his campaign last night, speaking at Soudard Library, 704 Soudard street. Forty members of the Traffic Club, meeting yesterday at the Annex Hotel, endorsed the candidacies of Dickmann and John R. Slay, Democratic nominees for Seventh Ward Alderman and a member of the club.

More than 300 persons attended a card party given by the Twenty-second Ward women's Democratic organization at Euclid Hall, 4906 Natural Bridge avenue, last night. Mrs. Lucille McQuade, committee-woman, spoke in behalf of Dickmann.

OMAHA PRIEST DELIVERS EULOGY OF ST. PATRICK

Servants in Church at Biddle and Sixth Streets Attended by Archbishop Glennon.

A tradition of 90 years was observed again today when the city's principal religious celebration of St. Patrick's day was held at St. Patrick's Church, Sixth and Biddle streets. Most of the descendants of the earlier Irish parishioners have long since moved to other parts of the city, but today many of them went downtown to church.

Archbishop Glennon was present in the sanctuary as solemn high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Gerald McMahon of Holy Rosary Church. By the prelate's side were Mgr. Timothy Dempsey, pastor of St. Patrick's Church for 35 years, and Mgr. P. P. Crane, Vicar-General of the St. Louis archdiocese.

The panegyric on St. Patrick was delivered by the Rev. Michael H. Pathe of Omaha, a Redemptorist formerly stationed at St. Alphonsus Church here. The choir of mixed voices in other years, was made up exclusively of men and boys, in conformity with Archbishop Glennon's recent order on liturgical music.

$6,000,000 Fund to Be Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 17.—Tobacco interests, threatened at this session of the Legislature with a stamp tax on cigarettes, will escape under the proposed State sales tax that they have co-operated in the preparation of the bill. The sales tax will be one per cent on retail dealers and one-eighth of one per cent on wholesale dealers.

The measure was completed yesterday by Representative McCawley of Carthage and was approved last night by the House Ways and Means Committee. It is on the House calendar today for perfection. McCawley estimated that it would produce a revenue of slightly less than $6,000,000 a year. It is essentially a retail sales tax and includes every article of sale except food. Admissions to picture shows, amusements and sports are included. Oil and gasoline are excluded because of the existing State tax.

The tobacco interests had succeeded in defeating their cigarette and tobacco tax bills in both Senate and House. The House bill had proposed a tax of 2 cents on each package of 20 cigarettes, or 14 per cent for a 15-cent package. The Senate bill provided for a 3-cent tax on each 20 cigarettes, or a 20 per cent tax. Under the House sales tax bill the tax will be one per cent, or one and one-half mills on a package.

F. L. English Aids McCawley. Former Judge Fred L. English of St. Louis, representing the tobacco interests, has co-operated with Representative McCawley, and said today that he thought no particular industry had the right to complain of a tax which was levied equally on all.

McCawley said he expected to call the bill up in the House today and believed it would encounter little opposition. He said it might be passed Saturday or Monday.

The imposition of the tax has a two-fold purpose, relief to the counties and St. Louis on their school taxes and on the expense of caring for their insane patients. One-fourth of the receipts of the tax will go directly to the common schools of the State, being distributed, as are other State school funds, on the basis of the number of pupils in attendance and the number of teachers employed. The remaining three-fourths will go to the general revenue fund of the State, and from this the common schools will receive one-third, thus giving to the schools approximately one-half the amount derived from the tax.

Tax Expires June, 1935.

The remainder of the fund is for emergency relief for the counties and St. Louis in the cost of the care of insane patients. To make certain that this special tax shall be a substitute for property taxes paid for local purposes the bill requires that there shall be no distribution to any county or other subdivision of the State until the assessment and local tax rate has been adjusted so that the amount of local taxes shall be decreased to the extent of the money received from the State.

Viewing the tax as an emergency measure it is provided that it shall be effective only until June 30, 1935. It will expire on that date unless it is re-enacted by the Legislature in 1935.

As has been told, the tax will be 1 per cent of the sale price of each article sold, the tax to be collected by the seller, who is required to make monthly returns to the State Tax Commission.

CIVIC BODIES OPPOSE SALES TAX BILL

A resolution opposing the 1 per cent retail sales tax under consideration in the State Legislature and increase of any tax at this time was adopted yesterday at a meeting of representatives of St. Louis business and civic organizations at Hotel Jefferson.

The resolution was sent in telegrams to Gov. Park, Speaker Meredith of the House, Democratic Floor Leader Keating and Representatives and Senators of St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Bernard Shaw Pooh-Poohs League, Roosevelt's 'New Deal', Democracy

Irish Playwright at Honolulu Says President Isn't Going to Do Anything, Can't Do Anything—U. S. Ruled by Racketeers.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, March 17.—George Bernard Shaw, Irish playwright, arriving here yesterday from the Far East on his journey around the world, pooh-poohed the League of Nations, President Roosevelt's "New Deal" and decried democratic institutions generally.

He said Hawaiian surfboards held no attraction for him—he wished to ride surfboards in South Africa.

He was not apprehensive of another war, but indicated the possibility of war centered on Chancellor Hitler in Germany.

"The world is a little too close to the last World War to go into another," Shaw said. "The nations have to forget first. But war always is impending."

"There has been a breakup of the old order in Germany, and the question there is whether Hitler is going to be a Keresky or a Mussolini. Nobody else can answer that and neither can I."

He laughed off "The New Deal" in the United States. "Everybody thinks Mr. Roosevelt is going to do something," Shaw said. "He is not going to do anything. He cannot do anything. Your fine democratic institutions prevent it. What did Mr. Hoover do? Nothing. Yet he was a good man, with sound ideas."

"It just happened that Mr.

Roosevelt got photographed at the right moment with a baby. He got in on one of those silly landlides you are liable to get in elections.

"The idea of democracy is futile. Safeguards for liberty are nonsense. The function of Governments is to do away with liberty up to a certain point."

What the United States needs, Shaw said, is a dictator. A reporter asked him to define a dictator, but Shaw sidestepped with: "A dictator is a bogey term which frightens people out of their wits. Every country is under a dictator."

"You people in America," he went on, "won't be governed by anybody but racketeers. I haven't been in your country, but I have heard what your big men said. Al Capone probably did a great deal of your governing before he was jailed."

Japan, Shaw said, "smashed" the League of Nations. "Consequently," he added, "the League and other Powers decided not to boycott Japan, but to make some money-selling arms. Why, Mr. Stanley Baldwin announced the other day that everybody else is selling arms, so let us do it, too."

The playwright nearly exploded when someone asked him about "this new technocracy."

"New?" he exclaimed, "why I was talking about it 40 years ago."

FIGHTING CONTINUES FOR WALL OF CHINA

Japanese Bombers Said to Have Hammered Defenders at Jehol Pass.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, March 17.—Heavy punishment by bombing planes of Chinese troops attacking the Japanese positions at Hsienfengkow, most important pass in the central section of the great wall along the Jehol border, was reported today in Japanese dispatches.

A crew of five Japanese aviators was reported lost when one of the bombing planes failed to return to the military base at Chinchow, Manchuria, near the eastern frontier of Jehol.

Large Chinese concentrations were trying repeatedly to recapture Hsienfengkow, Japanese sources said. The Japanese brigade which worked its way southward from Lingyuan, Jehol, to seize the wall passes in that area, has encountered considerable heavy fighting in the last week.

Chinese reports said it was feared the Japanese would sweep into the Chinese territory south of the great wall because of the continued attack of the Chinese at Hsienfengkow, 100 miles northeast of Peiping. They said 30,000 so-called "big words" fighting under Gen. Sung Chieh-yuan, have made several night raids on the Japanese.

Stripped to the waist despite the intense cold, the swordsmen were reported to have driven the Japanese off the wall to a hill outside the pass in an attack. A Peiping dispatch last night said Gen. Sung, in a public appeal to the Chinese for sympathy for his efforts, said the motto of his swordsmen was: "Rather become a lost soul than the slave of a lost country."

U. S. EXPORTS FOR FEBRUARY WERE SMALLEST SINCE 1904

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The United States had a favorable trade balance of $17,000,000 in February, exporting $100,000,000 worth of merchandise and importing $83,000,000.

The balance compared with $24,584,000 in January, when $120,583,000 worth of merchandise was sent abroad and $96,009,000 imported. For the two months of the present year, the favorable trade balance has amounted to $41,884,000, with exports of $220,593,000 and imports of $178,709,000. In the same period of the 1932 year the favorable trade balance amounted to $37,474,000. Exports by the United States in February were the smallest since 1904 when they amounted to $82,264,000.

BRITISH PLAN FOR A NEW INDIAN CONSTITUTION PUBLISHED

LONDON, March 17.—A federation of the British provinces and native states of India is proposed in the Government's plan for a new Indian constitution, published this afternoon in a "white paper."

It provides for a Federal legislature of elected representatives of British India, and representatives of the Indian states appointed by the state rulers.

There would be a Federal executive consisting of the Governor-General, that is, the Viceroy—and a council of ministers which would be responsible to the legislature subject to certain qualifications.

The upper chamber of this legislature, called the council of state, would consist of a maximum of 260 members, 100 from the native states and 160 from British India, most of them elected by members of the several provincial legislatures.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 17.—Medit Staff, the wife of Abdul Kadir, son of the former Sultan of Turkey, was fined $15 today for libelling her husband. She gave the newspapers a statement that Abdul was "a broken-down orchestra leader" too shabby to appear in the bars. A newspaper publisher was fined the same amount for printing the story.

ST. LOUIS LOSES FIGHT FOR FAIR DISTRICTING BILL

Local Senators Do a Little Gerrymandering of Their Own After Committee Ignores Their Pleas.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 17.—Hope has been abandoned by St. Louis Senators of preventing a State Congressional District gerrymander which will deprive St. Louis of equal representation with other parts of the State. Although on population St. Louis is entitled to three Congressional Districts, it is to be required to join with the more than 200,000 population of St. Louis County. The city and county together will have three districts.

Arguments of the St. Louis Senators before the Committee on Elections, of which no St. Louis Senator is a member, though Senator Sholwell of St. Louis County is, were unavailing. They insisted that the city should have three Congressmen and that the county should be thrown in with several adjoining counties to make another district.

Rural Senators, however, refused their demands for two reasons. One was that they desired to concentrate the heavy Republican vote of the city and county into as few districts as possible, and the other that adjoining counties did not wish to be thrown with St. Louis County, which because of its large population would dominate the district.

Some Local Gerrymandering.

The Elections Committee yesterday afternoon reported favorably three districting bills with amendments changing somewhat the boundaries of the St. Louis districts as decided on in the House.

After the committee had told Senators Kinney, Brogan and Doran, that the three Democrats from St. Louis, that the city and county together would have only three districts, it agreed to permit them to decide the boundaries of the city districts.

They probably have succeeded in creating one Democratic district in the three, a district which they believe Congressman Cochran will have little difficulty in carrying. To do so, they had to do a little gerrymandering themselves, creating a district with a population of about 266,000, while the other districts, which will be Republican, will have a population of nearly 800,000.

Doran Is Overruled.

The Eleventh District, or the Dyer district, as it is termed here, from the fact that it includes much of the territory of the old Twelfth District, from which Dyer was elected for 20 years, lies in central portion of the city. It will extend from the Mississippi River to the western city limits with Carr street the northern boundary, and Meramec street the southern boundary, at the river. The northern and southern boundaries are irregular.

The Twelfth District, the old Tenth, generally, will include all of St. Louis County and the southern and southwestern sections of the city.

The Thirteenth District, termed here the Cochran District, will include all that portion of the city north of the northern boundary of the Eleventh District. It is thought to be Democratic.

The St. Louis Senators were unable to agree fully on the districts, Senator Doran objecting to having all of St. Louis County put with the southern and southwestern wards. He insisted that the district should have more of St. Louis, and that the other districts should include a part of St. Louis County. Senators Kinney and Brogan, however, controlled in the decision.

The Districts in Detail.

The make up of the districts, as determined by the Senate Elections Committee, and as they undoubtedly will be fixed are:

Eleventh District—Wards 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23 and 25; precincts 14 and 15, of Ward Four; precincts 1 to 4, inclusive, and 11 to 19, inclusive, of Ward Nineteen; precincts 14 to 23, inclusive, of Ward Twenty; precincts 1 to 4, inclusive, of Ward Twenty-two; precincts 1 to 4, inclusive, 8 to 15, inclusive, and 21 to 23, inclusive, of Ward Twenty-six; precincts 1 to 9, inclusive, and 22 to 31, inclusive, of Ward Twenty-eight.

Twelfth District—St. Louis County and Wards 11, 12, 13 and 24, Thirteenth District—Ward, 1, 2, 3.

SENTIMENT FOR DEBT PAYMENT TO U. S. IS GAINING IN FRANCE

Many Deputies Yielding to Pressure Brought By Herriot and Premier Daladier.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 17.—Sentiment for payment of the $19,000,000 American debt installment defaulted last December is gaining ground in the Chamber of Deputies, it is reported today.

It was said in parliamentary circles that the pressure being exerted by Premier Daladier and Edouard Herriot had been producing results and that many Deputies who had been hostile to the payment now appeared to favor seeking a formula which would permit the Dec. 15 payment.

It was felt the initiative would have to come from the Government as parliamentary initiative is unlikely in view of the strong position taken by some parties during the December debate.

Herriot's thesis is that necessity exists for reaching a solution. Among the causes attributed to this fact are the better attitude created by the inauguration of President Roosevelt, the appointment of Andre Lefevre de la Boulaye as new French Ambassador to the United States and the Anglo-American discussions on the subject.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 17.—The League of Nations draft report on the conflict between Peru and Colombia over the Leticia territory was published tonight.

It recommends "complete evacuation by Peruvian forces of the territory contained in the Leticia trap, and withdrawal of all support from Peruvians who occupy that area."

Adoption of this report by the League Council which receives it tomorrow will mark the end of conciliatory efforts to regulate the dispute. It recommends that negotiations be started and carried out with no loss of time, to settle all outstanding problems between Peru and Colombia.

JAPANESE SEES NO CAUSE FOR WAR WITH U. S.—"IF"

'Provided We Mutually Mind Our Own Business,' Tokio Delegate to Geneva Says.

By the Associated Press.

IN response to a request from the International News Service, Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese delegate to the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva, has written the following statement on the relations between the United States and Japan:

(Copyright, 1933.)

LONDON, March 17.—I want to dispel once and for all the impression prevalent among many Americans that Japan is a disturber of universal peace.

Japan's action in Manchuria was to establish peace, not to disturb it. As regards relations between Japan and the United States, I want to emphasize that I cannot see any cause for war provided we mutually mind our own business.

It is true that the atmosphere existing in both countries at the present moment is not reassuring. I am certain that this is caused by a mutual lack of understanding of each other's aims and difficulties.

Indignities and actions and words on your part hurt the Japanese and the feeling now existing in Japan is the reaction.

All those who really desire peace and a new era of friendly co-operation in the Pacific should, I believe, use all their efforts to dispel the undercurrent of distrust and fear.

I believe, for instance, that a return to the United States scouting fleet to its normal base in the Atlantic would appeal to the Japanese people as one of the greatest gestures of good will and peaceful neighborliness that the United States could make.

It would usher in a new era of relations between the two countries.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 17.—A parade of national army units to the college green, where Minister of Defense Frank Aiken reviewed the marchers, was the feature of Dublin's celebration of St. Patrick's day. Airplanes circled overhead while the soldiers marched. Public houses throughout all the Irish Free State were closed.

OLD AGE PENSION BILL PASSED BY MISSOURI HOUSE

Measure Written by Bennett of Dent County Goes Through, 103 to 5, and Is Sent to Senate.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 17.—The House today passed and sent to the Senate an old age pension bill. The vote was 103 to 5. Representative E. W. Bennett (Dem.), Dent County, is author of the measure, which provides payment by the State to persons 70 years old or older of $10 a month pension.

To receive the pension, applicants must have resided continuously in the State for 15 years, or a total of 25 years, at least 10 of which must have been continuous immediately preceding application.

Assistance would not be granted to a person if the value of his property exceeds $1000 if married and not separated from husband or wife or if the value of the property owned jointly by a husband or wife exceeds $1500.

Representative Christy (Dem.), Jefferson County, was the only member to oppose the measure on the floor. He said enactment into law of the bill would "play a joke on people over 70 years of age."

"Show me where you can get the money to pay this, and I'll support the measure," Christy said.

The bill provides that, in event any appropriation to carry out the full provisions of the measure is inadequate, all pensions be paid on a pro-rata basis.

NEW TRANSPORTATION BILL

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Chairman Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee today introduced legislation to repeal the railroad recapture clause, regulate railroad holding companies, consolidate the Power and Radio Commissions and regulate interstate motor truck transportation.

Rayburn's bill would combine the Radio and Power Commissions into the new commission and transfer to it the Interstate Commerce Commission's present authority over telephone and other kinds of communication. His holding company proposal would extend the Interstate Commerce Commission's regulatory powers to include railroad holding companies.

The Case for Unemployment Reserves.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A BILL to establish a system of unemployment reserves has been introduced in the Missouri Legislature by Senator Michael Kinney of St. Louis. Senator Kinney's bill is based on a belief that just as during good times industry sets aside reserves for payment of dividends in times when they are not earned, so industry in good times should set aside reserves to bear its fair share of the cost of idle labor in bad times. Senator Kinney's bill is also in line with the Democratic national platform, which pledges "unemployment insurance under state laws."

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, when Governor of New York State, sent Miss Frances Perkins to Europe to study the application of such measures. In her report, she said:

"Unemployment insurance is not a cure for unemployment but a technique of extending a well-known principle to offer some protection for the individual against the hazard of unemployment, which, as an individual, he can in no way see or prevent. It will ease the burden of the individual in the face of the industrial hazard and will immensely relieve the community of the cost of poor relief and charity in periods of unemployment."

The cost of unemployment relief, measured in terms of money, will reach $15,000,000 in Missouri this year. Measured in terms of under-nourishment, pauperization and loss of homes, unemployment is costing the people of Missouri much more. Under Senator Kinney's plan, benefits will be given before the worker loses his savings and his home. They will be given before he loses his working efficiency because of under-nourishment. Unlike the charity dole, they will be given in return for past services and so will not pauperize the recipient.

While providing a small measure of relief to tide unemployed workers over until industry needs them again, contributions to unemployment reserves will also place an emphasis on the cost of unemployment and will tend toward stabilization of industry.

Henry S. Dennison, president of the Dennison Manufacturing Co., has said of his company's unemployment reserve: "Undoubtedly it has afforded welcome relief to individuals and probably has held the purchasing power in our community up somewhat higher than it would otherwise have been. . . . But even more valuable have been its effects in stimulating and refreshing the determination of everyone who is connected with the management . . . by careful planning and all possible foresight, to make payments from the fund as little necessary as they can."

It should be noted that, in contrast to the English plan, where unemployment funds are pooled for all industries, Senator Kinney's bill requires that each employer's unemployment reserve be kept separate and his financial responsibility strictly limited by the amount of his unemployment reserve. The English plan gives little or no incentive to stabilize, since stable industries pay the same as unstable ones. Under Senator Kinney's bill, each employer is required merely to maintain his reserve at $75 per employee. On the other hand, an employer who stabilizes his employment will be rewarded because if his employees are kept steadily employed his reserve will remain intact.

Aside from relieving taxpayers of the burden of unemployment relief, and aside from giving industry a powerful incentive to stabilize, it is believed that unemployment reserves will be a positive benefit to the economic system. For, as everyone realizes, prosperity is today less a problem of production than of markets. And markets imply purchasing power. Hence we must not forget that every time employees lose their jobs that much purchasing power is removed from the market.

Suppose that during the boom years ending in 1929 employers had been induced to set up unemployment reserves. It has been estimated that if employers of New York State had set aside 2 per cent of payroll in the normal year 1929, there would have been provided an unemployment reserve of at least $100,000,000. An official Ohio commission estimated that had a plan of this type been put into effect in Ohio after the last major depression, after paying benefits for all unemployment occurring, the reserve fund would have finished the year 1929 with an accumulated reserve of $104,000,000, and that during the first two years of the depression they could have paid out $180,000,000 in benefits. What would such a sum mean, not only to the unemployed, but also in terms of purchasing power to the tradesmen, merchants and manufacturers of the State? Would not release of such purchasing power have helped to cushion the market during the depression?

A LESSON TO CONGRESS.

In delegating to the President an administrative function in which it found itself powerless, Congress made an admission which the members of that body might very well think about.

Senator Fess put the matter plainly. "I must make the humiliating confession," he said, "that if we depend on the members of this body to make retrenchments, we'll have no retrenchments." Senator Vandenberg wanted to know why, if it could so bind itself to the President, Congress could not bind itself to legislative changes. Senator Fess replied that if the Michigan Senator thinks Congress can so discipline itself, he has only to try it to be disillusioned.

This exposes the weakness of all representative government. It cannot function in the public interest if those holding office are to be terrorized by local interests. In making its 1932 awards for merit, the Nation included in its honor list United States Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri because he had pledged himself in his campaign never to put the interest of his State above that of the nation. That the members of Congress had been doing this was beyond cavil. It was what made possible the Hawley-Smoot tariff law. Led by former Senator Grundy, Congress descended to the moral level of gypsy horse trading.

Senator Borah says Congress can make the necessary retrenchments in the public service; but has not Congress failed to do so? Did not Congress load the nation down with an insupportable burden? The cost of government in the United States has grown to approximately five billion dollars a year. David F. Houston, former Secretary of the Treasury, said in a recent statement before a committee of the Senate that the cost of government in the United States had been multiplied more than six times since the beginning of the World War.

It must be recalled, in fairness to Congress, that the war immensely enriched the United States. The Allied nations spent some six billion dollars over here for supplies. At the height of the prosperity which resulted from this golden deluge, the income of the American people was approximately $5 billion dollars. No nation had ever enjoyed such an income; it was quite natural that Congress should have greatly increased its appropriations. The Government was operating with the states in the construction of a highway system. Its services to the people increased a hundred fold. It subsidized the merchant marine, aviation, waterways. Its outlay for the army and navy grew to approximately three-quarters of a billion dollars, the largest outlay of the kind in the world. The nation was meanwhile putting over a billion dollars annually into its national debt, another billion into pensions, bonuses and the immense burden assumed by the nation in the care of those disabled by war. But nothing increased in that halcyon time as did the responsibility of Congress. In 1913 only 8 per cent of the national income went for government. By 1932 this had been increased to 20 per cent.

The American Republic has always been an experiment. It was so characterized by Bryce and Huxley. George Bernard Shaw insists that we do not yet know what the outcome of the experiment is to be. The keystone of the arch is representative government. It cannot stand if the representatives of the people are not to remain faithful to the public interest. For Congress to admit itself unable to discharge an administrative function is far too serious to pass unnoticed. Only an undivided people can maintain a free central government, and only the representatives of the people, devoted to the great political principle upon which such a government rests, can hold the nation together. It was a dissimilarity of interests, a division of the national spirit, that resulted in two Roman empires, one with a capital at Rome, the other with a capital at Constantinople.

The members of Congress do not know what they do. They do not realize their responsibility to the nation. It would be far better for every Representative and every Senator to limit himself to a single term, thus placing himself in a position to resist every minority claim upon him, than for Congress to surrender its freedom to the designing few. We do not believe there has ever been any justification for cowardice in public office. We believe the instances in which office holders have suffered from it have been exceptions. Senator Norris of Nebraska refused to stand by the sugar beet growers of his State when the tariff was up, and the people re-elected him by 65,000 votes. Representative Cochran of Missouri persistently stands by the public interest, as he did when he voted last week to stop the pension fraud. He grows every day stronger in public esteem. Running at large with 12 other men in the last Missouri election, his name, like that of Abou Ben Adhem, led all the rest.

We suggest to Congress that it pull itself together and resolve upon that freedom which only courage deserves. Mr. Lincoln said the country could not exist half free and half slave, and that, in its present-day connotations, is just as true now as it was then.

THE SCHOOL BOARD AND POLITICS.

Reforms undoubtedly are needed in the manner of selection of Board of Education members, but the bill pending in the Legislature to make the board bipartisan instead of non-partisan is not the proper method.

Board members are chosen now on a non-partisan ballot in the April election, being nominated by petitions requiring the signatures of thousands of voters. The board has 12 members, four of whom are elected every two years. Many well-qualified men and women have refused to run for the board because of the unpleasantness and difficulty of circulating petitions and the campaigning along political lines that has become the custom.

If we are to continue choosing the board by election, the number of signatures for a nominating petition should be reduced to a nominal level—say 100 to 500. Some continuing civic agency, utterly divorced from politics, should be established to bring out able candidates and campaign for them. Such an agency might, if desirable, see that the board's membership was more or less evenly divided between adherents of the two major parties. There once was a gentlemen's agreement between the Democratic and Republican machines whereby the board was kept informally on a bipartisan basis, when nominations were made by party convention rather than by petition. It ought to be possible to develop a civic-sense in the people to place the Board of Education on a high plane, with highly beneficial results for the schools.

In the meantime, the bill of Representative McMillan Lewis to make the board bipartisan, which was passed unanimously by the House and has reached the Senate, should be dropped. The Public School Patrons' Alliance and other groups have protested against it. The question should not be settled in the haste of the closing days of the Legislature, but should be taken up with due consideration before the next legislative session. Serious attention should be given past proposals to reduce the size of the board and to make it appointive rather than elective, following the example of certain other cities.

TWO WEEKS OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

President Roosevelt will have been in office two weeks tomorrow. Yet in that brief time he has heartened the nation with swift and decisive action. The whole country has joined in holding up his hands, one of the most spontaneous demonstrations of patriotism in the history of the country.

During the campaign his political opponents described him as unfit to administer the affairs of government. Others referred to him as a likable man who could not make up his mind. Indecision was supposed to be a characteristic. Even his supporters admitted that thousands of votes cast for him were protests against the party which had been in power. In a fortnight, the President has shown himself a man of few words and vigorous resolution.

As we said the day after he was inaugurated, President Roosevelt took office in one of the darkest hours the nation has known. Added to the great burdens of a reduced national income, increasing unemployment, a mounting Federal deficit and the widespread inability of debtors to meet their obligations, was the collapse of the nation's banking structure. As he took the oath, the banks in practically all the states were closed by order of their Governors. It was national emergency akin only to war.

President Roosevelt met the banking crisis with speed and forthrightness. What he did the nation well knows. He proclaimed a national banking holiday. With his advisers and leaders in Congress he devised legislation to permit the reopening of the banks in security. He sent a message to Congress asking for the enactment of such legislation, and it was promptly made law.

The matter of economy in Federal expenditures and the legalization of beer were treated in the same manner. The new chief executive knew the inability of Congress to fight off the passion evil. He asked for power to perform that basically necessary governmental operation, and it was speedily granted. He knew the November election sealed the doom of prohibition. He knew a repeal resolution was before the states. Without hesitation, he asked Congress to legalize beer, and thus direct needed revenue into the public treasury.

How the nation has responded to this program of action is well indicated by the editorial comment in the Republican press. Among the leading journalistic opponents of Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign were the New York Herald Tribune, the Boston Evening Transcript and the Chicago Daily News. Indorsing to the fullest the President's plan to stop the pension grab, the Herald Tribune says: "In the dramatic measures of the last few days the administration has been administering emergency first aid; when it turns to the Federal deficit it is at the seat of the disease." It describes his handling of the banking crisis as adequate and sound and hails his friendly treatment of the Washington correspondents.

The Evening Transcript says: "The people are amazed by the swiftness with which the President acts." In another place, it declares his "great beginning deserves, as it has won, universal support." The Daily News considers the bear bill message "a model for the succinct and comprehensive." Says the Daily News: "A question that has been among the most disputatious in recent American controversy is thus disposed of by a mind knowing when the time for argument has passed and the time for action has come." From every hand comes praise for his reassuring radio address on the banking situation.

During his first two weeks, President Roosevelt has addressed himself to the people or their elected Representatives some seven times. His inaugural address required only 13 minutes for delivery. Every other message could be heard or read in less time. Everything he has said could be read in less than an hour. While there are other reasons why his utterances have been widely read, one of them is this highly commendable brevity.

The American people wanted action, and their Government needed it. President Roosevelt has filled that want and that need during his first two weeks. Whatever lies ahead, everyone must agree that he has made an exceptional beginning.

GERMAN LOSES EINSTEIN.

Once hailed by George Bernard Shaw as "the greatest of our contemporaries—a maker of universes," Prof. Albert Einstein now finds it wiser not to return to that fraction of the universe that has been his home. He "will not put foot on German soil as long as conditions in Germany are as at present." His reason is the exaggerated nationalism now prevalent in Germany, which would undoubtedly vent itself against the scientist for his pacifism, his internationalism and his religion. It is one of the sad consequences of blind nationalism that it makes a country uninhabitable for the scholar and scientist whose learning is of planetary rather than parochial significance. Men may agree or disagree with Einstein's political views, yet his contributions to man's knowledge of his universe should make any country proud to claim his residence. His self-imposed exile is a loss to Germany. To Einstein, it is of scant significance. "I believe, for a man of international mind, citizenship of state is not important," he said recently. "I believe humanity is more important than citizenship of state." So Einstein, the German outcast, remains a foremost citizen of the world.

BITING A 10-PENNY NAIL.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin was talking about bankers who had betrayed their trust and as a consequence many people had lost their money. He said: "We must bring them to justice. I could bite the head off a 10-penny nail, thinking of the persons who put their life savings, maybe $800 or $1000, in institutions that were not properly run."

It is a long time since we heard speech like this from the office of the Treasury, or, indeed, from administrative Washington. One of Mr. Woodin's illustrious predecessors, Mr. Mellon, for example, never spoke like that and never thought like that. This is not to imply that Mr. Mellon would condone the mismanagement of a bank. But nothing on earth could move that charming gentleman to bite the head off a 10-penny nail, and nothing he ever said or did, officially, indicated any great solicitude for the small depositors whose savings in so many instances have vanished.

Mr. Woodin seemingly speaks the language of the New Deal, and the country rejoices.

THE ARMY HAS A GENERAL NOW.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Hoarding

THE spectacular rise in the price of stocks and bonds is a vote of confidence by the markets in the measures thus far taken. It reflects confidence that the terrifying effect of bank failures has been ended. It reflects confidence that the threat of currency destruction under the impact of an uncontrollable deficit has been removed. It reflects confidence that the administration has established its leadership sufficiently to proceed promptly with further measures of relief and reconstruction.

To sustain this confidence so that it may translate itself into a revival of trade, a resumption of investment and a recovery of employment is now the order of the day. For we should be unreasonably tickle-minded if we allowed this most desirable speculative enthusiasm to seduce us once more into the complacent notion that an automatic return of prosperity is now guaranteed.

That mistake has been made at least three times before during the course of the depression. It was made in the winter of 1931, and again after the Hoover moratorium, and again last summer. A speculative rise based on a change in mood, not a solution, but the opportunity to effect a solution. Let us hope that this time we shall seize the opportunity.

One of the most desirable uses that can be made of this spirit of confidence is to undo the deflationary effect of hoarding. Until that is done, the banking system will not truly have been reopened. For the banks that are now opened are only partially banks. They are places where deposits can safely be kept, but they are not yet banks which actively serve the economic life of the country by the use of credit. The hoarding of gold and currency has not only drawn down excess reserves which are the basis of credit, but has put the banks into debt. It is of the first importance that this condition should promptly be reversed, and the most effective way to do that is to persuade hoarders to bring in their hoards.

Since hoarding was practiced by all kinds of people, many difficult methods of undoing it will no doubt be necessary. There is the threat contained in the recent rulings against the hoarding of gold. This is a beginning and it has produced some results. But it is not bringing in all the gold, and moreover, it is not less necessary to bring in the hoarded currency. As a general principle, the authorities ought to try to end hoarding by an appeal to confidence and self-interest, though this appeal should be reinforced by holding punitive measures in reserve.

The figures on the currency circulation throw some light on the problem. These figures apply only up to Jan. 31, and do not, therefore, tell the whole story of the last month of really hysterical hoarding. But they tell an interesting story. The hoarding movement began in the autumn of 1930 and became acute after the failure of the Bank of United States. How do we know that? We can see the hoarding movement in operation by watching the increase of various denominations of the currency. Thus, during the whole depression there has been no substantial increase in the amount of $1 bills, and an actual decline in the amount of $5 bills. When we come to $10 bills, there is a slight increase of less than 10 per cent. But, beginning with the autumn of 1930, there is an increase of $20 bills by nearly 20 per cent. This probably reflects the hoarding of the $20 bill. The increase of $50 bills is nearly 70 per cent. But $100 bills increased two and a half times; $500 bills increased nearly three and a half times; $1000 bills nearly three times; $5000 bills about one and one-half times. Here, it seems clear, is an evidence of hoarding by the well-to-do and the rich.

Thus, the big increases are in the bills of $100 and over, and the sharpest increase is among the $500 and $1000 bills. Now what is the practical use of $500 or $1000 bills? They are used as bank reserves and for clearing operations between banks, but among the people at large such huge bills are used chiefly, we may suspect, by bootleggers, by bribees and by hoarders.

It is, I believe, true that European central banks do not issue such large bills, because they encourage hoarding and illicit transactions. These large bills are, from the point of view of the hoarder, not currency, but an investment which does not bear interest. It would seem to follow, therefore, that the Government might well consider the advisability of two measures—one, the public sale of a reasonably attractive rate, of Government bonds, into which the hoarders of currency could convert their funds; the other, some device aimed to compel holders of these large bills either to convert them before some date in the future into smaller denominations or to suffer a penalty.

The method to be adopted is for those who are expert in these matters to determine. But the objective to be aimed at is clear. The hoarded currency must be brought back into the financial system in order to provide a basis for a substantial policy of cheap money and liberal credit.

A very easy money policy, especially now that the Government has its own deficit under control, is clearly an essential condition of revival. The reduction of hoarding is a necessary part of that policy, though, of course, not the whole of it. The central bankers and the commercial bankers will need to fortify the policy by keeping credit cheap and liberally available, and by setting themselves this time to do what, for fairly good reasons, they did not do in last summer's upturn, to bend every effort to resume investment.

But if, with the budget under control and with credit abundant, the spirit of private enterprise is still found to be lacking, then a program of public spending on a scale much greater than that now contemplated will be necessary.

From the Roanoke (Va.) Times.
Among the farmers who need relief the most are those who made the mistake a few years ago of moving to town.

Submarginal Farm Lands

By Editorial Research Reports.

THE marginal unit in agriculture, industry or commerce is defined as that unit which breaks even. The submarginal unit is that on which an actual loss is suffered. The margin is much more difficult to determine in agriculture than in industry or commerce.

In agriculture, indeterminate factors enter, such as the intangible satisfaction of owning and operating one's own land; the assurance, as long as taxes and interest payments are met, of shelter and food; and the unremitting labor of the farmer's family.

The margin in agriculture depends probably as much on general economic conditions as on soil fertility and location. Much rich land is marginal or submarginal at the present level of agricultural prices which is well above the margin before the depression. Similarly, land may be marginal under a certain crop or crops which would be above marginal under another crop or crops. Land may be marginal for an inefficient farmer, while similar land is above marginal for an efficient farmer; and marginal for a certain size of farm, while similar land is above marginal for a smaller or larger sized farm, as the case may be. Different standards of living must also be taken into account.

Nils A. Olsen, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Agriculture Department, estimated in an address before the Conference on Land Utilization at Chicago in November, 1931, that perhaps 1,000,000 farmers occupied permanently submarginal farms covering 100,000,000 acres, of which one-third was in harvested crops. This is roughly one in every 10 farmers and one-tenth of the harvested acreage.

Those who would lease only marginal and submarginal land out of production point out that it could be thus leased more cheaply, on the whole, than better land. Others would prefer that the more productive land be withdrawn, on the ground that a greater reduction in crop totals would thereby be achieved. Still others argue that it is impossible in a short space of time to draw the line between submarginal, marginal and above-marginal land, and that the proper procedure is to lease any kind of land by the gauge of the largest amount of crop affected per dollar expended. Another method proposed for determining what land is to be leased is one of co-operation between the Federal Government and the states with a view to leasing the land which the states would in normal conditions sell to the highest bidder because of tax delinquencies.

Opponents of the leasing program assert that farm prices might not rise to the same degree as farm acreage was reduced, so that the total purchasing power of all farmers would not be increased; that tenant farmers might be rendered homeless if land were leased from under them, or land cultivated and now lying idle; and that withdrawal of acreage might be counter-balanced by more intensive utilization of the acreage left under cultivation, or by greater production stimulated in other countries.

MILITARY FORCE.

From the New York Times.
IN the War and Navy departments are two notorious instances of political extravagance. These are the so-called political navy yards and army posts maintained in the various out-of-the-way corners of the United States in deference to the desires of Congressmen. A respectable saving might be achieved from this source without impairing the efficiency of the Government's fleet. The Congressmen concerned, however, have never yet been able to see it that way, and are unlikely to do so now.

ROOSEVELTS KEEP 28TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Celebrate Tonight at Family Dinner—Few Friends Invited.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Today is the twenty-eighth wedding anniversary of President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The event will be celebrated tonight at a family dinner to which have been invited several friends, including a few persons to look part in the wedding. Besides Mrs. James Roosevelt, President's mother; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dall, the Roosevelt's in-law and daughter; Mrs. David Gray of Alken, S. C., an aunt, and Mr. Roosevelt's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Liano, there were included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parish, in whose home the wedding was held, and Mrs. Warren Delano Robinson, he an usher at the wedding, cousin of the President, and White House social arbiter for the covers.

Wedding Scene Recalled.
It was on Friday, March 17, 1905, when the wedding shared the attention which New York City gave to a St. Patrick's day parade and a President's day parade. The President, Roosevelt, who gave his niece, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, in marriage to her distant cousin, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

That was the March 17 when the guests cut off the fleeing Russians; when maps showed routes of retreat; when Gibson girls passed through the adit when an Algonquian was titled, "Mr. Bryan and the primaries."

"Twas a great day for Ireland and Roosevelt!" the New York World headlined, not hesitating to mark that the presence of the President "almost made the bride secondary consideration."

The Sun, too, stressed the White House angle, the dashing way headlines of the day: "President Gives Bride Away; Ceremony at the Home of Mrs. Henry Parish—Alice Roosevelt a Bridesmaid—Her Mother and Sister There."

A trifle more prophetic was the time which led off its story with: "One of the most notable weddings of the year—"

In the homes of Mrs. Parish and her mother, numbers 6 and 8 East 67th street, with the partition dividing the two drawing rooms knocked out to make one large hall, the ceremony was held.

Pink Roses and Palms.

All accounts agreed that the Roosevelts were married in front of a shower bouquet of 450 pink roses with a background of palms. The World concentrated on the crowd scene: "Owing to the immense crowds that thronged these houses, the entire block was closed, and 75 policemen were employed to keep order."

"Although the invitations were sent sparingly, it seemed as if there had been no regrets, and the crush inside was so great many guests did not get beyond the threshold of the drawing room."

At 3:30 to the moment, it further said, the President, with Mrs. Roosevelt and "Little Miss Ethel Roosevelt," arrived in an open landau, was cheered, half arose from his seat and waved his hand in a "huge bunch of genuine shamrocks hung at the President's buttonhole, and although the leaves looked sadly withered, he continued to wave them." From a fence top "black with small boys," came cheers for Teddy, and one boy fell over backward when the President playfully shook his fist at them.

The Bride's Gown.

The Sun specialized on a word-picture of the bride:

"Miss Roosevelt wore a white satin gown, with long court train covered with point lace that belonged to her mother. Her veil was also point lace and had been worn by her mother and her grandmother. She had a restraining orange sash, and for jewelry wore a diamond crescent that had been her mother's, a pearl collar-ette, the gift of Mrs. James Roosevelt, and a diamond bow-knot of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley."

"The Times gave a wealth of detail:

"The bride, walking with the President, and preceded by her six bridesmaids, came down the wide flight of stairs."

"First in the bridal procession came the Misses Alice Roosevelt and Christine Douglas Robinson. . . . In white faille silk frocks trimmed with lace and silver, with 'tulle veils attached to white Prince of Wales ostrich feathers, tipped with pink roses."

"The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, was in white silk covered with black lace."

"Mrs. Henry Parish wore a changeable pale blue and pink silk crepe with lace sleeves and yoke."

Stealing some of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt's spotlight was "Baby born that day while Teddy Roosevelt," with a vim surpassing strenuous."

SAYS LACK OF MONEY MENACES EDUCATION

Superintendent Gerling Expects Nothing for Harris Teachers' College.

The future of education in the United States is threatened seriously by a dearth of funds, Superintendent of Schools Gerling told a meeting of members of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday, in discussing "State Legislation Pertaining to St. Louis Public Schools."

"The House of Education is crumbling very fast," Dr. Gerling said, "but here in St. Louis it stands more firmly than elsewhere. Money, popularly said to be the root of all evil, so far as schools are concerned is the source of all that's good."

Due to a shortage of State funds and to governmental measures of economy, he added, school boards were faced with the problem of continuing a program of expansion with a diminishing income.

Superintendent Gerling predicted that the annual State appropriation toward the maintenance of Harris Teachers' College would not be forthcoming this year.

"Other appropriations for special instruction, free books and the like probably will be voted," he continued, "but the money will not be received if the treasury runs dry. There must be a source of new revenue to prevent that, and the only one that has been suggested is the sales tax or the revenue from which it proposed to give the public schools one-third."

Other speakers at the meeting, attended by six committees of the eighth district of the Federation, were R. G. Russell, superintendent of St. Louis County Schools, who discussed proposed State legislation as it pertained to his district, and Charles H. Compton, assistant librarian at Public Library, who spoke on the proposed abolition of the State Library Commission.

Supt. Russell expressed doubt that the proposed sales tax measure as written, would benefit urban school districts because of a phrase, now embodied, which precludes distribution of taxes except to school districts with limited local benefits. "I have written to the superintendents in my districts," he said, "telling them not to depend too much on State funds this year."

Librarian Compton, while opposing the bill to dissolve the State Library Commission, endorsed a plan which would transfer duties of the Commission to the Board of Curators at University of Missouri. The bill, in its present form, he pointed out, merely authorized the commission to turn its books over to the Board of Curators but did not empower the latter group to carry on the work of the commission.

Cigarettes, like Foods — need Seasoning

That's the part Turkish Tobaccos play in making Chesterfields Taste Better

SMOKERS notice a certain "touch" in Chesterfields that comes from having just enough Turkish tobacco in them... a spicy, aromatic flavor that's much the same to a cigarette as seasoning is to food.

For only by blending and cross-blending the right amounts of mild Domestic tobaccos with the right amount of Turkish can we get the flavor and aroma that Chesterfield smokers enjoy.

Next time, ask for "The Cigarette that Satisfies"... you'll get Chesterfields, with Milder, Better Taste.

Submarginal Farm Lands

By Editorial Research Reports.

THE marginal unit in agriculture, industry or commerce is defined as that unit which the owner or operator merely uses to even. The submarginal unit is that which an actual loss is suffered. This is much more difficult to determine in agriculture than in industry or commerce, agriculture, indeterminate factors enter, as the intangible satisfaction of owning and operating one's own land; the assurance, as taxes and interest payments are of shelter and food; and the unremunerated labor of the farmer's family.

The margin in agriculture depends probably as much on general economic conditions as on soil fertility and location. Much land is marginal or submarginal at the present level of agricultural prices which well above the margin before the depression. Similarly, land may be marginal for a certain crop or crops which would be above marginal under another crop or crops. Land may be marginal for an inefficient farmer, while similar land is above marginal for an efficient farmer; and marginal for a certain size of farm, while similar and is above marginal for a smaller or larger farm, as the case may be. Different standards of living must also be taken account.

A. Olsen, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Agriculture Department, estimated in an address before the Conference on Land Utilization at Chicago November, 1931, that perhaps 1,000,000 acres occupied permanently submarginal land covering 100,000,000 acres, of which one-third was in harvested crops. This is only one in every 10 farmers and one-tenth of the harvested acreage.

Land who would lease only marginal and submarginal land out of production point that it could be thus leased more cheaply than the whole, than better land. Others prefer that the more productive land be withdrawn on the ground that a greater reduction in crop totals would thereby be avoided. Still others argue that it is feasible in a short space of time to draw the line between submarginal, marginal and non-marginal land, and that the proper procedure is to lease any kind of land by the acreage of the largest amount of crop produced per dollar expended. Another method proposed for determining what land is leased is one of co-operation between the federal Government and the states with leasing the land which the states in normal conditions sell to the highest bidder because of tax delinquencies.

ponents of the leasing program assert that farm prices might not rise to the same extent as farm acreage was reduced, so that total purchasing power of all farmers would not be increased; that tenant farmers would be rendered homeless if land were withdrawn from under them, or would cultivate now lying idle; and that withdrawal of land might be counter-balanced by more intensive utilization of the acreage left in cultivation, or by greater production in other countries.

MILITARY PORK.

The War and Navy departments are notorious instances of political extravagance. These are the so-called political yards and army posts maintained in various out-of-the-way corners of the United States in deference to the desires of congressmen. A respectable saving might be achieved from this source without impairing the efficiency of the Government. The Congressmen concerned, however, never yet been able to see it that way, are unlikely to do so now.

Bidding a No Trump When Holding a Long Suit

Yesterday we considered this hand:

Hand:
S: A K Q J 10
H: A K Q J 10
D: A K Q J 10
C: A K Q J 10

control the timing of the hand with regard to the play of your long suit.

When You Control the Time Factor of the Hand Though Not of the Suit

Supposing your hand consisted of you would be right in opening the bidding with one no trump. Apparently you have every suit stopped twice, so that you will be able to control the enemy's long suit until you have forced out the ace of clubs. Thus your club suit will be established before their suit is cleared. It is possible that the leader may open a red suit which the opponent on your right will win with the ace; that he will then switch to a spade, and the player on your left will hold the king, so that this perfect defense will start you of your spade protection before you can clear the club.

This, however, is a possibility rather than a probability, and on balance you will gain by bidding an original no trump on a hand of this character. If the hand is to be played in no trumps, you stand to gain enormously by the opening lead coming to your tenace holdings. Should you bid a club, the chances are greater that your partner will bid a no trump, thereby adding the wrong hand with that declaration, than a suit.

You have too many honors in the major suits for a major suit one-over-one to be as probable as a no-trump response.

A Problem Hand, but by No Means a Trick One.

The following hand came up in a duplicate game. South dealt:

♠ 109x
♥ 3x ♦ 3x
♣ AKJx

At three tables, bid bidding landed North with the no-trump contract. One diamond by South, two clubs (or spades), two trumps, two no trumps, three no trumps.

At two of these tables, East would attack with his fourth best club, and North had no trouble in making his contract. At the other table, East was one of the country's ranking players. He did not like the way the hand had been bid, and inferred that South's hearts constituted the weak spot, if there were one. He led his eight of hearts and wrecked the hand. The course of the play is evident after this lead.

When the Bidding Was Right.

At the other six tables, South became the declarer; (pass by South, one club by North, two no trumps, three no trumps). Now with the lead of the king of hearts is inevitable. South naturally holds off the first two leads, creating a tenace over West if he leads a third round. West, therefore, must lead something else at the third trick. Assuming that he switches to spades, it is now possible for South to make three no trumps.

Try the hand yourself and decide how you would play it from the third trick on. I will tell you about it tomorrow.

Tomorrow—Playing in no trump with a long suit.

That Inevitable Time

When you are making a new garment and come to that inevitable time when you are discouraged and certain you will look like Aunt Minnie when it is done, put your sewing away for a day and forget about it. You will come back to it with new inspiration and what seemed hard before will be easy with a clear rested mind.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.
See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. Far truer. Let me illustrate: Do you suppose there was ever, in fact, Hamlet? No, Shakespeare took a thousand English gentlemen and sifted out the essential facts of a truly great gentleman, so that Hamlet stands out as a model for all gentlemen of all time. Jesus probably was not relating any actual incident in the parable of the Prodigal Son—the first and most perfect short story in all literature. But every man who has wandered away from his ideals and then come back home again knows the story is true—for all men and all time. Fiction is not lying, it is art, combining the scattered, chaotic facts of life into great, dramatic and more truthful wholes.

2. —Yes, though I hasten to remind you that many widely accepted proverbs directly contradict each other. Still they make a good background of judgment because as Francis Bacon said, "The genius, wit and spirit of a nation are discovered in its proverbs," and as Lord John Russell said, "Proverbs are the wisdom of many and the wit of one." They are, for the most part, rules of moral and prudent conduct. A clear conscience is a good pillow: "A bird in hand is worth two in the bush." "A rolling stone gathers no moss." "A closed mouth catches no flies." "A fool can ask more questions in an hour than a wise man can answer in seven years," are excellent examples of the homely wisdom of human experience. Since I asked the foregoing question myself, perhaps the last proverb is a good illustration of their truth.

3. —Surely. Social science cannot solve such problems, except by educating young people in the obligations and possible situations that constantly arise in marriage. The daughter's mother may leave if she feels she should not share her earnings with the other mother, but the daughter's clear obligation is to aid her husband in meeting his problem, otherwise unsolvable. Social science should include a study of all such problems and their proper solution in the regular high school courses. It would be many times more useful than geometry, Latin or algebra.

This BEAUTY EXPERT Says:

Mrs. J. A. S. writes: "I always manicure my nails at home and have been able to do a really fine job of it, but lately my cuticles are very ragged and brittle. A day after the manicure my cuticles are rough and sort of 'chapped.' As we have had an awful winter, do you think the cold has anything to do with it? Please suggest something."

The cold, blistery weather we have had has indeed caused the cuticle to become very dry and ragged. Try an oil manicure. Instead of soaking in warm soapy water, soak the nails in warm oil for a few minutes. The finest Fifth Avenue salons in New York give such a manicure. Push back cuticle with an orange stick and cut only the ragged edge. Every night, soak nails in warm oil for a few minutes and always after washing the hands push cuticle back with a towel.

Shorty asks: Can you suggest a hairdress to give one a little more height. I look quite well in the halo coiffure which I believe Norma Shearer originated. Does this make one look taller?

The halo coiffure very definitely lends a look of height to a short person and since you look well, by all means adopt it. Piling the hair high on the crown is another way to look taller. My bulletin on "coiffure" hints will be sent to you in receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope, also my "fashion hints" bulletin contains suggestions for lines and colors in dress to make you look taller. Please send self-addressed, stamped envelope for each one, however.

Mary Ellen: You are right, the beauty spotlight is focusing attention on the eyes and has for some time and always will. Pouches under the eyes may indicate general run down or internal condition, lack of sleep, worry or eye strain. Better see a physician. Correct the cause. Then use makeup to advantage. My complete bulletin on eyes will be sent to you on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

LISTEN, WORLD!

by Elsie Robinson

Would You Send Your Son to Jail?

WOULD YOU SEND YOUR SON TO JAIL? Suppose you had a boy—an idolized only child—for whom you struggled and sacrificed through lonely, widowed years. And suppose, when that boy was 18, working at his first job, that he "lifted a little change" from the cashier's desk. A hideous blow! But you said to yourself—"He's only a child. Surely his employer will forgive if I ask him for leniency and return the money."

So you did—and forgiveness was granted. And the boy, shocked and sobbing, promised it would never happen again. But then suppose the boy, now 19, began running about with an extravagant, madcap girl, who demanded more fun than the boy could give her.

And again the boy took money. But this time by forgery. A small sum, but it put him within the reach of the law. Yet you could still save him if you made restitution, as the boy, mad with terror, begged you to do. Would you do it?

Would you buy him off from the consequences of his theft? OR WOULD YOU REFUSE TO HELP?

WOULD YOU HARDEN YOURSELF AGAINST HIS PITIFUL PLEADING, STEEL YOURSELF AGAINST THE ANGUISH OF YOUR OWN MOTHER LOVE—AND SEND YOUR CHILD TO JAIL?

An awful dilemma? Yes. But an American mother is facing that dilemma today. As you sit reading these questions, she is pacing back and forth in a frenzy of despair, trying to find the answers. This is the true story of her only son, and the hours in which she may save him are swiftly passing. What shall she do?

She has turned to her friends for help. Some say she must save him, at any cost, and her own good dictates that course. But others say that, if she saves him again from paying the penalty of his crime, she will ruin him for life. Will she?

In anguish she wrote to a certain paper, asking us to help her. Her letter was published. Scores of answers were received. The writers, like her friends, took both pro and con stands, but most of them were emphatically AGAINST sending a 19-year-old boy to jail.

They admitted that he needed some sort of punishment; but they pointed out a tragic fact which all know: In the State penitentiary that boy would be forced to associate with mature criminals. He would, according to the admission of prison wardens themselves, come out more vicious than he went in. What decent end, then, would be served by imprisoning him?

Still that poor mother cannot decide. She begs us to publish her story once more, giving it wider publicity. So, in a last effort to find an answer which will help her through this tragic hour, we are broadcasting in this column her cry for help. And, that you may judge the quality of the advice already given, we publish the following letter, previously received:

Dear Miss Robinson: The letter of Mrs. Mary Albright has caused me to recall the similar plight of another mother. Her son, having been pampered and protected, was well on the road to self-destruction. Then that son's protecting angels passed away; his older brother left him to the task of keeping this young scoundrel from going in line. He did, and the young man is well on the straight and narrow road to being a useful citizen.

Mrs. Albright should not intercede for her young scoundrel. For that purpose, we have courts. Our Judges have a humane as well as a legal sense, and I am sure that this is a case beyond any action she could take. It is a case for the courts to decide.

The case should be permitted to follow the regular legal procedure. The young man should be arrested; should be jailed if he is unable to raise bail himself. The longer he is kept in jail before his trial the better. This young man's trial and ultimate conviction, then that is the mother's time to act. Let her make a plea to the Court for probation for her son. I am sure the Judge, if he thinks there is a chance of kindling that spark of decency in her son, will grant him probation, provided he makes restitution of his own efforts.

There is another thing. The mother should be warned not to have her son put in her custody during his probationary period. Let his custodian, this solution is her only chance. This is the time to make or break her son.

It has worked, and has brought brotherhood to the world. It has given him a living but it also requires that he work for it. This method guided another young man's destiny. I don't see why it would not operate in this case.

JAMES VAN BUREN. Do you see what that letter? If it were your son—or your "kid brother"—your sweetheart—or your husband—would you send him to jail?

GOOD TASTE

Seating?

Dear Mrs. Post: I am wondering about two women who went to the theater or in church? Answer: At a concert or the theater one woman goes in first, then the second woman and last the second man. If they are married, A would go first, B next, Mrs. A next, and B next, since husbands do not (if avoidable) sit beside their own wives. On the other hand, it is entirely proper that a man and his wife sit together in church where so many people alternately, man and woman, as in places of amusement is better avoided.

My dear Mrs. Post: We entertained at dinner a young man who sat opposite our daughter, and my husband and I were alone. My husband does not attend to me, so we do not think about it. Before being seated, the young man started toward my daughter's chair, but she did not notice and sat down. Should he have waited? And is a man expected to seat a lady when they sit opposite? Would my husband appear rude if he didn't attend to my chair for me?

Answer: Your daughter should have waited for her. It is not a rule for or against his helping her. It was a gesture of courtesy on his part and as such could not be improper. Your husband would be courteous should he help you. On the other hand, it would seem to be confusing rather than smoothing were the young man to go round the table to help your daughter and your husband go round the table to help you. It does not seem rude that your husband should take his place quietly and let you take yours. And I would certainly not suggest that he behave differently before company from the way he does every day at home. In other words, "put on" company manners inevitably label themselves "imitation."

Dear Mrs. Post: If the lady of honor sits on the right of the bride and the man of honor on the right of the hostess, the partners do not come out even. To me this is very confusing.

Answer: I answered this at some length in the last column about a month ago. One man and his partner must separate and sit opposite each other at table. Or much more simply, the place on her right is the place of honor but, the hostess goes in to dinner with the man who is to sit on her left.

ADVERTISING NEW TREATMENT FOR EXPECTANT AND NURSING MOTHERS

When a baby is expected, laxatives must not be used. Mother must not take them as long as she is carrying or nursing the little one. Doctors will tell you that laxative drugs taken by the mother are a danger to baby. It is a crime to risk your baby's health. That is why they often advise Cream of Nujol. This new form of Nujol is especially suitable for expectant and nursing mothers because it does not upset the stomach or cause cramps and does not pass into the milk.

If you are expecting a baby, take the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment night and morning. It is kind to the delicate bowel membranes, and being free of drugs, it is safe for you and your child. Moreover, it is delicious and easy to take. At a cost of only a few cents a day it will make you "as regular as clockwork" and protect the health of your child. Buy it at any drug counter.

My Dear Mrs. Carr: WE are somewhat fed up on the kind of dinners we have been having at the clubs and elsewhere. Do you know of anything where that we might use immediately after Easter?

ADLINE C. You might like a Plantation Dinner. A costume party is always amusing, and if you have not already had one of this kind, I venture that it will prove a success. I can give you ideas both for the dinner and costumes. If you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for mailing.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM 19 years old and have been married three years. I love my husband more than anything else in the world; but for the past year I have been seeing a young man about twice a week, we go for a ride every time. I have done everything in my power to try to keep from seeing him, but I will have to admit I cannot stop.

Mrs. Carr, I know I do not love this man, and I don't think I ever could, but I just get a feeling that I want to see someone else besides my husband. This young man tells me he loves me. How can I find out if he does?

My husband has been as true and good as anyone I know. I would rather die than to have my husband find out. So, please tell me what to do. JUST FOOLISH.

I judge that you are one of my readers. Those who have been reading this column long would know just what I would say. As a matter of fact I should hesitate about printing anything so foolish as what were not for the fact that some of the girls who want to mar-

If you have a sick friend on your list, how about cheering her up with a gay tomato cocktail set? A luxurious soul who has breakfast in bed also should like this exclusive single service item. A big cup holds a generous portion of cracked ice. In this is set a small silver cup which holds the tall glass of liquid. There's no danger of the set being used for more ex- hilarating beverages because red tomatoes are painted on the glass.

A mouseline de soie addit will crave an evening frock of this crisp fabric in an exquisite shade of brown. As though the sheerness of the frock were not sufficient to decorate it, a lovely one has colorful embroidered motifs. Puffed sleeves and a skirt boasting of its yardage are other impressive features. Brown may not sound appealing for after-dark fashions, but wait until you see it in this trans- parent fabric.

Sports handkerchiefs finally have begun to live up to their names. All that most of them had, the truly scholarly "sport" classification was their extra size. Now they introduce decorative figures engaged in active sports. And are they gay? Just look and see. A golf enthusiast, for example, may choose a kerchief with a golf-playing lady in one corner, said lady being dressed in a two or three-toned color scheme. Appliques of different shades of linen on a white background do this trick.

GOOD TASTE

Seating?

Dear Mrs. Post: N what order should two young women with two men enter the row of seats at a concert or the theater or in church?

Answer: At a concert or the theater one woman goes in first, then a man, then the second woman and last the second man. If they are married, A. would go first, Mrs. B. next, Mrs. A. next and B. next, since husbands do not sit (if avoidable) sit beside their own wives. On the other hand, it is entirely proper that a man and his wife sit together in church where seating people alternately, man and woman.

My dear Mrs. Post: We entertained at dinner a young man who sat opposite our daughter, and my husband opposite me. When we are alone my husband does not attend to my chair, so we do not think about it. Before being seated, the young man started towards my daughter's chair, but she didn't notice and sat down. Should she have waited? And is a man expected to seat a lady when the rule for or against his helping her. It was a gesture of courtesy on his part and as such could not be improper. Your husband would also be courteous should he help you. On the other hand, it would seem to be confusing rather than smoothing were the young man to go round the table to help your daughter and your husband go round the table to help you. It does not seem rude that your husband should take his place quietly and let you take yours. And I would certainly not suggest that he behave differently before company from the way he does every day at home. In other words, "put on" company manners inevitably label themselves "imitation."

Dear Mrs. Post: If the lady of honor sits on the right of the host and the man of honor on the right of the hostess, the partners do not come out even. To me this is very confusing. I answered this at some length in this column about a month ago. One man and his partner must separate and sit opposite each other at table. Or much more simply, the place on her right is the place of honor but, the hostess goes in to dinner with the man who is to sit on her left.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

by MARTHA CARR

My Dear Martha Carr: I FEEL rather foolish coming to you for advice, but I'll do anything honest if it will help me get what I want. A brief resume of what I have done for myself might make matters more clear for your opinions.

To begin with, I have been employed variously as waitress, private secretary, typist, a titled employee on the Federal Government payroll and have held honorary offices in scientific organizations from secretary to president and these are recognized societies. I have never been fired and lost my last position because of lack of funds of the employers—that has happened to others, I understand. Since I have been unemployed, I have certainly not been sitting twiddling my thumbs. First, I wrote to all my scientist friends—and I have many—asking for a break. Same old story. We'd be glad to help you, but we are having a tough time of it ourselves, and if anything turns up we'll be happy to get you know. Nothing has turned up yet. Next, I spent two months trampolining streets, answering advertisements. No go. Then I applied to the Chamber of Commerce and put in a plea for work at the offices of various doctors because of my scientific training. No help needed. Next an application for work at the various employment agencies. Letter after letter to various houses—nothing. Rather discouraging. Next I tried to persuade some of the wealthier women of St. Louis that I could get a place as a private secretary to look after their correspondence, appointments, etc. I tried to sell myself as a chauffeur to these same women, as I am a good driver, I can't afford your services. I tried to get a place as a traveling companion, as clerk in some hotel, or manager, or something—for I am good at that, and that isn't conceit. I assure you.

Now I guess I don't know where to turn next. Can you suggest something? I am well known in the truly scientific circles of St. Louis and have succeeded in breaking into exclusive scientific journals of America. (But they don't pay!) I am well liked. I make friends and keep them. But I need work. I have no money left to tramp streets or spend on bus or trolley fare. I hope you will suggest some way I haven't tried to get work and I'll really try it. It isn't that I am not ambitious. I am studying now all my spare time on German, history, algebra, English, Latin and biology, and have finished in two months a course that was supposed to be for a class year. If I can ever get a job again I hope I can finish my education. My friends are trying to get me a scholarship so I can finish my training—but HOW am I going to use it if I haven't the wherewithal to keep in college? It's beyond me.

Briefly, I am a healthy, 22-year-old individual, and my sense of humor is about the only thing that has kept me from the deepest tragedy of discouragement. After the slings and arrows of this country, be enough left of it for us—the senseless (?) generation—to fight over. Oh, well, what's the use?

QUESTION.
I have compiled a list of occupations for women, which may or may not give you a new impetus. I shall be glad to send it if you will. I may have your name and address stamped envelope. I may be able to tell you something about help, to finish your education, though I do not know whether you could qualify or not.

My Dear Mrs. Carr: WE are somewhat fed up on the kind of dinners we have been having at the clubs and elsewhere. Do you know of anything different that we might use immediately after Easter?

—ADELINE C.
You might like a Plantation Dinner. A costume party is always amusing, and if you have already had one of these in your crowd, I venture that it will prove a success. I can give you ideas both for the dinner and costumes, and you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for mailing.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM 19 years old and have been married three years. I love my husband more than anything else in the world; but for the past year I have been seeing a young man about twice a week, we go for a ride every time, and I have done everything in my power to try to keep from seeing him, but I will not admit I cannot stop. Mr. Carr, I know I do not love this man, and don't think I ever could, but I just get a feeling that I want to see someone else besides my husband. This young man tells me he loves me. How can I find out if he does? My husband has been as true and good as anyone I know. I would rather die than to have my husband find out. So please tell me what to do. JUST FOOLISH.

I judge that you are one of my readers. Those who have been reading this column long would know just what I would say. As a matter of fact I should hesitate about printing anything so foolish and yet for the fact that I was one of the girls who want to mar-

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr cannot answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for a personal reply.

ry so young, may get an idea of what it sometimes means. I am sure you have not read the column often, or you would remember and take items from the letters and use them—therefrom from wives whose husbands are far from true and who would give their very existence for a husband such as you describe. Wouldn't it be possible for a girl of your stamp to take some of these things to heart? Or would the sight of a new dress or a pretty apple lead you into a burning house?

Your husband will, of course, find this out; I presume you will weep and moan about your hard life. But you yourself up now—and that's all I'm going to say.

Dear Mrs. Carr: NEXT to the funny side, I enjoy your column more than anything else I am in the paper every night. I am a girl 11 years old. I want a piano so bad, but my parents cannot afford to buy one. Do you know of anybody who would exchange a piano for a phonograph? PIANO CRAZY.

I will see what I can do. But you might get much quicker results by advertising in the "For Sale and Exchange" or the "Swap" column in the Want Ad section, first floor, Post-Dispatch office.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM writing this to you in the hope of reaching some lone some girls. There is a chapter of a national sorority in St. Louis composed of a high type of girls from 21 years old to 35. Most of these girls work the whole time, some part time and some are attending college. I graduated from Northwestern University last June and moved to St. Louis in September, a total stranger, but since I joined this organization I have made many desirable friends, who like to do the things I do. Any girl interested, who will send me her name and address, with the name of a person for reference, I will arrange to have her meet the girls. And I may be able to get them to extend her a bid if she seems to fit in with the group. H. L. B.

While the idea is good and the opportunity seems most attractive and I thank you for the offer I would be glad to have you write me, before I can pass on the invitation, just what the sorority is, where it meets and something about its sponsors in St. Louis. This is safer for everybody concerned.

My Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM asking your advice about my Easter outfit. My dress is blue with white polka dots, with white and red trimmings. What color should my hose and hat and gloves and purse be? Would a black jacket be all right to wear with this outfit? Thanking you for an answer. OUTFIT.

You would wear the plain blue hat, blue shoes and blue purse, dark of course, if the background of the material is dark sand or gray gloves, and hose to match. Or you could wear black shoes, purse, hat and coat, if you haven't many changes, and wear white gloves.

Dear Mrs. Carr: HE other evening I became involved in a wager. At 31 years of age, I find myself an average, moderately educated, well-established, personable young woman. I have chosen you to help me out and offer some suggestions and help me win. A friend of mine thinks I am in a rut—double awful. Apparently, I have no time for romance, no nerve for adventure or living a full life. After playing with "romance" and the "fulness of life" ideas, we shifted to adventure. In this friend's estimation I could not even think up an adventure, much less participate in one. I have one month in which to hunt up a good, clean, exciting, intensely interesting adventure to live through and win in order to win my wager. My Irish is up. FEW.

You are somewhat indefinite; the adventure must be romance, physical danger, mental distress, psychic, and financial feat, a clever ruse, which? Likely the most interesting adventure, according to the young man's ideas, would be falling in love with a man who speaks Spanish and he can teach me English. I send you an envelope for reply. ANA C.

An "ECONOMY DIET" For FAMILY of FIVE

HOW a St. Louis family of five may obtain nourishing, properly balanced meals for $8.49 a week at current prices has been determined by the social service department of the Washington University clinic.

While the provisions afforded on such a low budget are "not ideal from the point of view of variety," said Miss Ruth Kahn, clinic dietitian for the department, they do represent the best expenditure that a family limited to that amount may make.

The food supply is designed for a family of two adults and three children. Tested menus afford sufficient variety to afford energy and conserve health. Such health conservation is necessary, Miss Kahn pointed out, to arrest the spread of nutritional diseases, prevalent at the present time.

About a third of the budget should be used to buy milk, cheese and butter. A fourth of it is planned to go for vegetables and fruits; a fifth for bread and cereals; a ninth for meat, fish and eggs, and the rest for sugars, fats, oils and miscellaneous provisions.

The recommended provision list together with suggested menus and recipes will be mailed to anyone sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the food clinic at 507 South Euclid avenue, or will be given to callers there.

An exhibit of the $8.49 weekly food supply is on display in the waiting room of the clinic. Miss Kahn gave several basic suggestions for the most efficient use of the family's provisions. They are:

"Milk, cheese and butter: Twenty-five quarts of milk (half from wagon, half evaporated), 1.75; one pound of butter (from wagon), 20 cents; one pound of cheese, 15 cents. Total, $2.10.

Vegetables and fruits: 10 pounds of potatoes, 10 cents; two pounds of cabbage, six cents; two and one-half pounds onions, five cents; two large cans tomatoes, 18 cents; two pounds greens (spinach, mustard, turnips, etc.), 10 cents; two pounds carrots, 10 cents; one pound turnips, five cents; one pound lettuce, five cents; two green peppers, five cents; one-half pound apricots, 10 cents; three lemons, 10 cents; two pounds prunes, 21 cents; two tablespoons raisins, one cent; one dozen oranges, 18 cents; three ripe bananas, five cents; three and one-half pounds of apples, 12 cents; three grapefruit or substitute one dozen oranges, 15 cents; parsley (raise own). Total, $1.61.

Fats and oils: One pound lard, six cents; salad oil, five cents; one pound peanut butter, 10 cents; one pound bacon, nine cents. Total, 30 cents.

Sugars: Four pounds granulated sugar, 20 cents; one pound can of molasses, 13 cents. Total, 33 cents.

Meat, fish and eggs: One dozen eggs, 15 cents; one pound of veal, 15 cents; one pound of liver (pork or beef), or beef kidney, 15 cents; one moderate amounts to make the meals more tasty.

Failure to get a properly balanced diet is leading to many nutritional disturbances, Miss Kahn declared. "Constipation from lack of sufficient fruits and vegetables is commonest," she said. "Many children are underweight. Flabby muscles from a large quantity of starches and cereals and an insufficiency of eggs and milk are common. Stomach disturbances, some due to food habits and some to mental worry, are increasing. Rickets, almost extinct before the depression, so far as the observation of Washington University clinics went, has reappeared."

THE recommended weekly food supply for the family of two adults and three children follows:

Cereals: One-half pound whole wheat cereal, 8 cents; 1 pound oatmeal, 9 cents; 1/2-pound rice, 2 cents; 2 pounds flour, 9 cents; 14 loaves bread (rye, whole wheat and white), 84 cents; 1/2-pound graham crackers, 9 cents; 6 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 cent; 4 tablespoons tapioca, 2 cents. Total, $1.24.

Milk, cheese and butter: Twenty-five quarts of milk (half from wagon, half evaporated), 1.75; one "Bread and cereals, one or both at every meal. Dark bread and cereals often. Choose whole wheat, rye and white bread, oatmeal and other dark-colored cereals, flour, yellow cornmeal, brown rice.

"Vegetables: Use potatoes daily and at least one other vegetable. Choose fresh vegetables at 5 cents a pound or less, such as cabbage, carrots, yellow turnips, dried beans or lentils.

"Fruit: Use tomatoes or oranges daily and one other fruit or vegetable. Choose oranges (when reasonable), canned tomatoes, bananas, apples, dried fruits, such as prunes.

"If you can buy more food after dark, use it. Vegetables and fruits have been purchased, add eggs, cheese, meat or fish. Sweets and fats may be used in moderation.

"Sweetbreads en Casserole. One pair sweetbreads, six slices bacon, one cup meat stock, four carrots, one cup peas, three potatoes, salt, pepper. Parboil sweetbreads for 20 minutes in water to which a little vinegar and salt have been added. Drain and plunge into cold water. Detach membrane. Partially cook carrots, peas and potatoes. Place sweetbreads in casserole and around them arrange the vegetables. Add meat stock. Lay strips of bacon across the top, cover and bake in a moderate oven until the vegetables are tender. A delicious dinner all in one dish.

Chocolate Brownies. One-half cup fat. One cup sugar. Two squares chocolate, melted. One teaspoon vanilla. One-quarter teaspoon salt. One-half cup broken nuts. Two-thirds cup flour. One-third teaspoon baking powder. Cream fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients, beat two minutes. Spread one-half inch thick on bottom of greased pan. Bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven. Cut in squares. Cool and serve or store in cake box.

Combination Salad. Mix together lightly with a silver fork two cups shredded cabbage, two minced pimientos, one-half cup diced celery and two diced apples. Combine with either boiled dressing or mayonnaise and serve on crisp lettuce.

PARENTS MY Beauty Hint

Confidential Talks With Mothers and Fathers.
by Alice Judson Peale

Overweight Children
E MMA is a fat girl. She is 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 140 pounds.

At school she has long been teased unmercifully. At the sophomore dance, dressed in what her mother fondly believed to be a becoming pink "rock, Emma sat with her back against the wall the entire evening.

She has no occasion to wear the frock since. The girls who like her well enough for her good disposition and her ready capability feel with some justice that her presence adds nothing to the success of a party.

So Emma stays home doing her lessons or enjoying a good book. Since the unfortunate sophomore dance she has decided that she is not the frivolous type anyway. Emma's mother wishes vaguely that her daughter had more social inclinations and holds something of a grudge against her school friends for cutting her out of good times. It has not occurred either to her or to Emma that the loss of about 22 pounds of excess weight would accomplish a miracle.

There are reducing systems which, carried on under medical supervision, are both wholesome and successful. Overweight girls and boys are not building up reserves of health as many parents apparently believe, but they are laboring under serious social handicaps.

They are subjected to ridicule on every hand, a thing which in itself is enough to addle their heads with a feeling of inferiority with all that this implies in the warping of personality. They are cut off from the normal competitions of athletics and boy and girl social doings. They are hopelessly out of the running in all the things that count for so much during adolescence and indeed in many things that count later on.

The Right Attitude.
Teach your children that the gifts presented to them are not nearly so important as the thought that is back of the remembrance. Never let them value a person more because they give better presents to them.

MAKE-UP can be a subtle, wonderful deceiver, or it can be a brazen confession. The ultimate success of your make-up depends largely on the lighting of your dressing-table mirror, since a poorly lighted glass will make a bad make-up look good.

Hence, my hint is to place your make-up mirror against direct light, so that the revealing rays are allowed to fall on your face.

Braised Celery and Carrots.
Cut stalks of celery and raw carrots into cubes and mix together. Place in a buttered casserole, cover with chicken broth until it shows through the vegetables. Put a lid on the dish and bake in a moderate oven until the vegetables are tender. Season with salt and pepper, sprinkle with minced parsley and serve.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM a Spanish girl living in San Juan, Puerto Rico. I saw your column down here and I want to ask you if you can get me an American correspondent, a boy, in the United States. I would like to have someone to teach me English. I send you an envelope for reply. ANA C.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 14. DISCUSSIONS of the musical film, which is very definitely back on the screen now, are a great deal more sober in character than the ecstatic effusions of producers regarding their attempts in the music-mad season of 1929-1930. Then the cry, adapted in that stage satire on Hollywood, was "The legitimate stage had better look to its laurels!" The camera could do anything, the movies could spend more money, the screen could dwarf the efforts of a Ziegfeld or an Earl Carroll.

Now the producers are not so much concerned with shaming the stage. They are looking to the laurels which in an entirely new field they can earn for the screen. They are interested in what the camera can do for its own sake, not in what it can do to belittle the footlights.

VIRTUALLY all the studios are agog with preparations for a musical offering. Jimmie Durante in "I Married an Angel," Eddie Cantor in a version of "Androcles and the Lion," an all-star cast in "Gold Diggers of 1934," Peggy Hopkins Joyce in "International House," Lillian Harvey in "My Lips Betray"—these are typical, and there are others.

Some of them are just light stories with music incidental to the telling; a few are to be decorated with chorus girls, and at least one is to be a revue. But the significant difference between these and the former output is a promisingly imaginative approach.

Increasing attention to scoring, the frequent injection of musically embellished fantasy into films—Harry Lachman's "Face in the Sky"—is illustrative—forecast a generally healthier era of screen music.

WILLIAM KERNELL, composing for the Harvey film, comments on the demise of the "stop looking, and listen" days when a star stopped acting—and action—to burst into song. A consistent story, 96 per cent action with music logically and sparingly interpolated, is his ideal.

Mark Sandrich, to direct a musical for R-K-O, plans to adapt a grand opera idea to his project. "They tell a story in song," he says. "Why can't a movie be at least partially told in song?"

Scalloped Clams.
Two dozen clams, crumbed bread crumbs, butter, salt and pepper. Cook the clams in their own juice for 10 minutes, then put through the coarse knife of the grinder. Put a layer of breadcrumbs in a buttered casserole, then a layer of clams. Dot with butter and season with pepper and sparingly with salt. Repeat until material is used, then pour in one-fourth cup strained clam juice. Brown in the oven and serve.

The HUSBAND CAMPAIGN

By Anne Gardner

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

IT WAS a few mornings later that Miss Baker once more let Josephine into the library before opening hours, and surveyed the girl in mock consternation. Josephine, her cheeks bright from the fall wind, had pulled a scarlet beret over her dark curls, and wore a short red jacket over a wool dress which had a stiff white collar. A big red bow nestled under her soft white chin. She looked about 16.

"I hadn't seen you read Shakespeare with my own eyes—and like it—I would say you were good for nothing in this world except maybe to pose for a poster. And here I've been scouring up a job for you that calls for dignity and erudition! The poor man will faint when he sees you."

"Oh, Miss Baker, you don't mean—are you on the track of something?"

"On the track! My eye! It's in the bag," Josephine's eyes grew big with excitement. "It all comes, my dear," continued Miss Baker, "from attending dinner parties. The practice will make me a fat old woman before my time, but it has its uses. As for instance last night, when I found myself shaking hands with my old friend, the manager of Harker's uptown bookstore—"

"Bookstore! You don't mean to say—I Josephine was dancing with excitement."

"I do mean to say, my friend Israel—that's his name, John Israel, and if you go to the Park for him I don't want you calling him impudent nicknames—my friend John has indeed a vacancy, and has promised to give my candidate the first consideration."

"But I don't know enough!" Josephine said.

"If you talk like that to John Israel, I'll crown you. What you don't know you can learn. If you want to work in a bookstore, that is."

"I'd rather work with books than with anything else in the world. I want to learn everything about books and music and art and—"

"Mercy, child, whatever for?"

WHAT, for, indeed? Josephine's great secret reason for improving herself no longer existed, since she had put Paul Grafton out of her mind. It rather surprised her to find that, even without this impelling cause, she still wanted to improve herself.

"—and everything else there is to know," she finished, squeezing Lucia Baker until she begged for mercy.

"Don't tell John Israel all that, or he'll charge you for working there, instead of paying you," laughed Miss Baker. "What has happened to you, Josephine, to make you so ambitious all of a sudden?"

"Oh, cool weather—and something that made me wake up and see things as they really are."

"All right, keep your old reasons to yourself then. Now listen, my child. I told John that you were a very bright girl, well read, familiar with books, had a soft voice and pleasant manner, were neat, hard-working—" ("How could you lie so!" exclaimed Jody.)

"But I clear forgot to prepare him for a scarlet tanager. I think you had better slick your hair down when you go to see him—a pair of glasses wouldn't hurt, either. Wear them on the end of your nose and look through them—oh, good luck to you, child. You'll get the job and you'll make good like a million dollars!"

Until she had the job, Jody was saying nothing of her plans, to her aunts. It was to be finished, so that there would be no use arguing about it. She felt now like a conspirator as she prepared for the interview with Mr. Israel and set out, telling her aunts that she was going for a walk.

She had chosen the little dark suit and hat which she had worn on her first visit to Paul Grafton's office. She tucked up the dark curls, hiding them as best she could, and with her black shoes, bag and mauve stockings, she felt that she presented a sufficiently businesslike picture.

MR. ISRAEL was a pleasant middle-aged gentleman with an entirely bald head and thick magnifying glasses—Josephine thought of him as having spent his entire life over books. He hardly took note of her personal appearance at all, and scarcely asked any questions.

Miss Baker's recommendation seemed to be sufficient, and after 15 minutes Josephine walked out of the store with her first job. She was to begin the next Monday, taking over from a young woman who was leaving to be married, and with whom Josephine could work for a week, learning the stock.

As Josephine walked out through the store, it was with a sense of personal pride. These endless rows of shelves, all covered with books, were to be under her care. She could take them home, read them, being careful of them—Mr. Israel had said that the more she familiarized herself with the contents of the books, the more valuable she would be.

The scholarly looking men and women she saw were to be her fellow workers. This fascinating place was to be her world. Here, surely, one could find contentment. The salary seemed magnificent to her, accustomed as she was to little.

CHAPTER FOUR.

THEIR black-and-tan terrier, Trixie, she was a great one to live right alongside, it bothered her sometimes, especially if she barked at night. Mrs. Mac and I complained about it once in awhile, but only to ourselves. I'm glad now we never spoke to either of them about Trixie disturbing us sometimes. And she is a sweet little dog after all. And she was crazy about him. I'll never forget the way she acted when I ran in there this morning at 10 minutes past 3."

"I've got a weakness for dogs myself," Bray said, which admission I knew was true. "Tell me how she acted?" he added.

"Well, to begin with, I heard the shot and—"

"Excuse me. Was that the only thing you heard?"

"It was the one single thing I heard except that pitiful scream from Mrs. Holt."

"Then the first warning you had that something was wrong was the shot?"

"That's right."

"And you were awake before that?"

"Was I? And me walking the floor with a hot-water bag up to my face? I'll say I was awake."

"And there wasn't a sound before-hand?"

"No, I'll swear to it."

"Well, I heard the shot and I jumped to get downstairs and while I was getting down, there came this awful scream from her. So I grabbed up a poker from my downstairs fireplace and a flashlight out of my umbrella closet in the hall and ran over. It's a little bit confused in my mind—the excitement and the sudden shock and all—but it seems to me when I got inside the house I saw both of them practically in the same instant, Holt on the floor and she huddled on the staircase. He was flattened by him, and then I went and took another look at poor Holt. Then I saw poor little Trixie. She must have been there all the while, but the first time I'd missed her somehow. She was flattened by him, licking his hand and whining—no growling, just whining. Gentlemen, I declare I never saw anything more distressing than that poor little mutt whining her heart out there alongside her murdered dead master. So I picked her up and carried her outdoors and put her in her garage. She's there yet, I expect."

"Gee!" said Bray, "I guess that's about all for the present, anyhow. The witness seemed surprised that the inquiry was so soon over."

"As citizens like you that help us people," added Bray, "much obliged to you, Mr. McGee. And good-by."

"Now then," said Bray to me when McGee was gone, "let's just say two good-bys to Trixie for her respect—like a faithful little dog. And after that we'll get busy again. There ought to be a back way out of this house."

There was a path for Josephine to find, a path for Josephine to find. Josephine had de-murred but the two women had been adamant. This must be a real opportunity for the girl, she mustn't meet it with the grimy hand of a Versy street puller, but she had said at last contentedly.

THE rents were out of sight in the immediate vicinity of the book store, but Jody found a quiet street not too far away, one of those houses of departed grandeur, presided over by an obviously respectable Mrs. Owen.

The room itself was of fair size, and the hangings and the chair covers were of pretty cretonne. The rug was bright and new, the bed and dresser painted white. A diminutive closet, just large enough for Jody to squeeze into, contained an electric plate and a tiny stock of dishes and pans. To Josephine it all appeared heavenly.

Em and Hannah refused to come to visit Josephine in her new quarters or even to view the room. They walked by on the sidewalk, approved the location and the neighborhood and admired the cleanly condition of Mrs. Owen's steps and window curtains, but could not be induced to come inside.

There must be no link to bind Josephine's new life with the old. She was getting her start now, in a wonderful world, of books and educated people.

It must not become known to them that Josephine had been reared by two scrubwomen. All of Josephine's pleadings could not change them. They would make their great sacrifice to help her, but it must really help her. She must leave her handicaps behind.

And now, was the thought ever in Em's heart, if—or when—Paul Grafton should find Jody, there would be nothing to keep them apart!

APRICOT and Cream Cheese Salad
One cake cream cheese, mayonnaise. Blend in sufficient sweet cream into the cream cheese to make a paste. Drain halved apricots and fill each center with the cheese paste. Garnish with a dash of paprika and serve two halves on crisp lettuce for each portion. Mayonnaise may be served separately.

SYNOPSIS.
SERGEANT PAT BRAY, homicide squad ace, is investigating a "murder-by-proxy" case which "breaks" early in the day when Otto J. Holt, a confidential secretary to Justice Hume, a traction magnate—was found dead in the dining room of his Bronx home. Buried silverware, a strange revolver, a red bandana and the attractive widow who is in bed from the shock that followed the tragic shot. The plan was to let a neighbor, who was the first on the scene, (a heavy poker in hand) after Mrs. Holt had fainted when, aroused from sleep by the shot, she saw from the stairs the prone body of her husband. McGee had been up all night with a toothache. He had come from the dentist's when the police came to his house for questioning. McGee said the Holt were "fine, people," and had no objection when asked whether he or his wife had "any real fault" to answer for. McGee admitted there was "one trifling little thing" and explains:

grief like that, there's nothing we can say, and there's nothing we can do. Say, ain't some dogs swell! For a brief space the back breadth of the premises appeared to intrigue him. He tried the latch on the screen door of the laundry, went down into an open cellarway, stayed there a minute or so and came out again with coal smut on his hands and shirt, and he wound up by manifesting passing interest in a goose-neck hydrant which stood close up to the foundation bricks. He gave the tap a slight twist and let a trickle of drops splatter against the earth, then opened the vent until a fat stream sprouted out, splashing his face and trousers-legs.

"Hearing water run helps my brain sometimes," he confessed, as he cut off the flow. "There's many the time it needs helping."

We emerged from behind the house to find the side yard deserted except for one uniformed man sitting on the doorstep. Obviously the reporters had trailed Cronin and his partner to the station on the prospect that, under the badgering of the third degree, the Holt secret might make significant admissions.

"Nice and quiet," commented Bray. "That suits us, heh? We'll be able to stroll over and give a look at that swampy place in the park, wherever it is, without a whole procession following after us."

Out in the street a new notion seemed to come to him. He beckoned to him the audience of youngsters who edged the flagged pavement, staring solemnly at the house. They were about 12 or 15 of them, boys predominating.

"Listen, kids," he said when they were clumped before him, their faces all intent and attentive, "here's a beautiful bedroom, and the old favorites are being eagerly recycled by the modern homemaker. When the lovely designs that are being shown in these columns are combined with your rag bag, the result will be a beautiful patchwork quilt, and you will be surprised what lovely quilts these lowly scraps will make."

Our Colonial Quilt Book of 32 pages, showing in beautiful colors some 200 designs, is available to readers. Any ONE patchwork pattern will be sent free with the book, which is 25 cents. Single patchwork, or stamped quilting patterns are 10 cents each, or three for 25c.

Include clipping of design wanted when ordering. Send letter and coin to St. Louis Post-Dispatch Needleart Department, 609 South Paulina st., Chicago, Ill.

Like a covey of flushed quail, the newly-recruited volunteers scattered, this direction and that, and Bray watched them go, and grinned at their speed and their earnestness.

"By rights," he went on, "I ought to be three places at once today—up here and down in the financial district and at another place. Well, seeing I can't distribute me, I'll send like that, there's one."

"Come on away," said Bray. "With self around like that, there's one."

"Listen, kids," Sergeant Bray said, "here's a chance for you to turn detectives."

thing I can do—I can get me some and with reed-grown edges. We expert snooping done on those two didn't explore the shores of this so-called swamp or seek for tracks on its verge. A cursory survey of it. His one comment had no bearing upon the subject in hand, either.

He re-entered the house, but within 10 minutes rejoined me and we bore southward and struck across the boundary into Van Courtland Park. It was neither a prolonged task nor a difficult one to find down in a swale, a flooded area of perhaps three acres, an inconsequential shallow pool with a bottom of thick muck.

Except that an official car stood before the Holt house, the scene was as we had left it half an hour before.

"Coroner's medical examiner is on the job at last," diagnosed Bray. "Well, I don't need him in my business and it's a holy cinch he don't need me. What we do need is some kind of headquarters—some place where we can keep track of what goes on, if anything, and yet not be too much in the picture. He glanced appreciably back and forth of the bowery street. "Let's try that garage down yonder on the next block on the other side of the street."

The manager of the garage was a friendly young chap. He was very much concerned over the tragedy. He knew Mr. Holt, he said, and he offered to turn his whole establishment over to us, but Bray told him that occasional access to his telephone, which was in a cubby-hole of an office, and the use of a chair apiece for us would be about all we required.

"I'll call up one party right away if you don't mind," he added. "I want to give him this number so he can reach me."

"Go to it, Sergeant," said the garage man. "The outfit's yours."

Through the rest of the forenoon we sat, Bray and I, on hard chairs of our host's providing, in front of the shop. The Coroner's car went away and an undertaker's black wagon arrived and somebody hung a crepe streamer on a pillar of the veranda. A belated newspaper photographer took pictures of the exterior of the house and was re-refused, we figured, when he tried to carry his camera indoors. Twice there were telephone calls for Bray.

At noon the garage owner's assistant, a youth in overalls, was supplied with funds and he went off somewhere and returned with sandwiches for us and coffee in paper containers. He also brought with him copies of early editions of the afternoon papers. Between bites and sips, we each read a paper. We both noticed one small but significant late item. . . .

Feathered Star Quilt Pattern

BEAUTIFUL quilts, just like the Feathered Star No. 254, illustrated above, repose in many a scrap bag, somewhere in your attic. Patchwork quilts make a beautiful bedroom, and the old favorites are being eagerly recycled by the modern homemaker. Willy Nilly Explains.

"WHOEVER heard," began the man with the gun, "of a bear allowed to roam across the bowery street. Let's try that garage down yonder on the next block on the other side of the street."

"None of your explanations will be of any use," said the man. "Please give me a chance to speak," Willy Nilly begged.

"Go ahead and speak," said the man.

"Jelly Bear had come up to Willy Nilly and had put his arm around him and had given him a very sticky lick."

"I'll go far, far away if it will help you," Jelly Bear whispered to Willy Nilly.

"You have a kind of magic way with the animals," the man said to see Jelly Bear with Willy Nilly.

"But that doesn't make it any safer for us and for our children. The bear might not hurt you, but he wouldn't hesitate to hurt us."

"Are you PLEASE going to give me a chance to speak?" Willy Nilly begged, and the man nodded.

"Jelly Bear doesn't mean to be a thief. He has been asleep all winter, and now it is springtime, and he needs food and nourishment."

"Oh, yes," scoffed the man. "I suppose you think we should all supply him with food."

"No," said Willy Nilly. "I don't mean that. But he found trees with pails of sap. He didn't know they belonged to people."

"Where can a bear go for food if not into fields and woods? He has no money and can't go to market or buy orchards."

Willy Nilly Explains.

"WHETHER heard," began the man with the gun, "of a bear allowed to roam around like this. Why, he's dangerous, and he has stolen sap from our maple trees."

"Please let me explain," urged Willy Nilly.

"None of your explanations will be of any use," said the man. "Please give me a chance to speak." Willy Nilly begged.

"Go ahead and speak," said the man.

Jelly Bear had come up to Willy Nilly and had put his arm around him and had given him a very sticky lick.

"You have a kind of magic way with the animals," the man said as he saw Jelly Bear with Willy Nilly.

"But that doesn't make it any safer for us and for our children. The Bear might not hurt you, but he wouldn't hesitate to hurt us."

"Are you PLEASE going to give me a chance to speak?" Willy Nilly begged, and the man nodded.

"In the first place," said Willy Nilly, "this Bear does not mean to be a thief. He has been asleep all winter, and now it is springtime, and he needs food and nourishment."

"Oh, yes," scoffed the man. "I suppose you think we should all supply him with food."

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

For Saturday, March 18.

EXTRA! First of nine generally good days (till the 26th). Go to it and win. But don't forget to keep motives right, and that there is no success without action. Today: routine morning and early afternoon. Then ahead wisely. Success.

Are you contented? Probably not. That means there are a few minor details in your success picture, that have not yet been completely filled in. In other words, thank goodness, you still have something to work for. If you over arrive at the point where you don't have to work, by the way, my best wish for you is that you don't get it out and keep right on, for the love of doing things. In working for the improvement of your success picture, remember the things we have been talking about here all this week; and pay close attention to what will be discussed next week in this paragraph. Make your objective a good one, one that will help you AND others. Part of true success is that it be mutually enjoyed by more than one person. Plan that way.

Your Year Ahead.

Most of the troubles, if any, that happen in your vicinity during the coming 12 months will have something to do with your own foolishness (also if any), if this is your birthday. In other words, you have a good year; make it count. Go after what you are sure you deserve; you can get it. Watch law, be careful, in July and August. Danger: Nov. 9 to 16; and March 8 to 16, 1934.

Tomorrow.

Make the most of the opportunities that come your way; prepare for the best.

one time, flavoring with chocolate another, and it is equally delicious when grated lemon rind and lemon juice is used.

DOGS GO BEGGING ON 2 LEGS!

Nature provided them with four for a reason. It's a law of balance... and applies to radio tubes as well as to automobiles, chairs, tables, even ourselves. Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar Tubes last because the vital elements are properly supported.

If YOU could count them, you'd be up in the millions before you summed up all the vibrations your radio gives (and takes) in an evening's performance. And tubes stand the brunt of this. No wonder radio experts find the most frequent cause of poor reception to be defective tubes. Supported on only two legs the delicate vital elements naturally become unbalanced.

But not in Eveready Raytheons! Because Eveready Raytheons have patented 4-pillar support—four sturdy pillars instead of two, as in all other tubes, firmly guarding balance. Chairs have four legs. So do tables. Even we couldn't stand firmly upright without the four-square support of heel, toe, heel, toe. These two extra pillars in Eveready Raytheons cost you no more. Yet with them you get protection against jolts, jars and vibration—which means surer, better reception and longer tube life. See the Eveready Raytheon Tube dealer in your neighborhood. He will gladly give you a demonstration.

CONTINUOUS SESSION TO FINISH 'NEW DEAL' MAY 1

Leaders in Congress Reach Agreement With President, Who, at First, Thought That a Recess
Would Be Necessary.

FARM AND JOBLESS RELIEF UNDER WAY

Then Will Be Presented Railroad, Banking and Other Legislation Contemplated in Executive's Program.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 18.—Congress is going to keep at work on President Roosevelt's "new deal" until about May 1. That is the agreement between congressional leaders and the President, who has decided he can draft the remainder of his suggestions rapidly enough for the national legislature to have something to work on.

Originally, Mr. Roosevelt thought a short recess might be necessary after the emergency program was enacted.

By early next week, the President will make laws of two more of his emergency ideas—beer and economy. Next he expects his farm bill and a temporary employment relief measure. Then are to follow railroad, banking, further employment and other legislation as conditions require.

With the economy and beer measures and the already enacted bank reorganization, the new administration will have finished its first step, which was an attempt at budget balancing.

It is not contemplated just now that new taxes will be needed. The hope is that the $125,000,000 to $150-000,000 revenue from beer and increased receipts from existing higher taxes added to the contemplated $500,000,000 reduction in expenses through the economy bill and reorganizations will enable the Government to pay as it goes.

Some of the other legislation to be suggested is taking form. When Congress reconvenes after its weekend recess, the President will submit his initial employment program, which will propose authorization of a reforestation program to give work to 200,000. When that is enacted there will follow the broader employment scheme proposing public works and further provision for direct relief.

A start is being made, too, on banking legislation. This will have as a primary object the separation of banking institutions from investment houses and to prevent speculation with deposits.

Chairman Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee yesterday introduced a bill to repeal the recapture clause, let the Interstate Commerce Commission regulate railroad holding companies and bus transportation and consolidate the power and radio commissions.

$1400 HIDDEN IN FLOOR OF STORE TAKEN BY BURGLARS

Money Secreted in Cigar Box in Market at 5656 Easton Avenue.

About $1400 in cash was stolen from the Public Market, 5656 Easton avenue, by burglars who entered the basement through a loading chute last night and then broke out the panel of a door.
Angelo Gaia, proprietor of the market, said the burglars took $400 from the cash drawer and the bulk of the money from a cigar box secreted in the floor of the cashier's cage. The store was closed at 1 o'clock last night and the loss discovered at 7 a. m. today. The money was not insured.

sian, Danish, Polish, French, Dutch,

News item says—Arlen Wado, of 1113 Putnam ave., and Katherine Hoff, of 216 Eldert st., Brooklyn, will be united in marriage in a den of lions Saturday night at the local Moose hall.

A couple that's brave enough to get married these days naturally wouldn't be afraid of a few lions. After a few bouts with rent collectors, they'll wish they were back in that nice comfortable lions' den.

THAT'S TELLING 'EM

(Port Huron Free Press.)
A communication signed "A Reader and Citizen" and charging criminal violations of bootlegging, etc., lies in this office. It was sent in for publication, but the party who makes the charges did not even sign his name. A newspaper cannot assume responsibility unless it has ample proof, and the editor is not going to hang around a joint looking for evidence.

Observes Genevieve, the kitchen cynic:

The average gal ain't convinced that a dress brings out her personality unless it brings out crowds."

And a conservative is a guy who's in favor of all the radical changes made ten years ago.
